GERMANY BLOCKADED AS BRITAIN AND FRANCE DECLARE WAR; DEFEND POLAND

Warsaw Hails News of Help by Paris and London.

WARSAW, Sept. 3 (AP).—Tremendous crowds enacted memorable scenes of enthusiasm today when they learned of British-French declarations of war that brought the assistance of powerful allies in the war against Germany.

The scenes still were in progress all over Poland tonight despite grim reminders of war already in progress. It took repeated radio warnings against possible air attacks to clear the streets of wildly cheering and singing crowds.

Women pelted flowers at Foreign Minister Josef Beck and British Ambassador Sir Howard Kennard when they stepped forth on the balcony of the British embassy.

Fight Side by Side.

"Long live Poland," said Sir Howard in Polish. "We will fight side by side against aggression and injustice."

Beck told the crowd that "Britain and Poland have locked hands in a fight for freedom and justice."

"Britain will not be disappointed in Poland and Poland will not be disappointed in Britain," he declared.

The automobile of a British military attaché literally was deluged with flowers as it was driven along a street.

In their enthusiasm the crowds gathered around even the neutral embassies, including that of America, where they chanted "Long live the United States."

Charge Use of Gas.

Even as the crowd celebrated, however, the grim business of war continued. The Warsaw radio station broadcast an air raid warning and said the German planes dropped "something looking like candy" over Vilna, but added that it actually was poisonous chemical.

[Another dispatch reported that the Polish foreign office had announced that German planes were dropping hyperite gas on civilian populations and "brutally bombing and machine-gunning crowds of women and children fleeing in terror from attacked cities."]

An official communique said the town hall and Bank of Poland buildings were destroyed during air bombing yesterday at Piotrkow in Lodz province. The railway station was partly destroyed at Kalisz, a town burned by the Germans in 1914.

200 Killed in One City.

It was officially stated that more than 200 were killed and twenty-three houses were destroyed in heavy bombing at Bydgoszcz Friday and yesterday. A general staff communique issued earlier said the Germans had lost thirty-seven warplanes in the first two days of fighting and Poland had lost twelve.

Again, the communique said, Germans showed no regard for absence of military objectives in their bombing raids. It said thirty persons, including five children, were killed and fifty-eight injured in a bombardment at Lublin.

[Exchange Telegraph, a British news agency, in a dispatch yesterday from Warsaw, quoted a Polish supreme command communique as follows: "During the day the German air force carried out raids on numerous unfortified towns, including Warsaw, Deblin, Radom, and Cracow. Near Radom and Cracow twenty-six enemy aircraft were brought down. The total number brought down today was sixty-four. The Polish losses amounted to eleven machines." Exchange Telegraph also said the German radio had announced that the German army had crossed the river Warthe [Varta] this morning east of Wielun in southwestern Poland. The town of Berend, thirty-two miles southwest of Danzig, was reported captured. A broadcast from Warsaw, received in Copenhagen, said the Poles were retreating in upper Selisia. Westerplatte, Polish munitions dump in Danzig harbor, was reported still holding out against German attacks.]

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 4 (Monday) (AP).—The French war ministry announced today operations of "the entire land, naval, and air forces" have begun. The ministry's "communique No. 1"—marking the actual opening of hostilities in the French and British war against Germany—was issued at 5:30 a. m. Chicago time. It said simply: "Operations have begun, involving the entire land, naval and air forces." Shortly before 11 a. m., French heavy bombers flew low over the capital, heading eastward toward the German frontier.

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3 (Special). — The British government has ordered a naval blockade of Germany, according to information reaching officials here tonight. It was understood here that the naval blockade went into effect immediately upon the declaration of war this morning and that British naval vessels were blocking the entrance to the Baltic sea near Skagerrak and were stretched across the North sea.

BULLETIN.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Sept. 3 (AP).—Planes of an unknown nationality were reported tonight to have been seen flying north of The Netherlands, outside of the three mile territorial limit.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Great Britain and France went to war against Germany today. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announcement of the momentous decision was followed quickly by a series of fast moving acts to place the nation on a wartime basis.

The announcement came fifteen minutes after the expiration of an 11 a. m. [5 a. m. Chicago time] ultimatum to the Nazi government to withdraw from invaded Poland.

France joined her old ally just five minutes after her own 5 p. m. [11 a. m. Chicago time] deadline passed without a reply from Hitler.

Speaks in Faltering Voice.

In a weary voice that sometimes faltered, Chamberlain announced Britain's fateful decision in a broadcast to the empire. He was followed by King George VI., who broadcast an appeal to his subjects to stand fast in the hour of conflict.

Prime Minister Chamberlain immediately formed a new wartime government which took in former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden as dominions secretary and which included Winston Churchill as first lord of the admiralty, a position he also held during the war of 1914-'18.

Hankey a Veteran.

Lord Hankey was a right hand man to Premier David Lloyd George during the world war. He is known as the "man of a thousand secrets." He is 62 years old.

Eden, who broke with Chamberlain over the prime minister's former policy of appeasement, technically will not be a part of the wartime cabinet, but it was announced that "in order that the dominions secretary may be in the best position to maintain contact between the war cabinet and the dominions, Eden will have special access to the cabinet."

The new ministry assembled for the first time tonight. Changes in ministerial posts not within the war cabinet included:

Lord president of the council, Earl Stanhope; lord chancellor, Sir Thomas Inskip; secretary for home affairs

Fateful Statements of World Leaders

Explain Nations' Stands on European War

Chamberlain

LONDON, Sept. 3 [Delayed by Censor] (AP).—The following is the text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's radio proclamation that Great Britain is at war with Germany:

British Premier Chamberlain.

"This morning the British ambassador in Berlin handed to the German government a final note stating that unless we heard from them by 11 o'clock [5 a. m. Chicago time] that they were preparing at once to withdraw their troops from Poland, a state of war would exist between us.

"I have to tell you now that no such undertaking has been received and in consequence this country is at war with Germany.

"You can imagine what a bitter blow it is to me that all my long struggle to win peace has failed.

Tried Every Way to Save Peace.

"Yet I cannot believe that there is anything more or anything different that I could have done that would have been more successful.

"Up to the very last it would have been possible to arrange a peaceful and honorable settlement between Germany and Poland, but Hitler would not have it.

"He had evidently made up his mind to attack Poland whatever happened, and although he now says that he put forward reasonable proposals which were rejected by the Poles, that is not a true statement.

"The proposals were never shown to the Poles nor to us, and although they were announced in the German broadcast on Thursday night, Hitler did not wait to hear comment on them but ordered his troops to cross the Polish frontier the next morning.

Can Only Be Stopped by Force.

"His action shows convincingly that there is no chance of expecting that this man ever will give up his intention of using force to gain his will.

"And he can only be stopped by force.

"We and France are today in fulfilment of our obligations going to the aid of Poland who is so bravely resisting this wicked and unprovoked attack on her people.

"We have a clear conscience.

"We have done all that any country could do to establish peace. But a situation in which no word given by Germany's ruler could be trusted and no people or country could feel itself safe has become intolerable.

"And now we have resolved to finish it. I know you will all play your part with calm courage. At such a moment as this the assurances of support we have received from the empire are a source of profound encouragement to us.

"When I have finished speaking

Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 [Special]. —Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address broadcast to the nation and the world tonight on the European war:

President Roosevelt making address. [A. P. wirephoto.]

"Tonight my single duty is to speak to the whole of America.

"Until 4:30 this morning I had hoped against hope that some miracle would prevent a devastating war in Europe and bring to an end the invasion of Poland by Germany.

"For four long years a succession of actual wars and constant crises have shaken the entire world and have threatened in each case to bring on the gigantic conflict which is today unhappily a fact.

Points to Series of Crises.

"It is right that I should recall to your minds the consistent and at times successful efforts of your government in these crises to throw the full weight of the United States into the cause of peace. In spite of spreading wars I think that we have every right and every reason to maintain as a national policy the fundamental moralities, the teachings of religion and the continuation of efforts to restore peace—for some day, though the time may be distant, we can be of even greater help to a crippled humanity.

"It is right, too, to point out that the unfortunate events of these recent years have been based on the use of force or the threat of force. And it seems to me clear, even at the outbreak of this great war, that the influence of America should be consistent in seeking for humanity a final peace which eliminates, as far as it is possible to do so, the continued use of force between nations.

Makes No Predictions.

"It is, of course, impossible to predict the future. I have my constant stream of information from American representatives and other sources throughout the world. You, the people of this country, are receiving news through your radios and your newspapers at every hour of the day.

"You are, I believe, the most enlightened and the best informed people in all the world at this moment. You are subjected to no censorship of news, and I want to add

Hitler

German Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

"For centuries England has pursued her aim to make European peoples defenseless in the face of the British policy of world conquest by proclaiming a balance of powers according to which England claimed the right to attack and destroy, on threadbare pretext, the European states which from time to time appeared most dangerous.

"Thus it once combated Spanish world power, later Holland, then the French and, since 1871, Germany. We ourselves were witnesses to England's encirclement fight against the Germany of pre-war time.

"British Encirclement."

"Just as the German reich under National Socialist [Nazi] leadership began to recover from the terrible effects of the Versailles dictate and threatened to overcome the crisis, British encirclement immediately set in again.

"British war agitators before the world war lied that their battle concerned only the house of Hohenzollerns of German militarism, that they had no designs on German colonies, that they did not intend to take our commercial fleet from us, and then they forced the German people under the Versailles dictate.

"Faithful fulfillment of this dictate would have exterminated, sooner or later, twenty million Germans. I undertook to mobilize the resistance of the German nation against that and again to guarantee German people work and bread.

Assails War Agitators.

"However in proportion as the peaceful revision of the Versailles dictate of force appeared to succeed and the German people again began to live, the new English encirclement policy began. The same war agitators as before 1914 went to work.

"Innumerable times I have offered England and the English people agreement and the friendship of the German people. My entire policy was built up on the thought of this understanding.

"I was constantly repulsed by hypocritical declarations. Always new pretexts were sought to cramp the German space of living [lebensraum] and there were attempts, although we never threatened British interests, to make our life difficult and even throttle it.

"England induced Poland to that attitude, which made peaceful understanding impossible. Through its guarantee declaration it gave the Polish government the prospect of pro-

ATHENIA HIT 200 MILES WEST OF HEBRIDES ISLES

Other Vessels Rescue Survivors; News Is Flashed to Roosevelt by Ambassador Kennedy.

BULLETIN.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 4 (Monday) (AP).—All persons aboard the sunken British liner Athenia, except some killed by a German torpedo, were reported saved today. An agent of the ship's owners here issued the report. He said all survivors had been picked up by other vessels. Reports from Stockholm, Sweden, said 800 persons had been rescued by the Norwegian ship Knud Nelson and 200 by the Swedish yacht Southern Cross.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (Monday) (A. P.).—The British liner Athenia was torpedoed and sunk today with 1,100 passengers aboard, including a number of Americans and a crew of 320.

The ministry of information said the 13,581 ton ship reported to the admiralty she had been torpedoed 200 miles off the Hebrides, west of northern Scotland.

A total of 101 Americans boarded the Athenia at Liverpool and another 145 at Glasgow, making a known total of 246 Americans on the liner. The ship also stopped at Belfast, where 46 more Americans were reported to have gone aboard, but this could not be verified.

The Athenia was bound for Montreal, Canada.

Inform Roosevelt of Sinking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (Monday). — The White House announced last night President Roosevelt had been advised officially that the steamship Athenia, carrying some 1,400 refugees from Europe, had been torpedoed off the northern coast of Ireland and was sinking rapidly.

Later the state department received the following dispatch from Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London:

"Admiralty unable as yet to indicate whether Athenia has sunk or rescue arrangements. One hundred one American citizens embarked in her at Liverpool. Some embarked at Glasgow, but number not yet ascertained. Have been in touch with consuls there, who will advise as early as possible."

Early Issues Statement.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early issued the following announcement:

"The President just received, after the broadcast (Mr. Roosevelt's radio speech) tonight, an official dispatch that the steamship Athenia, carrying some 1,400 passengers, mostly Canadians and some Americans, had been torpedoed off the north coast of Ireland and was sinking rapidly. The secretary (Early) would like to point out that, according to the official information, the Athenia was en route from Glasgow and Liverpool, bound for Montreal, Canada, bringing refugees home."

Await Fuller Reports.

The maritime commission office here said that "apparently there were a great many Americans aboard the Athenia." Officials of the commission were on duty far past midnight awaiting fuller reports of the torpedoing.

It was asserted in White House quarters that the ship could not have been carrying munitions of war to Europe, as it was en route to Canada.

In an earlier communication to the state department, Ambassador Kennedy cabled the following an-

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 4 [Monday].—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler today was on his way to lead his Nazi armies in battle against Poland.

Hitler yesterday broadcast an appeal to Germany in which he accused Great Britain of encircling Germany to further British ambitions of world domination.

He rejected ultimatums of Britain and France demanding he withdraw his forces from Poland and received their declarations of war.

Starts for East Front.

Then Hitler, in army uniform, started for the east front to join his soldiers shortly after 10 p. m. [4 p. m. Sunday, Chicago time]. His limousine had shaded sidelights while the city was in a complete blackout. Secrecy was maintained concerning what part of the front Hitler would visit.

Germany is trying to break through Poland as rapidly as possible to establish contact with Russia and be able to draw on the vast economic resources of the Nazis new partner in a nonaggression pact. Officials asserted they were confident that the German army would be able to open an outlet into Russia proper within four weeks at the most.

Capture Three Towns.

Army headquarters reported that German troops had taken Berent [Koscierzyma], a small, but militarily important town, thirty-two miles southwest of Danzig; had captured the important city of Czestochowa [Czenstochau] near the Upper Silesian industrial region; had crossed the Warta river east of Wielun, and had captured Radomsk. Czestochow is a rail center on the Warta river and is a Polish religious shrine.

The headquarters reported that German troops were "swiftly advancing on all fronts, deep into Polish territory."

A heavy Polish artillery bombardment of Schomberg, a suburb of Beuthen, on the Silesian frontier, was reported. The shelling of this densely populated workers' town had not abated since Friday, it was said, and considerable damage resulted.

A military communique said that an attempt of Polish troops cut off in the Polish corridor north of Chelmo to break through had been "frustrated."

Deutsches Nachrichtenburo [D. N.

"Report Steamship Athenia, Donaldson line, torpedoed 200 miles off Maylin Head with 1,400 passengers aboard. S. O. S. received. Ship sinking fast."

Presumably Overloaded.

The Athenia left Liverpool on Saturday. It was a middle sized liner which ordinarily would carry fewer passengers than the 1,400 reported aboard. It presumably was overloaded, with many passengers sleeping on cots as on other ships carrying war refugees from Europe.

Well known in the Glasgow-Montreal trade, the Athenia was owned by the Donaldson Atlantic Line, Ltd., a firm associated with the Cunard-White Star Line. The Athenia is 526 feet long and was built in 1923 at Glasgow. She has a breadth of 66 feet and a depth of 38 feet.

Not a Luxury Liner.

The Athenia was not a luxury ship but is what is known as an intermediate type. It had cabin, tourist, and third class passengers, and also carried considerable freight.

It was renovated only last winter and this spring at a cost of $200,000. It made its first crossing after renovation in May. The liner replaced the Athenia which was torpedoed during the world war.

A New York representative of the Cunard-White Star company said last night that information concerning the Athenia was received as a rule only at the Montreal office of the line. At the same time, however, he suggested that the Americans reported aboard the stricken ship might be in part passengers who had been left aboard by the earlier cancelation of the scheduled sailings of two Anchor Line ships, the California and the Caledonia.

Montreal reported shortly after the announcement of the torpedoing that no information concerning the ship had been received there. At Ottawa, government authorities also said that no information had yet been received.

Recalls Lusitania Disaster.

Reports of the Athenia disaster immediately recalled to administration officials the sinking of the steamship Lusitania by a German submarine off the Head of Kinsale, Ireland, on May 7, 1915. A total of 1,195 lives were lost in the Lusitania disaster, including 124 Americans.

The sinking of the Lusitania was one of the provocative incidents which inflamed American opinion against Germany before the United States entered the world war in 1917.

The United States neutrality act, which President Roosevelt is expected to invoke shortly, prohibits travel on belligerent ships by American citizens. It does not apply, however, to citizens traveling on a vessel whose voyage was begun before the invocation of the act, nor to citizens returning to the United States within 90 days of the proclamation of the act.

Thus the act would not have affected the Americans on the Athenia had it been in operation.

FEAR CHICAGOANS ABOARD.

Gus Anderson, a professional tour conductor who has guided many residents of Chicago and the north shore through Europe, is believed to have been on the torpedoed steamship Athenia. Cunard line officials were expecting that he might return on the Athenia, and a Gus Anderson was on the official list of those who embarked at Liverpool.

Anderson went to Europe June 22 with a party that included Mrs. James Coon, Miss Eleanor Coon, Miss Gertrude Sanford, Miss Doris Kent, Kenneth McDonald, and Richard Troxell, all of the Evanston vicinity. Cunard officials said they believed all of the party but Anderson had already returned. He remained behind in England. Anderson lived at the Acacia fraternity house at Northwestern university when in Evanston. He is a Northwestern law school graduate.

Relatives feared that a number of Chicagoans were on the Athenia.

Among those for whom anxiety was felt were Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin, wife of Francis E. Baldwin of the law firm of Albert H. and Henry Veeder, general counsel for Swift & Co., and their son, Robert, 22 years old. The Baldwins live at 359 Hazel street, Highland Park. When last heard from, they were in Glasgow, planning to return to the United States as soon as possible.

Friends were alarmed at the possibility that Dr. and Mrs. Emil R. Zidek of 1369 Huron street were on the ship. Dr. Zidek, a physician, has been engaged in post-graduate study in Europe.

Feared Passengers on Ship

5,408 SHIPS SUNK IN WORLD WAR BY GERMAN U-BOATS

But First Sea Blow Wasn't Struck for 3 Months!

The torpedoing of the British ship Athenia last night grimly recalled the horrors and the havoc created by German submarines during the world war.

But, in that war, Germany waited until October, almost three months after the start of hostilities, before it sank an enemy merchant ship. In startling contrast, the Athenia was torpedoed only a few hours after the formal declarations of war. What this might presage could only be guessed last night.

Incidentally, the Athenia's predecessor of the same name was sunk early in the world war.

5,408 Ships Sunk in War.

Figures vary, but a closely accurate estimate places the total number of ships sunk by submarines between 1914 and 1918 at 5,408. The gross tonnage of these ships was estimated at 11,189,000.

Mines sank countless other vessels. Hardly a country sailing the seas escaped loss. Great Britain, of course, suffered most. One figure places British losses from both submarines and mines at 5,612 ships. These included all types of craft from fishing schooners to mighty battleships.

Many Big Liners Sunk.

Most of the vessels sunk were merchant ships, 1,290 being in the neutral merchant ship category, but many were combination merchant-passenger ships and luxury liners.

Among the more important merchant vessels and liners destroyed by torpedoes or mines, or damaged without sinking, in the world war were the following:

THE GLITRA, Oct. 20, 1914, no lives lost. [Significant because this was the first merchant ship sunk].

THE ANCONA, Nov. 7, 1915, with loss of 206.

THE PERSIA, Dec. 30, 1915, with a loss of 335.

THE MERCURY, May, 1916, 400 lives lost.

THE BRITANNIC, Nov. 21, 1916, 50 lost.

THE SANTA ANNA, May 10, 1918, 638 lives lost.

THE LACONIA, Feb. 25, 1917, 12 lost.

Among other ships sunk, according to Cunard line statements, were the Franconia, the Transylvania, the Carpathia, and the Alaunia.

The wanton sinking of merchant ships carrying women and children, many of them nationals of neutral countries, aroused world opinion against Germany. The sinking of the Lusitania and the Sussex particularly caused indignation. President Wilson demanded that Germany abandon its "present methods of submarine warfare." For a time the number of submarine attacks declined.

Try to Starve England.

But the undersea warfare opened with redoubled fury in February, 1917, when Germany attempted a last desperate move to starve out England. The United States was warned her ships could not penetrate certain waters except at their own peril. This widened the breach between Germany and America.

In one day, on April 19, submarines sank 19 ships. In one month—May—they sank 303. During this "unrestricted" attack in 1917, U-boats sank 1,134 boats. Against this the allies destroyed 75 submarines.

FIRST WAR PRISONER IS SHIP STEWARDESS AND GLAD TO BE HELD

New York, Sept. 3 (AP).—Fraulein Helen Mutterer, 27 years old, was the first prisoner of war taken in custody by Britain in New York harbor today. She said she was glad to be a prisoner.

Fraulein Mutterer, a German citizen, was taken off the Cunard-White Star liner Georgic where she had worked for five years as an interpreting stewardess, and started back to England in the brig of the Cunard liner Carinthia.

"She is technically a prisoner," said Capt. W. C. Battle as the Carinthia slipped out to sea wearing a new camouflage of mud-gray, and heavily laden with cargo, but with only seventy-three passengers.

Ship's officers said the blonde fraulein was one of the most beautiful stewardesses ever to sail, and described her as of excellent rating and character. "She's just unlucky enough to be a German," said Chief Steward Thomas Brennan. He quoted her as saying, "I would rather be going to an English prison camp than be returning to Germany."

BRITAIN CALLS 2 ANTI-APPEASERS TO WAR CABINET

Churchill and Eden Long Foes of Dictators.

In her hour of need, Great Britain yesterday called to its wartime cabinet two outspoken foes of appeasement—the policy which the government had followed until the last moment in a futile effort to stave off war.

They are Winston Churchill and Capt. Anthony Eden. Churchill becomes first lord of the admiralty, the same post he held for a time during the world war. Eden, former foreign secretary, becomes dominions secretary. Churchill and Eden are two of the best known men in British political life.

Helped Capture Khartoum.

Churchill was born Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill Nov. 30, 1874, the son of Lord Randolph Churchill and the former Jennie Jerome of New York. After an academic and military education, he joined the army in 1895. He resigned in 1898 to go to Cuba as a correspondent with the Spanish forces during the Spanish-American war. Then he hastened to Egypt, and took part in the capture of Khartoum. The Boer war in 1899 found him as a correspondent in South Africa. He gave this up for military service, but was captured by the Boers.

He escaped a month later, returned to England. In 1900 he was elected to parliament. His political sagacity soon won him national recognition. In 1908 he was made president of the board of trade, his first cabinet appointment. In 1911 he became first lord of the admiralty. He fell with the first war cabinet in 1915 then went to France and fought in the trenches.

Churchill was called back home in 1917 to become minister of munitions. In succeeding years he was appointed secretary for war and air minister. He was out of political life for a period after 1922, and resumed his writing career.

Saw Four Years in War.

A more direct foe of dictators was Capt. Eden. He was born Robert Anthony Eden on June 12, 1897, the son of Sir William Eden. His was a typical aristocratic education. Essentially Eden was—and is—a scholar. He saw the maximum of war action—four years at the front with the King's Rifle corps. Before he was 21 he was made a brigade major.

In 1923, at 26 years of age, he entered parliament. In the following years he served in secretarial positions to the home and foreign secretaries, and later won promotion to undersecretary of foreign affairs.

Eden's abilities in foreign diplomatic fields won him appointment as lord privy seal and as a sort of roving foreign secretary. In 1935 he attempted to dissuade Premier Mussolini of Italy from going ahead with his announced plans to grab Ethiopia. He failed; Mussolini, it was said, took an intense dislike to him.

Opposite Policies Prevail.

Meanwhile, however, the British government was adopting opposite policies from those urged by Eden—policies of appeasement. These reached the point where France and Great Britain virtually agreed to give Mussolini part of Ethiopia to stop the war. Public opinion condemned the deal, and Sir Samuel Hoare, then foreign secretary, was removed from the cabinet.

Eden was appointed in his place. He was then only 38, the youngest foreign secretary since 1851. When the Spanish civil war broke out in 1936, Eden bluntly warned Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler of Germany not to participate. But Eden had to contend with the appeasement supporters who didn't want to irritate the dictators. As a result, Eden was forced to resign in February, 1938.

BOTH HITLER AND BRITISH APPEAL FOR GOD'S FAVOR

Leaders of Europe's warring nations yesterday called upon God to bless their peoples and to lead their armies to victory.

Said Adolf Hitler: "If our people . . . fulfills its highest duty, the Lord God, who always has given His grace to him who was determined to help himself, will also stand by us."

Said Prime Minister Chamberlain: "May God bless you all and may He defend the right."

Said King George VI. of Great Britain: " . . . we can only do the right as we see the right and reverently commit our cause to God. If one and all we keep resolutely faithful to it . . . then, with God's help, we shall prevail. May He bless and keep us all."

President's "Impertinent" Hint of War Is Recalled

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—Waving farewell to a crowd from the rear platform of his train at Warm Springs, Ga., on a Sunday in early April, President Roosevelt said: "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war." The President's remark drew wide attention, both in this country and abroad. One German newspaper termed it "impertinent."

Crowded Airliner Flies Into Attack by Bombers

BUCHAREST, Sept. 3 (AP). — A crowded Rumanian passenger plane ran by mischance today into a German bombing attack on an airdrome at Lwow, Poland, and fled back to Bucharest undamaged. The ship's regular run is to Warsaw.

BRITISH DECLARE WAR ON HITLER; REVISE CABINET

Eden, Churchill Named by Chamberlain.

King Approves Appointments.

The king tonight approved appointment of Lord Gort as commander in chief of the British field forces, Maj. Gen. Sir Edmund Ironsides as chief of the imperial defense staff, and Sir Walter Kirke as commander in chief of the home forces.

The admiralty announced that the duke of Kent, youngest brother of King George, had taken up a war appointment the nature of which was not disclosed.

Another communique said Britain had commissioned armed merchant ships as auxiliary cruisers and has provided convoys for her merchant shipping around the world.

"The royal navy is fully mobilized and at its war stations in full strength, supplemented by a number of fully commissioned armed merchant ships as auxiliary cruisers," the communique said.

Expect Empire's Help.

Colonial and dominion circles said they expected virtually all parts of the wide spread empire to give full coöperation to the "mother country."

It was to this empire that King George broadcast his appeal.

"We have been forced into a conflict," said the slender, youthful appearing monarch. "We are called with our allies to meet the challenge of a principle which, if it were to prevail, would be fatal to any civilized order in the world."

The monarch was alone in a room at Buckingham palace as he spoke. Queen Elizabeth listened from another room.

Europe in Conflict.

Britain's declaration came to Europe girded for conflict with the greatest armament the world has ever known.

As Mr. Chamberlain read the radio proclamation, he closed with the prayer:

"May God bless you all and may He defend the right."

The prime minister assured his people that Britain had done her utmost to the end to arrange "a peaceful and honorable settlement," but "Herr Hitler would not have it."

"Consequently, we are at war with Germany," he said.

"He had evidently made up his mind to attack Poland no matter what happened," Chamberlain said of Hitler. He said the German Fuehrer evidently had not even shown his proposals to the Polish government, and that Britain's ultimatum had passed without reply, so a state of war existed.

Chamberlain said the people of Poland "were so bravely resisting this wicked and unprovoked attack."

France, the prime minister said, was joining Britain in fulfilling her pledges to protect Poland's independence, and "we have a clear conscience."

Hopes Right Will Prevail.

"You may be taking your part in the fighting services," Chamberlain told Britons. He said they may be in trenches or in transports or in other necessary services.

After making this appeal, Chamberlain went into the house of commons officially to inform the members that Britain now was at war with Germany. Chamberlain spoke of the German government's refusal to accept the British ultimatum that Nazi troops be withdrawn from Polish soil. He closed his address by saying he hoped he would see the day when "Hitlerism has been destroyed and a restored and liberated Europe has been reëstablished."

Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax announced German Chargé d'Affaires Theodore Kordt had been handed his passports.

[The German ambassador to London has been absent from his post for some time and was reported on vacation in Germany. Both the German and French ambassadors took their leave of Berlin in formal calls on German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.]

Britons took the news that war finally had arrived with apparent calm. Small groups strolled the streets as on an ordinary Sunday, laughing and joking.

The only difference was that many carried gas masks slung over their shoulders, and army trucks sped through the streets carrying troops and equipment. Scarcely had Chamberlain completed his radio broadcast before a general air raid warning sounded.

A False Alarm.

Crowds rushed to shelters and the streets remained deserted for half an hour. The air ministry later issued a communique explaining the warning was given when an unidentified plane was sighted off the south coast, but that it was identified afterward as a friendly craft and the all-clear signal was given.

Later in the day the ministry of information announced the removal of mothers and children from danger areas in Scotland had been completed. The last of 143,600 were sent from Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, Rosyth, and Clydebank. Up to last night 485,900 had been removed from Scotland cities.

War restrictions to conserve Britain's financial resources will be put in effect tomorrow. A ban will be placed on new capital issues and on export of bank notes, gold, securities, and foreign exchange, except with treasury permission. Holders of gold and foreign exchange, including American dollars, will be required to offer them for sale to the treasury.

The postoffice savings banks and other savings banks will be closed tomorrow only to "complete measures for adapting themselves to the emergency." The stock exchange announced it would reopen "as soon as possible." Trading was discontinued Friday.

BANK HOLIDAY CALLED FOR TODAY IN BALTIC STATES; TRADE CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 3.—A bank holiday for tomorrow was declared for the Baltic states after England and France declared war today.

All countries of northern Europe had their currencies pegged to the pound, which has fallen sharply the last two days. Britons reaching Riga from Stockholm complained that Swedish banks and exchange offices compelled them to purchase dollars with their pounds before selling them Swedish kroners. This forced the Britons to take a loss.

The war has cut off the Baltic states from England, their best customer. Shipping has practically halted in the Baltic sea and Germans continue to give warnings as to which areas contain new mine fields.

POLISH SOLDIERS STILL DEFY NAZI ATTACK ON FORT

DANZIG, Sept. 3 (AP).—After three days of bombardment from sea and air, a little Polish garrison still held the Westerplatte munitions dump and fort in Danzig harbor tonight. The Polish soldiers were making a heroic defense within the red-walled property located on a peninsula jutting out into the harbor. They were still there at 11:30 p. m. tonight [5:30 p. m., Chicago time]. Thirty airplanes dropped between 50 and 60 bombs on the Westerplatte yesterday, but the Poles still retaliated with machine gun fire.

A battle which cost approximately twenty lives occurred Friday and Saturday in Danzig for possession of the Polish postoffice. Seventy Poles entrenched themselves in the building, warding off with machine guns all efforts of Danzig police to take it. Light artillery blasted open the front of the building. Yesterday water and gasoline on top of it were poured into the building and set afire. This broke the resistance. Those Poles who were not killed were taken prisoner.

BIG GUNS ROAR AT ZERO HOUR ON FRANCE'S FRONT

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 4 [Monday].—It is 5 o'clock of a cloudy Monday morning in France and French guns along the Maginot line are presumably laying down their first barrage in the second world war. France declared war on Germany twelve hours ago, but this is the zero hour for the great French war machine to roll into action.

The delay in fighting was not without parallel. In 1914 an English cavalryman fired Britain's first shot against German Uhlans near Mons more than two weeks after England had declared war.

Dawn—and No Air Raids.

Dawn has come to Paris after a night favorable to air raids, but the city has yet to hear the scream of air raid sirens warning of the coming of enemy planes.

A moment ago we heard a radio announcement of the sinking of the liner Athenia by a torpedo. The news of the vessel's loss probably will have little effect on French public opinion. The average Frenchman has great respect for the British navy, which he believes can guard the empire's interests on the Atlantic while the French navy, based at Toulon, operates in the Mediterranean sea.

Nation Goes to War.

France entered the war at 5 p. m. yesterday [11 a. m. Chicago time].

No solemn declaration was made. Everything had been said when the French ambassador, Robert Coulondre, took leave of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in Berlin just after noon. He had called at the foreign ministry to get the reply of Adolf Hitler, German chancellor, to a British-French ultimatum to withdraw Nazi troops from Poland by 5 o'clock. Von Ribbentrop informed him that he was not in position to give a "satisfactory reply."

As far as can be learned, the simplified protocol followed in carrying out the historic decision to go to war included only two formalities. Formal notification that France was at war with Germany was delivered to the diplomatic corps at the end of the afternoon, and the German chargé d'affaires, in the absence of Ambassador Count Johannes von Welczeck, who returned to Germany six weeks ago, was called at the Quai D'Orsay [foreign office] to receive his passport and those of his staff.

Daladier Informs Nation.

For the civil population of France, the nearest thing to a formal declaration of war came at 8:30 o'clock last night when Premier Daladier spoke briefly over the radio.

Without oratorical flourishes, Daladier told his countrymen that his government and that of Premier Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain had made desperate attempts to keep peace, not up to, but even past the eleventh hour. The former poilu [soldier], who now is the heart of France's resistance, said that war was Hitler's choice.

Nazi Embassy Leaves.

While Daladier was speaking a group of policemen stood guard over the German embassy, which was evacuated tonight on a special train to Switzerland. The German staff numbers 130. Special guards were assigned to protect it during the journey to neutral soil.

The French air force was on the alert against any lightning attacks by the Germans. Millions of soldiers faced one another from behind the fortified lines between France and Germany. France has moved or is moving an estimated total of 8,000,000 soldiers toward the front.

Ambassador Coulondre was understood to be en route to Paris. Shortly after his final interview with Von Ribbentrop, Coulondre sent a secretary of the French embassy to the Wilhelmstrasse to ask for the passports for himself and his staff and asked the American chargé d'affaires to represent French interests.

War Cabinet May Be Formed.

Daladier, after conferring yesterday wtih defence ministers and heads of the army and navy, went to see Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies. The two are understood to have discussed a reorganization of the cabinet to form a war ministry, which is expected to be announced soon.

Parisians took the war news calmly. The atmosphere was that of any Sunday in the holiday season—no excitement, no enthusiasm, no despair!

French morale does not seem to be in need of stimulants. The state of mind here appears to be front line rather than rear base.

German radio programs I have tuned in indicate a different condition in Germany. The Nazi announcers and news commentators seem half hysterical and the ether waves are sizzling with tirades and hymns of hate against England.

Certain foreign legion lists were opened today to foreigners. Among many who volunteered is Eric von Stroheim, Austrian cinema actor and director, who is widely known in America.

DALADIER'S SPEECH

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—Text of Premier Eduoard Daladier's radio speech to the French people today:

"Frenchmen and Frenchwomen:

"Since dawn, Sept. 1, Poland has been the victim of one of the most brutal and most cynical aggressions. Her frontiers have been violated. Her cities have been bombarded. Her army resists heroically against the invader. Responsibility for bloodshed rests entirely on the Hitler government.

"Future peace was in Hitler's hands; he chose war. France and England multiplied their efforts to save peace. Even this morning they made an urgent effort to open pacific negotiations.

"Germany answered us with refusal.

"She Wishes Domination."

"She refused to reply to all the men whose voices were raised these last few days in favor of peace in the world. She wishes the destruction of Poland to ensure rapidly her domination of Europe and the servitude of France.

"In aligning ourselves against the most despicable of tyrannies, in honoring our word, we are fighting to defend our land, our homes, our liberty.

"I know in my own conscience I worked without ceasing, without respite, against war until the last minute. With emotion and with tenderness, I salute our young soldiers who are now going to do their sacred duty as we ourselves have already done. They can have confidence in their chiefs, who are worthy of them and who already have led France to victory.

"War Forced On Us."

"The cause of France is the cause of justice. It is the cause of all peaceful and free nations. She will be victorious.

"Frenchmen and Frenchwomen, we are waging war because it is forced on us. Each of us will be at his post on French soil, on that soil where respect and human dignity finds one of its last refuges.

"You will all unite your efforts in the deep feeling of union and fraternity to save France.

"Vive la France!"

CZECHS TO FORM UNITS IN FRANCE TO FIGHT HITLER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—Vladimir S. Hurban, Czechslovakian minister, today declared the people of Czechoslovakia, partitioned last year by Adolf Hitler, are "entirely on the side of Poland, England and France," and will organize forces in France and Poland to fight Germany.

Hurban made the announcement from the Washington legation, which he refused to turn over to Germany when his nation was dismembered.

"Every Czechoslovak," he said, "according to his ability, will help Great Britain, France and Poland to eliminate this common danger.

"The sacrifice of Czechoslocakia last year obviously weakened, in a military sense, our striking power. Unable to organize a military action ir our own land, Czechoslovak army units will be organized in France and Poland. The glorious traditions of the Czechoslovak legions in the first world war will lead them again to victory."

COL. McCORMICK TRACES EUROPE'S CENTURIES OF CARNAGE AND INTRIGUE

WARNS AGAINST AMERICAN ENTRY IN AGE OLD STRIFE

Festival Throng Is Told of Political Snares.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared yesterday that this country's intervention in European affairs would merely strengthen one side in age-old quarrels, without remedying the complex troubles of Europe.

Col. McCormick spoke at Pottawatomie park in St. Charles, at the annual fall festival of the Fox river valley community. His address was broadcast.

On the basis of time-polished facts of history since the middle ages, Col. McCormick concluded that the different pattern of this country's civilization cannot be imposed upon the structure of European politics.

Col. McCormick was introduced by Lester J. Norris, community leader, as one who has taken an active part in national affairs during twenty-five years of our history.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The text of Col. McCormick's speech follows:

"An understanding of the problems presented to us by the new war in Europe requires a knowledge of modern European history—which began with the great discoveries, conquests, and colonies.

"Of the colonizing nations, England has been, and is, the greatest for reasons peculiar to its history. After the emergence from feudalism the English kings attempted arbitrary government. King Charles was defeated and beheaded in a revolt of merchants and yeomen, who then ruled England for the years of the Long Parliament and Cromwell.

"When the aristocrats resumed the government at the restoration of Charles II., and again at the election of King William and Queen Mary, it was to rule as the commercial classes wished.

Blood for England's Wars.

"To the aristocrats went the sonorous titles, the gaudy raiment, the shining swords, the judicial pomp. The actual power resided in the men in the counting houses and the merchant ships.

"The aristocrats and the jails furnished the blood for England's wars; the merchants furnished the treasure. The merchants obtained more wealth; the aristocrats more governorships, more generalships, more judgeships, more beautiful embassies.

"This political accord created the British empire whose complexity is only rivaled by its extent. In 1914 it included the settlements of Australia and New Zealand. Canada, Ireland, and South Africa, part settlement, part conquest; conquered peoples in India, Egypt, the Sudan, and a score of smaller places; strategical concessions, as Tientsin and Hongkong, controling the trade of large areas of territory in other countries; purely military bases, such as Gibraltar in Spain, the Falkland Islands. Bermuda, and Trinidad in America. Portugal and its colonial empire were added as dependencies.

Fleet World's Biggest.

"British commerce was borne by the biggest merchant fleet in the world; it was financed by the largest banking system and insured by Lloyd's, the world's greatest insurance exchange. It was connected by cables belonging to subjects of the empire—cables which were twice as numerous and twice as long as those owned by all other countries, and over which passed news of the world, collected by a British news agency and furnished to the newspapers of all countries in the form best suited to advance the imperial interest.

"This gigantic empire fostered British industry and gave its subjects natural advantages in dealing with all the countries of the earth. It gave aristocratic employment to thousands of military and administrative officers—all interested in its maintenance and expansion.

"In consequence of its business relations with all the countries of the world, the empire developed diplomatic relations, carried on by men trained in the service and devoted to the success of the empire.

Empire Coerced by Navy.

"This empire was protected, policed, and coerced by a navy which ruled the waves, and by armies which, except in the case of the American revolution, have been adequate to meet all demands.

"France emerged from the feudal system at about the same time as England. It, as England, had religious, political, and commercial civil wars, but in them the merchant class never triumphed.

"The crown became absolute, leading large aristocratic, military, and administrative hierarchies—all riding heavily upon the commercial and working classes.

"When Frenchmen scoured the ocean and settled foreign lands, it was to increase the glory of their king. French armies marched across Europe for the same purpose.

"Commerce and industry, regimented under government control, withered; the armies and navies could not be maintained; America and India were lost to the British.

Regimentation Ends Monarchy.

"The monarchy fell from burocratic regimentation, to be followed in a few years by the Napoleonic empire. Again the navy sailed and armies marched, for the glory of the monarch, to Egypt; to Lisbon; to Naples; to Moscow. Trade and industry were neglected. France once more collapsed in exhaustion.

"Another generation and another Napoleon arose. French navies sailed to Russia; to Mexico. French armies marched to victory at Solferino and disaster at Sedan.

"Prussians, Bavarians, and Würtembergers formed the German empire at Versailles, and remained on French soil for three years while collecting a heavy ransom for withdrawal. With the ransom went the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine.

France was crushed. Gone were imperial dreams. A republic of little merchants was set up, somewhat rapaciously administered by a central burocracy, inherited from Richelieu and the Napoleons.

"The republic also inherited Algeria, which had been occupied under Louis Philippe, and Madagascar, which it claimed by right of discovery. Furthermore, it inherited the army with all of its traditions of greatness and adventure.

"From reasons of tradition and patriotism, from fear of further German invasion, the army became the career most desired by Frenchmen. Officers were chosen by competitive examinations, and the ablest students in the technical colleges obtained commissions, excepting in the cavalry which remained the only career open to the old nobility.

"After France adopted the system of universal military training, every Frenchman passed through the army and learned to admire and look up to its splendid officers. The army thus obtained an influence entirely outside its legal status.

Indo-China Conquered.

"Partly from offense received, partly from an instinct to exercise its functions, partly to forget the disgraces of Metz and Sedan, the French army pushed its conquests from arable Algeria into arid Tunis, mountainous Morocco, and tropical Congo. It completed the subjugation of Madagascar. Cause being found, it invaded and conquered Indo-China.

"Few Frenchmen settled in the conquered territories, whose economic development has been mediocre. The conquests were, first and last, military, and military riches were sought in the form of Algerian, Moroccan, and Negro troops.

"Most of my service in the late European war was in contact with Moroccan divisions, and I can attest that when organized by French officers they are the peers of any soldiers in the world.

France Looks for Allies.

"Encouraged by military successes against the natives, reënforced by African troops, France looked around for allies, with whose support it could again become, if not a dominant, at least an equal partner in the game of international politics.

"Old Germany, so often ravished by Swedish, Russian, and French invasions while split up into principalities, did not emerge from the feudal system by the reforms of Stein until early in the nineteenth century. German human beings had been rented out like horses to attack our forefathers in the revolutionary war. Germany was, therefore, three hundred years behind the other empires in political and industrial evolution. In world politics it was almost another hundred years behind, because it was not until the triumph over France, following victories over Austria-Hungary and Denmark, that Bismarck consolidated four kingdoms, six grand duchies, five duchies, seven principalities, three free cities, and the French provinces of Alsace and Lorraine into the German empire.

German Power Born of Sword.

"Germany's power, created entirely by the sword, was exercised by an hereditary military nobility which took little count of the industrial civilization springing up within its enlarged frontiers. Keenly aware of the empires France and England had amassed during its years of fragmentation, Germany pressed forward to obtain a greater position in world affairs, sent an army to Peking in 1900, obtained such colonies as were not already preëmpted, and desired a world position in keeping with its new found power.

"With Germany at this time was associated Austria-Hungary, a group of discordant races united under the traditional crown of the Hapsburgs. Their emperor was the successor of Charlemagne, but how sunk the glory of the Hapsburgs! Pillaged by Frederick the Great, three times overrun by Napoleon I., saved from revolution by the czar of Russia, defeated by Napoleon III., overthrown by Bismarck, Austria-Hungary was hard pushed to maintain itself and was dependent upon its youthful neighbor for support.

"The rulers of Austria-Hungary feared that unless it incorporated at least a part of the countries recently held by Turkey, the empire would dissolve into its constituent races.

"Italy, once called by Metternich 'a geographical expression,' had been united into a kingdom hardly forty years, operating inefficiently under a form of government modeled after England's, but without England's traditions to help it work.

"With rapidly increasing population, without natural resources within its border, Italy was looking for an opportunity to increase its territorial holdings.

"To the east lay Russia, much the youngest of the nations to enter European politics. Far from marching to the Crusades, Russians were at that time slaves under the yoke of the Mongols. So great were their sufferings that the brutalities of Ivan the Terrible and Peter the Great seemed to them hardly more than necessary military discipline.

Queen Connives at Mate's Slaying.

"At the time that George Mason and Patrick Henry were formulating the doctrine of free government, the infamous Queen Catherine was conniving at the murder of her husband, and Russian girls were on sale at the slave markets of Odessa and Constantinople.

"From the time of Peter, Russian monarchs had entered European quarrels and copied European diplomacy and European military theory, but had done little to improve the lot of the hundred million illiterates of many races among whom serfdom existed as late as the year 1863 and was abolished in emulation of Lincoln's emancipation proclamation.

"The despotism of a burocracy and an officers' corps was endured partly through ignorance and partly because the Slavs were still in a war for racial independence.

"The Turks had been driven from the Crimea, and had just been ejected from the Balkan peninsula, leaving new states, Rumania, Bulgaria, Serbia, and Greece, without civilized traditions, seething within and without with tribal rivalries. Russia wished to protect and lead these states as fellow Slavs, and watched its old ally, Austria, with bitter jealousy.

Japan in Feudal Stages.

"Japan was an oriental country in the early stages of feudalism when awakened by Perry. It immediately instituted a bloodless revolution, and adopted a constitution modeled on that of the German empire, reposing all final authority in the military.

"The sons of the ruling families were sent far and wide in quest of western education. Soldiers studied in the German army; sailors in the British navy. The Japanese armed services were modeled after these organizations.

"Japan made war on China in 1894, and won easily, but was refused permission to occupy Corea and the Lio-tung peninsula by the joint action of Russia, France, and Germany.

"In consequence, Japan entered into an alliance with England to keep these countries off its back, and in 1905 destroyed the Russian navy, and defeated its armies. Japan forced Russia to cede the half of Saghalien which had been annexed in 1857, to surrender its lease of the Kwantung peninsula and Port Arthur, evacuate Manchuria, and recognize Japan's sphere of influence in Corea.

Long History of Strife.

"Over many years these different countries had fought one another—singly, or in such alliances as the needs or ambitions of the moment made advantageous.

"In 1914 Russia, France, England, and Japan were in one alliance; Germany, Austria, and Italy in another.

"Such was the state of Europe and the world when friction between Austria and Serbia led to the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and to the outbreak of the world war.

"Italy deserted its allies and joined its enemies upon promise of great territorial reward.

"Japan remained true to its alliance with Great Britain, and seizing the German territory of Kiaochow, drove German ships from the Pacific, escorted Australian and New Zealand troops to Europe, and took all German islands in the Pacific ocean north of the equator.

Our Relations with Europe.

"Now, since the situation in Europe interests you primarily because of its effect upon us, it is necessary to trace our relations with European governments.

"Our forebears, while still British citizens, carried on wars with France and Spain, the other two great countries occupying America. With the assistance of British armies, they took Canada from France. Later, with the assistance of French and Spanish armies, they drove the British from the original thirteen colonies, Florida, Louisiana, and the Northwest Territory, of which Illinois forms a part.

"Their energy far surpassed that of any other people in any time. They recovered from a devastating war, originated the best government ever devised by man, and pushed forth in every direction.

"New England ships became the world's greatest carriers. When these were harassed by Barbary pirates, the new nation carried on a successful war in Africa.

The Urge for Expansion.

"The urge for expansion led to the invasion and acquisition of Florida from Spain, and of Louisiana from France, under virtual threat of war.

"A combination of circumstances led to the second war with England—with indecisive results. Both sovereignties remained within their territories at its conclusion, and extended the common boundary line to the Pacific coast.

"This country stimulated the revolutions of Spanish America, and by the enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine stopped the proposed move of continental European powers to restore Spanish rule. Afterwards Texas was annexed, and later the territory which became California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico.

"Friction with Japan over the treatment of American sailors led to the expedition of Commodore Perry.

"England and France lent aid to the southern states during our civil war and only desisted when threatened with war on our part. Spain, England, and especially France occupied Mexico until they were forced out by the assembly of an American army on the Texas border at the conclusion of our Civil war. At its conclusion, also, Alaska was purchased from Russia in gratitude for its moral assistance and naval demonstration in our behalf.

"The Hawaiian Islands were annexed in 1898. Also in 1898 the United States by war deprived Spain of its last American possessions.

"Cuba had been in revolt for years. The Spanish army tried to crush the revolt by the means which are always used on occasions of this kind—oppressive, brutal methods, unavoidable when one country insists upon dominating another.

Victory at Manila Bay.

"These first aroused our sympathy, then our indignation, finally a veritable crusade to end them.

"An unexpected development in this war changed the international significance of the United States. At the time war broke out, an American fleet was in Hongkong, pursuing the leisurely, social life of the navies of that day. This fleet was ordered to attack a Spanish fleet in the Philippine Islands. It is fair to say that not one American in each hundred thousand had ever heard of the Philippine Islands. Their first information was the news that Dewey's fleet had sailed from Hongkong on its adventurous mission. It was before the days of wireless communication, and, while Dewey's fleet was lost in the Pacific, the nation underwent an agony of suspense, suddenly to be electrified by the story of his decisive victory at Manila bay.

"Now took place the incident which changed the entire aspect of American foreign affairs.

Germany Gets a Surprise.

"In 1896 America had been on the verge of another war with England over the latter's demands on Venezuela, when England had been compelled to abandon its belligerent attitude because of the Jameson raid in South Africa, which portended a South African war in which Germany expressed the deepest sympathy with the Boers.

"Germany, intent on extending its empire in the Pacific, was greatly surprised and chagrined in 1898 that the Cuban war led an American fleet and an American army to anticipate it in the Philippine Islands. A German fleet, superior in power to the American fleet, repaired to Manila harbor and began a series of provocations. American reinforcements were started to Manila. It was believed that the Germans would have forced the issue while still superior in strength, but that the British fleet, much the strongest present, placed itself between the Germans and the Americans.

"This action, at a moment of great national emotion, turned against Germany the more than a century old bitterness entertained by Americans for England. The hostility was increased when German marines were landed in Venezuela in 1902 and withdrawn only because of a threatened attack by the American navy.

Nation Gains Prestige.

"Up to then in monarchies American ministers, as representatives of a republic, had been looked down upon by ambassadors representing kings, treated as inferiors, and had reacted to the disdain by pressing their country's interests with republican vigor.

"Now all this was to be changed. The power which had risen in the west became socially ambitious, sent ambassadors to the courts of Europe, and, in imitation of European monarchies, established a professional diplomatic service.

"Our ambassadors, for the most part, were not received cordially, but the new British foreign policy—to work with America—impelled the British ambassadors all over the world to stand sponsor for them and render them every possible service. In that way the British foreign office substantially annexed the American state department.

Luxuries of Court Life.

"The diplomats of Europe were enrolled from the aristocracy and, while carrying out the foreign policies of their respective nations, enjoyed the luxuries of court life. The American diplomats were now received into this life of official and social superiors. Americans primarily interested in this social advancement crowded into the diplomatic service.

"Since our diplomatic victories over England and Germany in the Venezuela affairs and the naval and military victory over Spain had caused all European nations to respect the Monroe Doctrine, our only foreign policy had been achieved.

"Our professional diplomats had nothing to do but to dance attendance at court, losing their republican principles and becoming, in effect, the agents in the American state department of the courts to which they were accredited.

Rendered Serviceable to Britain.

"By similar methods—by international marriages, by royal visits, and by the skilful extending and withholding of invitations [which Sir Ronald Lindsay described as 'just like heaven—some are taken and some are left'] to the embassy in Washington and the summer embassy in Newport—that nebulous, unorganized hierarchy known as society, had also been rendered serviceable to British politics.

"The first result of the new order of diplomatic and social affairs was the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, under which it was proposed to give up sovereignty over the Panama canal, and give England treaty rights in this purely American enterprise.

"In the contest which later arose for control of American foreign policy the English diplomats outdistanced their rivals so far that when the world war broke out the American state department was enlisted vigorously on their side.

Situation Leads to War.

"While Mr. Wilson was campaigning for reëlection on the platform of keeping us out of war, Mr. Lansing had stretched international law to the breaking point to lend aid to England, not only at the expense of the central powers, but at the expense of American interests. Eventually he produced a situation which brought us into the war, and changed a Franco-British defeat into victory.

"For services to Great Britain a tablet was erected in Westminster Abbey to American Ambassador Page—a tribute he shares with Maj. André, the seducer of Benedict Arnold.

"All this was followed by terrible peace treaties.

"France, after four years with enemy armies on its soil, its towns bombed, its country filled with undesired but indispensable allied troops, tried to protect and revenge itself by first rendering Germany helpless and then by keeping it bled white.

Germany Carved Up.

"Part of Germany was transferred back to France, a little to Belgium, a little to Denmark, some to Czecho-Slovakia, some to Poland, which was given a corridor to the sea—a corridor that separated the two parts of the German republic.

"Cash payments and payments in kind were exacted far beyond the capacity of Germany to pay and, upon failure to pay, the French army marched into and occupied the Rhineland.

"France, England, English colonies, and Japan divided Germany's overseas possessions. The Austro-Hungarian empire was broken up, part of it going to Italy, part to Serbia, part to Rumania, part to the newly manufactured nation of Czecho-Slovakia, and part to the reconstituted state of Poland. Germany and Austria were forbidden to form a customs union.

Terms Follow Pattern.

"These peace terms, atrocious as they seem to us, and atrocious as they were, were following the pattern of European peaces as far back as the records go. They were, however, outrageous desecrations of the principles set forth when American soldiers were conscripted to fight in Europe, and they were violations of the terms of peace which President Wilson had given the defeated nations reason to believe they would be accorded.

"Not long after the peace was agreed upon, and while he was campaigning unsuccessfully to make the senate ratify it, came President Wilson's mental breakdown. Participants in the peace conference have said that his mind showed signs of collapse during the deliberations. It is at least charitable to believe that such was the case.

"A number of other wars ensued. The Russian bolshevists invaded Poland and were defeated at Warsaw.

Russian Yoke Thrown Off.

"The Baltic provinces of Russia threw off the Russian yoke, and formed the little countries of Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Finland.

"The Poles invaded Lithuania and took the city of Vilna.

"The Lithuanians in turn took by force the city of Memel, which had been set up in the peace treaty as a free city.

"A volunteer expedition of Italians seized Fiume.

"The Greek army invaded Turkey. The Greek army was destroyed, and the city of Smyrna was burned.

"Other wars were carried on by France and Spain in Morocco; by England against various Arab tribes, and along the frontier of India, and in Palestine.

"Ireland revolted and after several years of guerrilla warfare secured recognition of the Irish Free State as a self-governing dominion. It now calls itself an independent republic, and is carrying on agitation for the annexation of those parts of Ireland still attached to the British commonwealth.

Military Rodeo in Albania.

"More lately Italy overran Ethiopia, and has only just conducted a military rodeo in Albania. Germany has occupied Austria and part of Czecho-Slovakia by a combination of force, diplomatic conspiracy, and popular consent. Hungary and Poland grabbed other parts of Czecho-Slovakia.

"Long before this, Russia had fallen victim to communism, that doctrine which appeals to all that is vicious in mankind—theft, murder, and torture—and explains it with the skill of Belial to delude the victims of their passions that they are following high ideals.

"Communism took over Hungary. Communism at one time possessed half of Italy; and communism battled for Germany and Austria. The peace of Versailles turned out to be more terrible than the war it followed.

"Rumania expelled communism from Hungary and rewarded itself with the province of Transylvania.

Fascists Take Over Italy.

"In the helplessness of the Italian government the Fascists marched on Rome with the consent of the king and instituted a dictatorship.

"Whether the Germans and Austrians could have maintained a republican form of government may be doubtful in view of their recent emergence from the feudal system, from lack of any conception of the rights of man, and from their custom to accept the Roman law imposed upon them from above. Whatever chance they might have had was taken away by the brutality of the peace treaty.

"In desperation they succumbed to the blandishments and brutalities of a desperado. Hitler's excesses have been excused and endured for the same reason that those of Ivan the Terrible and Peter the Great were endured in Russia—the dire need of stern, military discipline—and have borne much political fruit to the German nation.

Germany Powerful Again.

"The treaty of Versailles and its exactions have been denounced; the German Rhineland, the Saar, and Memel reoccupied. Large parts of the empire of Bismarck have been united with large parts of the Austrian empire. Germany is once again a powerful empire.

"Many actions of the government have outraged our traditions and our sense of right—the enslavement of the Czechs, the expropriation of the Jews, the oppression of the churches.

"These, perhaps, may be explained, though not excused, by the backwardness of German political development which, as I have said, is three hundred years behind that of the more advanced civilizations.

"To be sure, it has not been unusual for states to dominate religions or for religions to dominate states. Nor has the American doctrine of religious tolerance and the separation of church and state obtained full acceptance in Europe today.

Lineup Until Last Week.

"Until last week the political alliances in Europe were Germany united in offensive and defensive alliance with Italy, Japan, and apparently Spain—seeking to regain and gain territory and trade from England and France, which were in alliance to hold their empires and spoils of the world war, and were bargaining to obtain assistance from Russia and to procure again the service of the United States which was so outrageously betrayed twenty years ago.

"Our own post-war relations with Europe have not been those of an independent nation.

"During the war our navy had embarked upon a huge building program which after the war threatened to eclipse the British navy. Through machinations unknown to me an international conference was held at which it was agreed that the American navy should only equal that of England. American battleships were destroyed and, by interpretations of the treaty by our state department, the American navy was reduced from first to second place.

Island Rights Given Up.

"Again, in accordance with British foreign policy at this time, a treaty abandoning the right to fortify certain American islands was made with Japan. The so-called nine power treaty was made, guaranteeing the status quo in China—a matter vital to England, but of slight importance to America.

"When Japan invaded Manchuria, our state department wished to act in defense of these English rights. England found it inconvenient to do so.

"Let us look at Europe today. There is the German empire, formed of a union of the empire of Bismarck, less certain parts of Germany taken from it by the treaty of Versailles—in all of which there are elements wishing annexation to the empire—with that of Hapsburg Austria, less some of the discordant races which had weakened the old empire.

Empires In Opposition.

"Opposed are the British empire and the French empire—enlarged by their acquisitions from Germany, but weakened militarily and financially by the long reign of communist doctrines in their governments.

"England has been further weakened diplomatically and militarily by the freeing of Ireland and by the sovereignization of its colonies—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

"In 1914 the parliament was able to declare war for all of them, but by the act of 1921 freeing Ireland, and under the statute of Westminster, Dec. 11, 1931, these became independent commonwealths, tied together by personal loyalty to the throne and by a customs union.

"It is certain that Canada, Australia, and New Zealand entertain the heartiest loyalty to the empire, will render any reasonable assistance to the mother country, enter any reasonable war—but to what extent is uncertain. None of them maintains military or naval establishments of any consequence.

South Africa In Doubt.

"The attitude of South Africa is doubtful. Ireland will be governed by self-interest.

"The attitude of Portugal, in face of Fascist Spain, also is uncertain.

"Of the other states of Europe, the Balkan countries, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, and Hungary—all ruled by dictatorships—are quite unpredictable, as are the states of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, also primitive in political development.

"Poland could have joined Czecho-Slovakia, in a probably successful defense of the latter's frontier fortifications, but preferred to attack her in the rear and share in the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia, and in consequence is now fighting an apparently hopeless battle with Germany along two long boundaries.

None Strong Separately.

"Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Finland are self-governing countries, high in culture and political development. None of them is strong enough separately to be of consequence. Ordinary statesmanship would indicate that the four Scandinavian nations should unite in a single government, but historical antagonism and the interests of the presiding dynasties stand in the way, and leave their peoples economically, diplomatically, and militarily helpless.

"Holland and Belgium would have been small enough even had they not separated a hundred years ago. Belgium has often been the battleground of Europe and probably will be again.

"The condition of Holland is still more precarious. Not only has it the German empire on one side and the British empire on the other, but its colonies are objects of cupidity to larger powers, and especially to Japan, which wants the oil of Borneo for its fleet, airplanes, and tanks.

Propaganda Floods Swiss.

"Switzerland, so long gallantly independent, is being subjected to Nazi propaganda—with what effect I do not know.

"The human monster, Stalin, entirely unpredictable, has broken his alliance with France and joined Germany, whom Japan and Italy appear to have deserted. At that, he plays an important part in the internal politics of all European countries, and in our own.

"The present war in Europe, as we know, is over the German city of Danzig and the Polish corridor—whether they should remain under Poland for economic reasons or be rejoined to Germany for racial ones.

"The instability of Europe is caused by the fact that the economic boundaries and the racial boundaries do not coincide. Racial states were and are economically unsound. Economic states are racially unstable.

Never Long At Peace.

"Europe has not long been able to remain at peace under any of the forms of government which have been devised, nor in any of the stages of intellectual and economic progress.

"The union of the American states—always heralded as the greatest achievement of statesmanship—was comparatively simple through the similarity of race and history. A like accomplishment in Europe, with its variety of races, languages, and religious beliefs, seems beyond human power.

"Obviously it cannot be helped by the interposition of an outside nation like our own, with interests of our own, with a civilization of our own, and for the most part an ignorance of and indifference to European affairs. The most that could be accomplished is what was accomplished twenty years ago—the slaughter of American youth—to strengthen one side of a quarrel—and afterwards ingratitude and abuse."

Festival Queen

VIVIAN ANDERSON.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

In a peaceful, outdoor setting, Miss Vivian Anderson was crowned queen of St. Charles last night in connection with the annual fall festival of the Fox River Valley association. She was chosen Miss St. Charles in a popularity contest. Miss Anderson, a blonde, was presented to a crowd of 15,000 in Pottawatomie park by Otto A. Elliott, chairman of the festival.

HOPES AMERICA CAN AVOID WAR, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Pledges to Do All in His Power to Keep Peace.

that your government has no information which it has any thought of withholding from you.

"At the same time, as I told my press conference on Friday, it is of the highest importance that the press and the radio use the utmost caution to discriminate between actual verified fact on the one hand, and mere rumor on the other.

Urges Checking Up.

"I can add to that by saying that I hope the people of this country will also discriminate most carefully between news and rumor. Do not believe of necessity everything you hear or read. Check up on it first.

"You must master at the outset a simple but unalterable fact in modern foreign relations. When peace has been broken anywhere, peace of all countries everywhere is in danger.

"It is easy for you and me to shrug our shoulders and say that conflicts taking place thousands of miles from continental United States, and indeed, the whole American hemisphere, do not seriously affect the Americas—and that all the United States has to do is to ignore them and go about our own business. Passionately though we may desire detachment, we are forced to realize that every word that comes through the air, every ship that sails the sea, every battle that is fought does affect the American future.

Proclamation Prepared.

"Let no man or woman thoughtlessly or falsely talk of America sending its armies to European fields. At this moment there is being prepared a proclamation of American neutrality. This would have been done even if there had been no neutrality statute on the books, for this proclamation is in accordance with international law and with American policy.

"This will be followed by a proclamation required by the existing neutrality act. I trust that in the days to come our neutrality can be made a true neutrality.

"It is of the utmost importance that the people of this country, with the best information in the world, think things through. The most dangerous enemies of American peace are those who, without well rounded information on the whole broad subject of the past, the present and the future, undertake to speak with authority, to talk in terms of glittering generalities, to give to the nation assurances or prophecies which are of little present or future value.

Declares for Honesty.

"I myself cannot and do not prophesy the course of events abroad—and the reason is that because I have of necessity such a complete picture of what is going on in every part of the world I do not dare to do so. And the other reason is that I think it is honest for me to be honest with the people of the United States.

"I cannot prophesy the immediate economic effect of this new war on our nation, but I do say that no American has the moral right to profiteer at the expense either of his fellow citizens or of the men, women, and children who are living and dying in the midst of war in Europe.

"Some things we do know. Most of us in the United States believe in spiritual values. Most of us, regardless of what church we belong to, believe in the spirit of the New Testament—a great teaching which opposes itself to the use of force, of armed force, of marching armies and falling bombs. The overwhelming masses of our people seek peace—peace at home, and the kind of peace in other lands which will not jeopardize peace at home.

Would Preserve Safety.

"We have certain ideas and ideals of national safety and we must act to preserve that safety and to preserve the safety of our children in future years.

"That safety is and will be bound up with the safety of the western hemisphere and of the seas adjacent thereto. We seek to keep war from our firesides by keeping war from coming to the Americas. For that we have historic precedent that goes back to the days of the administration of President George Washington. It is serious enough and tragic enough to every American family in every state in the Union to live in a world that is torn by wars on other continents. Today they affect every American home. It is our national duty to use every effort to keep them out of the Americas.

"And at this time let me make the simple plea that partisanship and selfishness be adjourned; and that national unity be the throught that underlies all others.

Says Nation to Stay Neutral.

"This nation will remain a neutral nation, but I cannot ask that every American remain neutral in thought as well. Even a neutral has a right to take account of facts. Even a neutral cannot be asked to close his mind or his conscience.

"I have said not once but many times that I have seen war and that I hate war. I say that again and again.

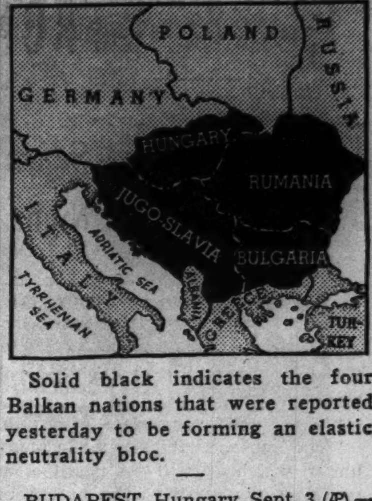
"I hope the United States will keep out of this war. I believe that it will. And I give you assurances that every effort of your government will be directed toward that end.

"As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

IOWA OLD PENSIONERS WED.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Sept. 3 [Special.]—Grace Greggerson, 76 years old, and Mrs. Margaret A. Stewart, 69, Omaha, old age pensioners, have known each other thirty years. Yesterday they were married here.

Peace Bloc



Solid black indicates the four Balkan nations that were reported yesterday to be forming an elastic neutrality bloc.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 3 (AP).—It was officially reported here today that Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Bulgaria were working to form an elastic neutrality bloc. This was accompanied by authoritative expressions of belief that Italy would be deeply interested in the attempt.

Diplomatic quarters said the Jugo-Slav minister to Rome had been in constant contact with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's foreign minister, and that Italy's friendship with Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, and Bulgaria was close.

The Jugo-Slav foreign office stated the four power plan to stay out of war did not mean a joint neutrality pact as such, but added: "Nations with the same idea of neutrality will have much in common."

At news of Britain's declaration of war street crowds in Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, shouted "Long live England!" In Bucharest, Rumania, the union jack appeared on some houses.

RETRACE STEPS BRITAIN TOOK IN DECLARING WAR

Ministry Explains How Events Unfolded.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—The British ministry of information today issued a statement on how the formal declaration of war was made against Germany. The communique said:

"A state of war now exists between Great Britain and Germany. At 11:15 this morning Mr. R. Dunbar, head of the treaty department of the foreign office, went to the German embassy, where he was received by Dr. Kordt, chargé d'affaires. Mr. Dunbar handed to Dr. Kordt a notification that a state of war existed between Great Britain and Germany as from 11 o'clock, British summer time, this morning. This notification constituted the formal declaration of war.

Reply Given Henderson.

"This morning, 20 minutes after the expiration of the time limit laid down in the British ultimatum to Germany, Herr Von Ribbentrop [German foreign minister] invited Sir Nevile Henderson [British ambassador] to call upon him and gave to him the German reply.

"This proved to be a document of some eleven pages, the main point of which was a refusal by the German government to give any assurance about the withdrawal of troops [from Poland].

"The remainder of the reply consisted of propaganda of which the sole purpose seems to be an attempt to lay the blame for the present war on the shoulders of Great Britain.

Aid Envoy's Departure.

"In accordance with customary diplomatic usage, full facilities are being extended to Dr. Kordt, the German chargé d'affaires, to enable him and the staff of the German embassy to leave the country. Their departure will take place very shortly.

"Facilities are being extended equally to German consular officers to enable them to leave England.

"An assurance has been received from Dr. Kordt that full facilities are similarly being extended to Sir Nevile Henderson and the staff of the British embassy in Berlin and to British consular officers in Germany.

"The United States government have acceded to the request of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom, to take charge of British interests in Germany, which accordingly have been entrusted to the United States embassy in Berlin.

"The charge of German interests in Great Britain has been taken over by the Swiss legation in London."

LEADER IN INDIA HURRYING HOME FOR WAR TALKS

CHUNGKING, Sept. 3 (AP).—The Indian nationalist leader, Jawaharlal Behru, cutting short his visit in China, will speed homeward tomorrow to summon the all-India congress at Calcutta to decide the Indian attitude in the European war. He will leave in a plane provided by Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese generalissimo, with whom he has been conferring. Chungking newspapers, reflecting all shades of political opinion, spoke out today in favor of a sympathetic attitude toward Britain and France.

STATUTE OF 1917 BANS AMERICANS' SERVICE IN FOREIGN ARMIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—A statute enacted in 1917 would make it illegal for American citizens to enlist in any European army for hostilities abroad. A fine of not more than $1,000 and imprisonment of not more than three years are the penalties.

In addition, any American citizen who enlisted in a foreign army and took an oath of allegiance to the government he was serving would lose his American citizenship.

Numerous Americans were reported to have enlisted in the Spanish civil war, but available records here show no convictions on charges of violating the enlistment statute.

certain detailed announcements will be made on behalf of the government.

"These need your close attention.

"The government have made plans under which it will be possible to carry on the work of the nation in the days of stress and strain which may be ahead of us.

Says Right to Prevail.

"These plans need your help. You may be taking your part in the fighting services or as a volunteer in one of the branches of civil defense. If so you will report for duty in accordance with the instructions you receive.

"You may be engaged in work essential to the prosecution of the war, for maintenance of the life of people in factories, in transport, and public utility concerns and in the supply of the other necessary services.

"If so it is of vital importance that you should carry on with your job.

"Now may God bless you all and may he defend the right. For it is evil things tha' we shall be fighting, —against brute force, bad faith, injustice, oppression, and persecution. And against them I am certain that right will prevail."

WINDSORS WAIT ON PLANE; READY FOR FLIGHT HOME

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—The duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII. of England, waited anxiously on the Riviera today to start a plane flight home, British sources said.

A private plane he summoned for his flight to his homeland since he gave up his throne for the American-born woman he loved was grounded by bad weather at Farnborough, England. It is expected to take off as soon as conditions permit.

The duchess, the former Wallis Warfield, is expected to accompany him. It also will be her first visit to England since Windsor abdicated on Dec. 10, 1936.

It is reported the British government has a duty in mind for the duke, but its nature has not been disclosed. The duke is said to be in almost constant communication with London.

ITALY BELIEVED UNABLE TO PASS GOODS TO NAZIS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 [Special]. —Even though Italy should remain neutral indefinitly, it is regarded as extremely unlikely in informed circles here that American goods can reach Germany by way of Italy.

It was recalled that during the world war shipments of goods to Scandinavian countries, which were intended eventually to reach Germany were held up by the British navy.

It is presumed here that with the British in control of both the western entrance to the Mediterranean at Gibraltar and the eastern entrance at Suez, the British fleet will make certain that Italy does not serve as a point of supply for Germany.

60 Americans, Fleeing Berlin, Reach Denmark

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 3. —Sixty American women and children, including a few month-old babies, arrived safely in Copenhagen tonight from Berlin. Some will stay in Copenhagen and others will leave for Oslo to catch a boat for New York Tuesday.

Seeks Neutrality

Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Ireland, who announced in the dail (parliament) yesterday after an all night session, that the Irish government wished to remain at peace with Germany and all other powers, and retain its neutrality in war.

BRITAIN'S RULER ASKS FOR UNITED HELP OF EMPIRE

Tried to Find Peaceful Way Out, He Says.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain today made the following appeal to his subjects in all parts of the world:

"In this grave hour, perhaps the most fateful in our history, I send to every household of my peoples, both at home and overseas, this message, spoken with the same depths of feeling for each one of you as if I were able to cross your threshold and speak to you myself.

"For the second time in the lives of most of us, we are at war. Over and over again we have tried to find a peaceful way out of the differences between ourselves and those who are now our enemies; but it has been in vain.

"We have been forced into a conflict, for we are called, with our allies, to meet the challenge of a principle which, if it were to prevail, would be fatal to any civilized order in the world.

Disregard of Treaties.

"It is a principle which permits a state in the selfish pursuit of power to disregard its treaties and its solemn pledges which sanctions the use of force or threat of force against the sovereignty and independence of other states.

"Such a principle, stripped of all disguise, is surely the mere primitive doctrine that might is right. And if this principle were established through the world, the freedom of our own country and of the whole British commonwealth of nations would be in danger.

"This is the ultimate issue which confronts us. For the sake of all that we ourselves hold dear, and of world order and peace, it is unthinkable that we should refuse to meet the challenge.

Asked to Stand United.

"It is to this nigh purpose that I now call my people at home and my peoples across the seas who will make our cause their own.

"I ask them to stand calm and firm and united in this time of trial.

"The task will be hard. There may be dark days ahead and war can no longer be confined to the battlefield, but we can only do the right as we see the right, and reverently commit our cause to God. If one and all we keep resolutely faithful to it, ready for whatever service or sacrifice it may demand, then, with God's help, we shall prevail. May he bless and keep us all."

THE ABC'S OF SILVER

By CALEB

"BUT why the three handles?" was Mrs. Grayson's amused exclamation after duly admiring the graceful contours and serene opulence of the loving cup standing before them.

"That," he laughed in unison, "is a story over a thousand years old! It dates, in fact, from Alfred the Great, king of the West Saxons in the last of the ninth century. Two pleasures the good king specially loved: riding abroad on horseback, and quaffing a mug of ale. And the wayside innkeepers where he stopped were only too glad to serve their monarch without compelling him to dismount.

"But a certain lowly barmaid, so legend recounts, lifted the cup by its handle, rendering the king's acceptance highly awkward. The embarrassed innkeeper added a second handle; but on our genial sovereign's next visit, the servant held his cup by both handles—and the king was no better off than before. In desperation, the innkeeper now added a third handle, and the problem was solved! Ever since then, the authentic loving cup has carried three handles."

"Delightful!" murmured his guest. "That's about the nicest silver story I've ever heard. I'll bet you haven't another just as good with which to match it."

"But I have," her mentor contradicted. "It's the story behind our familiar finger bowl—whose ancestry goes well back into the Middle Ages. In those times, however, this handsome utensil was known as the 'Grace Cup'—and for a very good reason. Grace, in that far-distant day, was pronounced at the end of the meal, instead of its beginning. To induce guests to remain through the grace ceremony, the choicest wine was kept for the close of the feast. Etiquette further required moistening one's fingers in the wine and touching it to his lips—just to make sure, by the wine scent lingering on both, that the guest really had stayed through grace. Our formal dinner service today still includes the counterpart of this medieval 'Grace Cup'—but in its modern and more practical function of cleansing the fingers, instead of blessing the feast."

"Truly interesting!" commented his listener. "Too bad I must run along. Some day soon, however, I want to hear about period design in sterling—along with some advice on how to care for one's silver."

"I've plenty to say on both subjects," he assured her. "Come in any time, and I shall be glad to oblige you."

SINKING OF SHIP CAUSES FEAR FOR OTHER VESSELS

Many Americans at Sea Fleeing War Zones.

BULLETIN.

New York, Sept. 4 [Monday] (AP).—The British liner Queen Mary, carrying a record list of 2,385 passengers, including J. P. Morgan and other American war refugees, was sighted off Sandy Hook bar at 5:10 a. m., Chicago time, today.

New York, Sept. 4—[Monday]—(AP).—The world war practice of torpedoing passenger ships at sea was renewed today soon after the declaration of war.

Anxiety spread over the breadth of the Atlantic, where thousands of Americans are fleeing the war zone. The sinking last night of the British liner Athenia, operated by the Cunard-White Star out of Glasgow, recalled the heavy loss of merchant ships in the world war, and to Americans the sinking of the Lusitania, which preceded America's entrance into the great conflict twenty-two years ago.

Anxiety for Americans Deepens.

Anxiety over Americans at sea deepened after the report of the Athenia's sinking off Scotland. More than 200 Americans were aboard the ship.

The Cunard liner Carinthia, wearing a new dull camouflage, slipped out of New York harbor Sunday under sealed orders handed over to the captain by the British consulate.

Whether the attack on the Athenia might change the Carinthia's plans could not be determined, but presumably she steamed on across the perilous Atlantic, hoping to escape attack by her new paint job—and possibly by convoy of British warships that have been prowling the coastal waters.

All Well, Says Farley.

Among those speeding home from Europe were Postmaster General James A. Farley, Norma Shearer, Grace Moore and Elsa Maxwell, all aboard the overcrowded United States liner Manhattan. They broadcast from mid-ocean last night. Farley said there was no danger and everybody was making the best of crowded conditions.

Meanwhile, the high seas, particularly the north Atlantic, became an aquatic jungle studded with rich prizes for warring nations of Europe.

Greatest single item of possible booty among the 54 liners in the perilous Atlantic was the 25 million dollar British Queen Mary, due in New York Monday. Many of her 2,385 passengers, including J. P. Morgan, are Americans fleeing homeward.

Rumor and speculation centered also on the pride of the Nazi merchant marine, the 20 million dollar Bremen. After a rigid two day search by American customs agents, she sailed Wednesday night for Bremerhaven without passengers.

Although the British admiralty tonight denied a report that the Bremen had been seized, two British naval vessels known to have been in United States coastal waters disappeared Wednesday night and were believed likely to have trailed the 989 foot Bremen, one of the biggest passenger vessels afloat.

The Cunarder Samaria, due here from Liverpool tomorrow with 809 passengers, reached Boston today and debarked 66 passengers.

French Ship Due Tuesday.

The French liner Champlain is due in New York Tuesday, and the De Grasse, eastward bound, is due at Havre Wednesday.

The President Roosevelt, with 538 passengers, is due in New York Tuesday. The American Banker, with 103, is to arrive tomorrow, and the American Importer on Wednesday. The American Trader is due in New York Sept. 11.

The Swedish-American Line flagship Kungsholm, due here Sept. 11, is bringing 1,259 passengers, of whom 945 are Americans.

Columbus Reaches Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Sept. 4 (AP).—The German steamship Columbus was tied up here yesterday, because of the war in Europe, joining five other Nazi vessels in Mexican ports. The Columbus brought 800 passengers, most of them Americans, from Havana.

[It had been reported that the Columbus disembarked all its passengers at Havana Friday and was speeding back to Germany.]

Biddle Tells Tribune Man of Attack.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Sept. 3.—American Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. today was the object of what, I am sure, was one of the most extensive bombings which has occurred in the region of Warsaw.

The bombing occurred shortly before 9 o'clock this morning as the ambassador, his wife, their daughter, and a house guest, Miss Mary Willis MacKenzie of Hopkinsville, Ky., were in front of the Biddle country villa at Konstancin, about twelve miles south of Warsaw on the left bank of the Vistula river.

Bomber Makes Power Dive.

They already had started for Warsaw when the air raid warning siren blew and were waiting for the all clear signal. Suddenly a huge German bomber appeared out of the clouds and power dived down, Biddle judges, to within less than 500 feet. It let loose six heavy bombs, one of which hit a villa next to that of the Biddles. One incendiary bomb fell between the two.

Biddle told THE TRIBUNE he was none the worse for the experience and remarked that "I am sure Hermann Goering [Germany's No. 2 leader] knows my address, but I hardly believed he would send a calling card so soon.

"As an American husband and father I am proud of the way the women with me took the experience. They stood it like soldiers and never quivered."

Won't Leave Villa.

Biddle said he will continue to occupy the Konstancin villa which he rented last March in order to spend week-ends in the forest during the sultry Vistula valley summer.

A splinter of one of the bombs now stands as a trophy on his desk in the Warsaw embassy. Biddle said that about a mile and a half from his villa there is a small training airfield and a tiny tile factory is in the vicinity. But he is sure that no mistake was made because the plane dived so low he was able to see the pilot's face. As a result the ambassador concluded that it was intended to make the group of country houses the target. All windows in Biddle's home were broken. There was no other damage.

General Pershing Silent on New Conflict in Europe

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—Gen. John J. Pershing today followed closely the news of Europe's renewal of the war he helped to win twenty-one years ago, but he made no comment. His aid, Col. George E. Adamson, said Pershing was "quite interested," but would say nothing unless the war department requested a statement. Approaching his 79th birthday on Sept. 13, the general is in Walter Reed hospital for a medical checkup.

GERMANY REPLIES TO ULTIMATUM WITH DEFIANCE

Traces Events to Treaty of Versailles.

BERLIN, Sept. 3 (AP).—Following is the text of Adolf Hitler's reply to the British ultimatum, as broadcast from Berlin today:

"The German reich government has received the ultimatum of the British government dated Sept. 3, 1939. The German government has the honor to reply as follows:

"FIRST—The German government and the German people refused to accept from the British government the ultimate requests or to fulfill them.

"SECOND—Since a good many months a condition exists at our eastern borders which in effect amounts to war.

"Refused Peaceful Solution."

"After the Versailles treaty had cut Germany to pieces all German governments were refused a peaceful solution of these problems. The National Socialist [Nazi] government, too, has made efforts after the year 1933 to bring about a revision of the worst mistakes committed under the treaty of Versailles by peaceful means.

"It was in the first place the British government which made every practical revision impossible by its intransigent position.

"If it had not been for the British government interfering, the German people and the German government are convinced that between Germany and Poland a satisfactory arrangement could have been brought about and a solution been found which would have been fair to both sides, for Germany did not have the intention and never has demanded that Poland be destroyed.

"Unbearable for a Big Nation."

"Germany only wanted to have a revision brought about of those stipulations of the treaty of Versailles which well informed statesmen of all peoples, for some time after the dictates of Versailles had been delivered, considered as unbearable for a big nation, as well as detrimental to the political and economic interests of the east of Europe, unbearable in the long run and, therefore, impossible to execute.

"British statesmen were in line with these declarations when they said that the solution imposed forcibly on Germany in the east would only lead to future wars. In order to avoid this danger it was the desire of all German governments, and particularly the intention of the present National Socialist people's government here, that a solution be found.

"It is the responsibility of the policy of the British cabinet to have put obstacles in the way of such a peaceful revision.

"THIRD—The British government in an unprecedented step in human history has given plenipotentiary powers to the Polish government to undertake whatever actions Poland might want to consider. The British government gave assurances to the Polish government, no matter under what circumstances, that it could take steps of defense against no matter what provocative actions. The British government assured its military support to Poland in such a case.

"Thereupon the Polish terror against the people residing in the territories once severed from Germany and particularly against the German people there assumed proportions which could no longer be borne.

"The Free City of Danzig particularly was dealt with in contradiction to all the legal stipulations, first economically and then in matters of customs policies and was even menaced with destruction, only to be completely submitted in a military sense and to be severed from communications with the outside world.

Decides to End Conditions.

"FOURTH—After all the attempts to bring about a peaceful solution and to reach an agreement accordingly, after all these efforts had been made impossible by the intransigeance of the Polish government which was being backed up by England, and, after the conditions similar to civil war which had persisted for a number of months at the eastern border of Germany without the British government raising any objections whatsoever, and after these conditions had grown to a point where they amounted to overt attacks on German territory, the German government decided that it was unbearable for a major power to tolerate the continuance of these conditions and the menace which was coming from outside. Also, it was necessary in the interest of the domestic peace of the German people to bring an end to these conditions.

Charges Sabotage.

"After the governments of the democratic countries had sabotaged all the possibilities of revision which still could have been applied to secure the peace and tranquillity and the honor of the German reich, the German government decided that Poland's attacks would have to be counteracted by similar measures. The German government is not willing to tolerate conditions in order to make it possible for Great Britain to execute her obligations to Poland. The German government is not willing to tolerate conditions similar to those now existing in Palestine, which is a British protectorate.

"Particularly, and above all, the German people are not willing to continue to be ill treated by the Poles.

"FIFTH—The German government has therefore refused all attempts to force Germany by ultimatums, that the German army, which has taken steps for the protection of the country's should be withdrawn, which would amount to restoration of conditions of restlessness and injustice as they have existed before.

"Desired an Understanding."

"The threat that Germany would otherwise be attacked in war is in complete harmony with the intention of the large number of British politicians as announced over a number of years. The German government and the German people have assured the British people time and again that they are desirous of bringing about an understanding with them, and even to establish a close friendship.

"If the British government has refused to consider all these offers, and now makes a reply consisting in overt acts of war, this is not the responsibility of the German people and its government, but exclusively of the British cabinet. Those men who for years have been preaching the destruction and eradication of the German nation are primarily to be held responsible. The German people and its government do not have the intention, as it seems Great Britain has, to rule the world, but they are determined to defend their own freedom and independence and primarily their own lives.

"The intention which has been communicated to us on behalf of the British government by Mr. King Hall [a British publicist]—an intention to destroy the German people even more than they have been destroyed by the Versailles treaty—that intention we hereby take notice of, and we shall therefore reply to all acts of attack coming from England, no matter under what form, with the same weapons.

"Berlin, Sept. 3, 1939."

Britain's Ultimatum

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Britain's ultimatum which Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson today handed to German Foreign Secretary Von Ribbentrop read as follows:

"Sir, in a communication which I had the honor to make to you on Sept. 1, I informed you on the instructions of his majesty's principal secretary of state for foreign affairs that unless the German government were prepared to give satisfactory assurances that the German government would suspend all aggressive action against Poland and were prepared promptly to withdraw their forces from Polish territory, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom would without hesitation fulfill their obligations to Poland.

"Although this communication was made more than 24 hours ago, no reply has been received. German attacks on Poland have been continued and intensified.

"I have accordingly to inform you that unless, no later than 11 a. m., British summer time [5 a. m., Chicago time] today, Sept. 3, satisfactory assurances to the above effect have been given by the German government and have reached his majesty's government in London, a state of war will exist between the two countries as from that hour."

POPE WILL ASK POWERS TO CUT WAR'S HORRORS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 3.—His strenuous efforts to prevent war having failed, Pope Pius XII. will seek to have the conflict made as humane as possible. The pontiff appeared tonight to be preparing a message to the warring nations to reduce war's horrors. It is certain to seek to restrict air attacks on open cities, and possibly to ask a ban on poison gas, according to tonight's information.

FUEHRER GOES TO LEAD ARMIES FIGHTING POLAND

Leaves Berlin After Speech Assailing Britain.

B.], the official German news agency, reported the Poles had pierced Vistula river dikes in the region of Tczew, near the Danzig border, flooding the lower lands of the Vistula valley.

The Germans are in complete possession of Tczew and Danzig, the agency said. The announcement added that the Poles had destroyed the Liessau bridgehead and two large Vistula river bridges near Tczew.

Warsaw Balloon Destroyed.

Another military dispatch said the Germans had crossed the Vistula river east of Pless and captured fortifications south of Nikolai, an East Prussian town about twelve miles northeast of Marienwerder.

The D. N. B. agency reported that seven Polish planes and one balloon had been destroyed in an air raid on Warsaw. It was reported that there were no German losses on this expedition.

The German command announced that Germany lost twenty-one planes on Friday and Saturday, and that Polish losses for the two days were 120 craft. No casualties were mentioned.

Nazis clung to the hope that England and France would be satisfied with a "passive war" and not go into armed conflict. Germans, with Russia as their hinterland, feel fully equal to a blockade.

The fact that no battles had taken place on the western front up to 9:30 o'clock last night gave them new hope.

[A dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, said the French had blocked the opening of the Rhine canal near Basel.]

It was announced officially that part of the population between the western border of Germany and the Siegfried line had been evacuated and moved deeper into Germany. Saarbruecken was evacuated. Bonn was declared within war limits. Areas west of the Siegfried line and around Saarburg, near Luxemburg, are being evacuated.

Populace Stunned.

The news that Britain and France had announced they were at war with Germany stunned the nation yesterday. After negotiating for months, Europe's leading powers launched into this new war with striking rapidity. Saturday night Germans still believed they could induce England and France to stand by while they swept over Poland.

Hitler declared in his broadcast that because he mobilized the German people against the Versailles treaty, England tried to prevent Germany from obtaining living space.

"Britain is mistaken about one thing," Hitler declared. "The Germany of 1939 is no longer the Germany of 1914, and the chancellor of the present German reich is no longer Bethmann-Hollweg [chancellor of imperial Germany before and during the world war].

Claims Poland Urged On.

Hitler charged that except for British support, Poland would not have resisted a peaceful invasion of her frontiers.

"I have decided to burst open the ring laid around Germany," Hitler said. "The pact with soviet Russia gives us assurance of a policy of peaceful agreement with this greatest empire of the east."

The Fuehrer asserted that while the fight was going on on the Polish front—"the west wall [of fortifications, the Siegfried line], completed with tremendous efforts, in the meantime will shelter and defend Germany."

Meanwhile the British and French ambassadors were bowing out of Germany almost at the same time that a new Russian envoy, Alexander Schvarzev, was being formally accepted.

Pay Final Calls.

At 9 a. m. yesterday, the British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson called at the foreign office and presented an ultimatum. Shortly before 11 o'clock a German memorandum was presented to the British rejecting the ultimatum. At 11:35 a. m. Henderson called to bid farewell to the Germans.

At 12:30 p. m. the French ambassador, Robert Coulondre, called at the foreign office warning that unless he received a favorable reply, France would fulfill her treaty obligations toward Poland starting at 5 p. m. [11 a. m. Sunday, Chicago time]. At the same time, the French ambassador bade farewell to German officials.

Immediately negotiations started for the return of French delegations to France by way of Belgium and English officials to England.

France and England have small groups in Germany compared with the number of diplomats and diplomatic aids the Germans have in London and Paris.

The French train will contain between thirty and forty passengers, whereas the Germans, though their ambassador is in Berlin, have 130 waiting in Paris to be returned home.

The American chargé d'affaires, Alexander Kirk, yesterday took over the affairs of the British and French embassies. The American government agreed to British and French requests to conduct their business in Germany during the war. Kirk was here in the world war time and therefore, to him as for a number of correspondents here, this seemed like a dim echo from the past rapidly turning into new, hard reality.

At the American embassy the atmosphere was tense until a telegram was received saying the special train carrying sixty American women and children had reached the ferry boat that will take them to Denmark.

Gather at Chancellery.

All day women and children and a sprinkling of men massed before the chancellery exchanging reminiscences of the past war and hopes for the present conflict.

A breath of grimmer reality was felt toward noon when military ambulances were seen driving through the city and many persons claimed they had seen hospital trains arriving in Berlin this morning.

The reaction of the German people to Hitler's declaration showed that it will be hard to stir up enthusiasm like that felt in Germany in 1914. Many see the hand of Dictator Josef Stalin behind the scenes. The radio reported that Russian oil shipments by sea would start at once.

Hitler's proclamation to his party and the people forecast a complete reorganization of life in Germany.

Two extraordinary war time decrees, applying the death sentence for espionage and insurgency, and stern punishment for other military crimes, were made effective. The death penalty also was decreed for any soldier or civilian who attempts to weaken the army or the people in their "defense determination" or who seeks to evade military service in any form.

Further military penalties for desertion and unlawful absence from the country have been sharpened.

A decree made effective immediately created border zones along the sea and facing Poland in Bohemia in which foreigners and questionable persons are not allowed. Foreigners may pass through these areas on trains.

Hears War Talk

EX-KAISER WILHELM.

DOORN, The Netherlands, Sept. 3 (AP).—The former German kaiser, vanquished and exiled by the last world war, followed the new one tonight before a gigantic map of Poland hung in the great hall at Doorn. Methodically and with the precision of one long versed in warfare he placed little colored pins to indicate the positions of the opposing armies; their advances and retreats, towns bombarded and objectives falling to the German arms.

When Britain declared war this morning the bent old man, once the "all highest" of the German empire, sat hunched before a radio. He was one who could listen to the momentous decision without fear of the decree forbidding Germans to heed foreign stations under pain of imprisonment or possible death.

Enter War on Anniversary of Treaty Freeing America

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—France and Great Britain went to war against Germany in defense of Poland and the "liberty of nations" on the 156th anniversary of the signing of the definitive treaty of Versailles which gave the United States its independence from England. The treaty was signed Sept. 3, 1783.

voking Germany without any danger—more, to allow it to attack.

"The British government, however, is mistaken about one thing; the Germany in 1939 is no longer the Germany of 1914, and the chancellor of the present German reich no longer is Bethmann Hollweg.

[Dr. Theobald von Bethmann-Hollweg was the German chancellor under Kaiser Wilhelm II. from 1909 to 1917. He died in 1921. One of his most famous utterances of the world war was that of calling the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium "a scrap of paper."]

Will Defend Reich.

"I have already announced in my speeches at Saarbruecken and at Wilhelmshaven that we would defend ourselves against the British encirclement policy. Above all, I left no doubt that despite all patience and forbearance, the Polish attacks against Germans, as well as against the Free City of Danzig, must come to an end.

"Strengthened through the British guarantee declaration and through the assertions of British war agitators, Poland thought it could disregard this warning. For two days the German army has been fighting in the east in order to reëstablish the security of the reich's territory.

"Polish resistance will be broken by our soldiers. Let England understand that today 90 million human beings are united in the German reich. They are determined not to let themselves be choked off by England.

"Have Will to Live."

"They have not conquered by war 40 million square kilometers [24,854,000 square miles] on this earth as England has. But they have the will to live on land which belongs to them. And not to allow England to take this life from them.

"The German people know that the British people as a whole cannot be made responsible for all this. It is that Jewish plutocratic and democratic upper crust which in all peoples of the world desires to see only obedient slaves and which hates our new reich because it sees in it a model for social work which it fears because it might prove contagious also in their own country.

"The battle against this new effort to destroy Germany we now are taking up. We will fight with National Socialistic determination. British money, power, and politicians, however, will learn what it means to want to draw National Socialistic Germany into war without any cause!

"I was aware for months that the goal of these war agitators was formed for a long time. The intention to attack Germany on any favorable opportunity was certain. Resolution, however, to lead and repel this battle was even more certain!

"Germany will never again capitulate! Life under a second and even worse dictate of Versailles has no sense. We have never been a slave people, and never want to be in the future.

"Whatever sacrifices Germany had to make in the past for continuance of our people and our reich, they ought not to have been greater than those which we are ready to undertake today.

"No One Should Profit."

"This resolution is inexorable. It stipulates, therefore, thoroughgoing measures. It compels, above all, this rule on us: When a soldier fights on the front no one should profit through war. When a soldier falls on the front no one at home should avoid his duty.

"As long as the German people through its history was united it was never conquered. Only the disunity of 1918 led to the collapse. Whoever sins against our unanimity and unity must expect nothing else than that he will be annihilated as an enemy of the nation.

"If our people in such a manner fulfills its highest duty, then the Lord God, who always has given His grace to him who was determined to help himself, will also stand by us."

SUPPORT POLAND! CHICAGO CZECHS, SLOVAKS URGED

Czechs and Slovaks in Chicago were urged yesterday to give their moral support to Poland. The pleas were made by speakers at the Czecho-Slovak Labor day rally in Pilsen park, 26th street and Albany avenue. Nearly 5,000 persons attended.

Aloys Hruska, an official of the program, said the organizations represented were more interested in American labor than in the European situation. He added, however, that there were reports that Czechs here, who fled their country when Hitler marched in, would form a legion in Canada and go to defend Poland.

Several Polish organizations will hold a meeting in the Coliseum next Sunday, it was announced, to raise funds for Poland's defense.

Hohenzollern Prince Joins Hindenburg Bombing Squad

BERLIN, Sept. 3 (AP).—Among the German reservists serving their country is Prince Louis Ferdinand, 32 years old, descendant of the Hohenzollerns, who is a first lieutenant in the reserve. Leaving his wife and baby in a quiet country estate, he has joined the Hindenburg bombing squadron of the air force.

FRENCH BULWARK AGAINST ATTACK IS MAGINOT LINE

Underground Forts Form Defense Wall.

Along the Franco-German border between Belgium and Switzerland—a line 180 miles in length that follows the Rhine river valley for over half its distance—extends a chain of hills.

One system of ridges lies in France, the other in Germany. And these hills today conceal vast interconnected lines of fortifications built by both nations.

On the French side of the border lies the mighty Maginot line—probably the most impregnable continuous fortified line in the world. It represents the modern atonement for the mistake of French militarists in 1914, when they disdained defense by fortification and depended entirely on infantry assault to halt invaders.

Region a Haunted Area.

Across the main valley—three tiers deep—are the new lines of fortifications upon which the Nazis have had 300,000 conscripted men working since midsummer of 1937. The three German lines are the Siegfried line, closest to the French border; the Hindenburg line, a secondary defense; and the Hitler line, the third and main line of forts.

The entire area along the international boundary is a haunted region. Half a million men await battle there. It is forbidden territory for visitors in either country. And natives have been quietly evacuated from the military zones.

These now form a belt ranging from 30 to 60 miles deep along the frontier. This region is filled with lookout posts, alarm signals, periscopes, sound locating posts, and barrages of infra-red ray detecting units. Every hummock and wooded copse conceals a heavy caliber cannon or a multiple machine gun nest.

The word line used in connection with any of these fortifications conjures up an incorrect picture of them. One visions towering forts like those at Verdun. The true picture is that of a vast underground city effectively hidden.

Little Above Ground.

This is particularly true of the Maginot line. Only a few spires and turrets of this line of underground barracks, store houses, ammunition dumps, machine shops, and rail freight-heads extend to the surface. And these contain the newest and most deadly weapons devised for warfare. Engineers say this is one of the greatest construction feats of the century.

It is known that almost 15,000,000 cubic yards of earth have been removed during the years between 1929 and 1936 from the Maginot line.

There were 1,750,000 cubic yards of concrete cast; and 50,000 tons of steel plate set in position. Galleries were hollowed out to connect the main forts with smaller advanced posts that in length exceed 600 miles. And the work continues.

There is no continuous fort, and the best method of picturing the Maginot line is to think of it as a vast fleet anchored in the chain of hills. The fleet consists of battleships—the main forts; battle cruisers—a line of advance artillery in revolving turrets that barely show above the surface of the ground, and scouting craft—consisting of blockhouses, strong points, and machine gun redoubts.

All Units Coöperate.

As in a fleet, all the units coöperate in action. The blockhouses are intended to delay any enemy assaulting in force for at least three days. This would allow sufficient time for the French army commanders to bring up reënforcement and to determine the strength and direction of the foe's attack.

Then, when the scouting forces have done their duty, they fall back upon the main fleet. But in the famed Maginot line, the defenders of the blockhouses would retreat through a system of underground passages that would be closed behind them. From the artillery posts another retreat could be made to the main forts.

Drawn on a map, the posts would not form any continuous line. Instead they are arranged so that the fire of one covers the flank and falls obliquely across the area directly in front of another. The result is that a deadly diamond of frontal and flanking fire would meet any assaulting party.

Entire Works Ventilated.

All these works are ventilated by special filtered air under forced draft. This is a perfect defense against gas.

Gun loaders and gun pointers never see their target. They merely lay their gun as sailors do in warship turrets—by following orders given by an officer outside the turret in a special hermetically sealed and armored chamber. From these chambers the artillery officers can see outside through special panoramic telescopes built into their posts.

They control the fire by reference to gridded maps that enable them to achieve a systematic and accurate shelling of every zone. They transmit their orders to the gun crews on a dial that indicates range and deflection.

Communicate by Telephone.

Communication with all the forts, artillery turrets, and strong points is telephonic. The lines are buried thirty feet deep in concrete slabs. For each line there are at least two alternatives on different circuits. They converge at message centers and switchboards installed 150 feet deep. The boards give service to 25,000 subscribers.

A final precaution, taken from world war lessons, was considered in constructing the main forts. This lesson was learned in the assault on the forts at Verdun. On one occasion defenders inside were unable to fight a German troop that climbed the superstructure of the fort itself.

Along the Maginot line, light machine guns cover every point on the casemates of all the forts. It is impossible to stand anywhere on the crest of any of the forts without being within range of guns that cover from every angle.

Line Develops Traditions.

The Maginot line, conceived in 1926 and actively in the process of construction since 1928, is old enough to have developed certain traditions and tales of its own.

The troops that permanently occupy the line and are specially trained to operate the automatic weapons of the forts, artillery turrets, and strong points are called the "ecrevisses de rampart" by French army regulars. That is "shellfish of the forts." These shellfish are recruited exclusively from the Paris region and the department of Aude.

In their honor, the French army has revived the old tradition of geographical names. So today, in the French army there are regiments called the Lautere, the Basses-Vosges, the Haute-Alsace, and others, as there used to be the Royal Lorraine or the Sambre-et-Meuse regiment. They wear a khaki beret whose badge is a shield with a concrete casemate on a field of barbed wire.

12 in Each Squad.

The shellfish are the men who will be depended upon to bear the brunt of any attack. Distributed in squads of twelve to each of the strongpoints they live—in peace—a wartime routine: Fifteen days in the line, fifteen days of rest.

The men lead an active life. When in the line they stand watches in rotation, day and night, in the alarm post, which is a forward observation point. The rest of the command is ever ready for a call to action. There is to be no sudden victory by surprise assault on the line.

Morale of all the regular defenders is carefully watched. Isolation and silence have a depressing effect. When the forts were first occupied, commands were quartered in them. The concrete sweated profusely and strange nervous disorders developed from the echoes in the corridors.

Activity Found Best Cure.

Finally a regularly recognized form of "bluee" began developing among the troops. This is now known as "betonite"—or concretitis. The men's barracks then were moved back from the line to collapsible houses that can be folded up. From these they can plunge into the largest forts, upon the sound of an alarm, within a few minutes.

Activity is the best cure for concretitis. As a result, the shellfish constantly are digging, camouflaging, and stiffening the network of barbed wire and tending the tank traps.

Considerably less information is known about the German lines of forts. They are even longer than the Maginot line. They extend across the entire western boundary of Germany, from Switzerland to the North sea. Thus they are along the Belgium and Netherlands borders, as well as that of France.

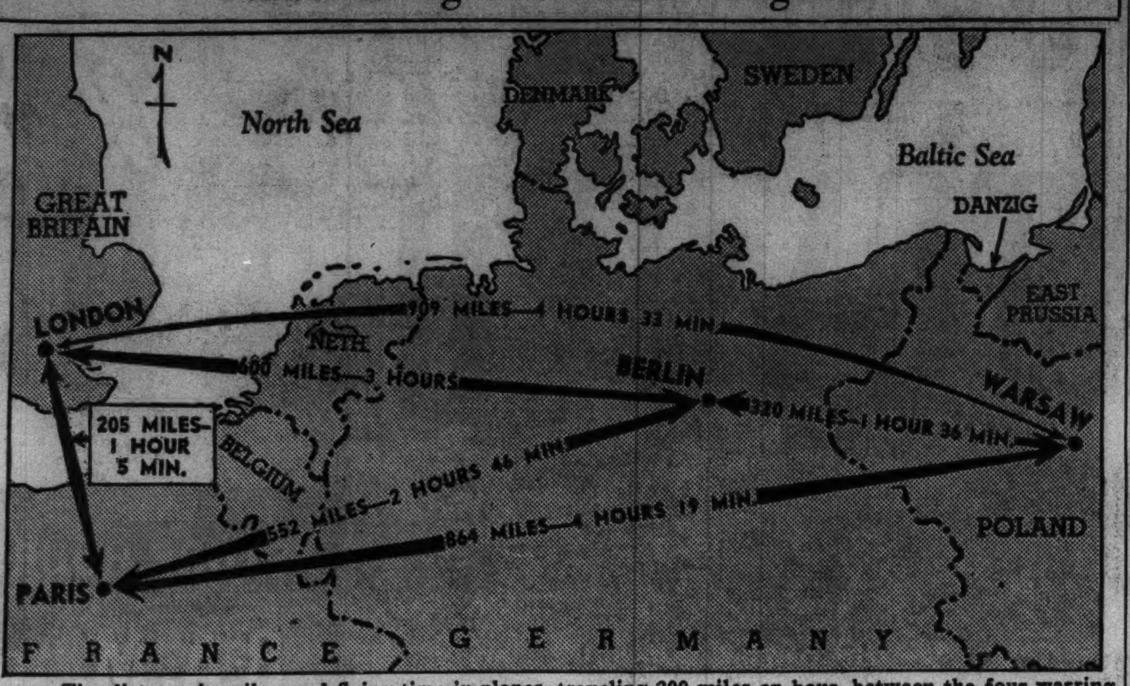
Because less time has been available for the construction of the German forts they are less permanent in character than the Maginot underground defenses. They consist of thousands of small positions that will be manned by only a few men each. The arms will be machine guns and light cannon.

Deep Roads Constructed.

The second and third lines consist of larger partially buried artillery emplacements, supported and surrounded by deep trenches, machine-gun posts, and by deep roads that afford the utmost protection to reserves that may be called into action and to routes for movement of ammunitions and supplies.

The German military engineers have followed the French example by establishing miles of barbed wire entanglements and tank traps of all sorts. They also have laid out scores of small flying fields close to the frontier for the use of the German air corps in war time.

Planes Bring Foes Closer Together



The distance in miles, and flying time in planes traveling 200 miles an hour, between the four warring capitals of Europe. The greatest distance is between London and her ally, Warsaw. Warsaw and Paris are both within easy reach of Berlin.

GERMAN PICNIC QUIET AS ALLIES ENTER CONFLICT

News of the British and French declarations of war against Germany were received quietly yesterday by persons at the twenty-eighth annual folk festival of the United German-Austrian-Hungarian societies in Riverview park. Speakers did not mention the war. Only the United States flag was displayed.

More than seventy-two organizations were represented. Frank K. Waldherr, publisher of German and Austrian papers, directed arrangements. He also heads the Austrian-Hungarian Foreign War Veterans, who were represented.

Waldherr said bund organizations were not invited and were not present. He said few of the picnickers approved Hitler's methods.

Order Bessarabian German Schools Opened in Rumania

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 3.—The Rumanian government, meeting the German minority's claims, has ordered the reopening of all Bessarabian German schools. Children of Rumanian origin will be permitted to attend. Further school buildings taken from the Lutheran church have been returned. Air service between Rumania and Jugoslavia, Italy, Bulgaria, and Turkey is reported to be normal.

ITALIANS EXPECT TO KEEP OUT, AT LEAST FOR TIME

Report Duce Is Continuing Efforts for Peace.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 3.—The Italian public was calm and unruffled today, apparently certain this country will remain neutral, at least for the present.

There were no special editions of newspapers announcing that Great Britain and France had declared war on Germany and business was conducted as usual, as far as could be ascertained.

The Italian press appeared to take an objective view of the troubled international situation, at the same time dropping hints that some doors still are ajar to settle the conflict before it becomes a world conflagration.

Report Il Duce Is Active.

There were reports that Premier Benito Mussolini was continuing efforts to bring peace out of chaos, but the direction his efforts were taking could not be learned. However, it was said in authoritative quarters he was in close contact with Berlin all day.

Thirty trains connecting Italy with Switzerland and France will be discontinued tomorrow due to closing of the Swiss frontier. The last Rome-Paris express train left today.

Blackouts in Rome apparently have been suspended for the present. Residents already have spent several nights trodding the city in darkness. Evacuation of the larger cities continues.

A total of 400,000 men of the classes of 1913 and 1903, called up recently, went into uniform today. Private motor traffic ended at midnight and dance halls have been ordered closed.

Expect Request for Stand.

ROME, Sept. 3 (AP).—The British and French governments are expected to ask the Italian government within a few days for a declaration of Italy's intentions in the war against Germany, it was said in official circles tonight.

Reliable sources said the British and French would want to know Italy's position exactly because of the duties involved in a neutrality stand—if that is to be Italy's course. One of these duties would be the prevention of delivery of such contraband as war supplies to belligerents.

Italy's intention to maintain normal trade relations with Germany was reported in official circles.

FLY WAR PLANES TO CANADA FOR USE OF EMPIRES

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 3 (AP).—Three major aircraft manufacturers in this area today continued operations to complete and deliver the remaining $25,650,000 worth of an original $61,000,000 series of orders from Great Britain and France.

Terms of orders placed by the two empires with the Douglas, Lockheed and North American factories guarantee the three companies against losses occasioned by an embargo on their products, spokesman for the companies said.

Lockheed was spurring delivery of the remaining $9,850,000 worth of twin-engined bombers to England by flying them to Canada. An order for 250 of the planes at a cost of $27,000,000 was placed by Great Britain with Lockheed.

The freighter Wyoming of the French lines sailed from here today with 23 bombing planes aboard. They are destined for the French air ministry at Le Havre, France.

Daily Mail to Print News on Front Page First Time

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—The Daily Mail announced today that for the first time it would print news on the front page tomorrow instead of advertisments. The paper said the change was made to enable readers to see war news immediately. The Times remains the only London daily to print advertisments on the first page.

EXPECT RUSSIA'S POSITION TO BE NEUTRAL IN WAR

MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (AP).—Sources close to the soviet government emphasized tonight that they expected to remain neutral in a European war. They strongly hinted that in no case would their army march at the side of Germany's.

At the same time these sources pointed out that they expected to lend economic aid both to Germany and her foes.

The Russians, in supporting their plan to lend economic aid to both sides, asserted that during the Chinese-Japanese war and the Spanish civil war, American and munitions and supplies to both sides.

TRIBUNE EDITIONS KEEP PACE WITH EVENTS ABROAD

War Extras Climax Two History Making Days.

A series of war extras yesterday climaxed a record breaking achievement of THE TRIBUNE in supplying Chicagoland with news of European events practically as fast as they occurred.

Saturday and yesterday this newspaper published editions over a span of 24 hours, ending with the extras. Then, with scarcely a pause, work was begun on regular editions of today's TRIBUNE. Papers containing the latest bulletins and last minute reports continued to come from the presses.

W-G-N on 24 Hour Basis.

While employes of every department were coöperating with faultless teamwork, radio station W-G-N, on a 24 hour basis, also was getting the news to listeners. News flashes were broadcast steadily, night and day. W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System aired all important developments and scored one notable scoop—the presentation of Prime Minister Chamberlain making his proclamation of war.

On Saturday Tribune editors and the heads of the mechanical and circulation departments anticipated developments. Extra printers, engravers, stereotypers, pressmen, and circulation men were called in or asked to hold themselves in readiness. That afternoon, at 4:15 o'clock, the first Sunday papers, the one star home edition, were printed. The headline read: "Give Hitler Last Chance," indicating what was to come. There were special editions at 5:05, 5:40, and 6:15. At 8:45 the two star home edition went to press with the headline: "Set Deadline for Hitler."

Word of British Action Comes.

There were other frequent changes to midnight, when the two star final said, "Fix New Hitler Zero Hour," and contained an announcement that THE TRIBUNE would publish war extras Sunday if the occasion arose. A special edition at 1:30 a. m. was followed at 3:15 a. m. by another. At 5:15 a. m. came the news that Britain was about to declare war.

The presses were shut down as confirmation was awaited. It was not long in coming. New editions headlined "Britain Goes to War" were rushed to press and the papers were dispatched in special trucks to all parts of the city and suburbs. Half THE TRIBUNE'S city subscribers received these papers.

Circulation trucks caught up with carriers as they were making their rounds and these news sections were exchanged for those printed previously. The war papers were sent by train to many cities within an eighty-five mile radius.

Start Work on War Extra.

The presses were printing Sunday papers with the news of Britain's entry into the war until after 10 a. m. yesterday. Before they stopped, plans were being made for the first war extra—an extra edition of the Monday paper—when France joined England as a combatant.

News dealers within a radius of 300 miles of Chicago were notified that the extras were coming, and took their places in the Tribune organization.

A back page of war pictures, featuring photographs transmitted by the Associated Press Wirephoto service, was prepared for the eight page extra. Bulletins and detailed stories came over the wires of the Associated Press and United Press, and from Tribune correspondents.

At 11:35 a. m. the first war extra went to press. The headline was "Britain, France: War!"

Then new bulletins, new pictures, new stories were prepared for printing as fast as they were received and the pages of the extra were changed to make a place for them. It was 2:20 p. m. before the last of the extras was off the press.

Regular Editions Follow.

And then there was only a brief lull before the first regular Monday edition went to press at 6 o'clock.

At W-G-N, the first scoop of the day came at 5:15 a. m. when W-G-N-Mutual was on the air first with Chamberlain's speech proclaiming that a state of war existed. It broadcast direct through arrangement with the British Broadcasting company.

The speech of King George VI. telling the British people of repeated British attempts to secure peace, and the failure of these efforts, was among the many other war broadcasts over W-G-N.

CLIPPER TAKES OFF FOR EUROPE WITH 24 ABOARD

New York, Sept. 3 [Special].—Casually and with only a handful of spectators present, the American Clipper of Pan American Airways took off from its Port Washington base at 9:27 Chicago time this morning, after a delay of nearly two hours due to a low-lying fog. Twenty-four passengers were bound for Foynes, Ireland, via the northern route, of which Botwood, N. F., is the American jumping off place. Large American flags have been painted on the Clipper's wings.

The passengers—Americans, Canadians, and Britons—ranged from Kaye Don, famous racing car and speed boat record maker, to a 13 year old school boy, Mervin Herbert, a nephew of Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, who is returning alone to Eton after a summer in camp in Maine.

After the announcement that the plane would be delayed due to the morning fog, the passengers went to a lunchroom and listened to news bulletins. Several of the Britishers, seeming to sense for the first time that England definitly is at war with Hitler, expressed relief from the strain of waiting. "It's fantastic," one of them put it, "but this time we must do a job of it."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Chicagoans voiced firm opposition yesterday to American participation in the European war.

Interviewed by THE TRIBUNE in a survey of sentiment, business and professional men and women and public officials were agreed that the United States should not go to war unless she is attacked. It was the consensus that the nation's first concern should be the economic problem and that Americans should stay on their side of the Atlantic.

Most of those interviewed urged strict neutrality, although sentiment favored the empires and some advocated economic aid to them. The question asked was, "Should we enter the war?" Here are the answers:

MEN'S VIEWS

Mayor Edward J. Kelly.—No. Of course we shouldn't get into the war. America should stay out unless it becomes absolutely necessary to protect ourselves. I think that is the sentiment of the American people.

Assessor John S. Clark.—I am against the United States participating in any foreign war unless we are attacked. I have three boys that we didn't raise to be soldiers.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht.—We should stay out and save democracy at home. Our moral sympathy to the allies, yes, but armed help, no.

State Senator Harold G. Ward.—Unless we are attacked or our shores invaded, there is no reason for us to participate in any European war. We should, however, increase the army and navy and repeal the so-called neutrality act.

Julius Miner, 2842 Sheridan road, lawyer and master in chancery.—Definitly no. The very democracy we helped preserve in 1918 now threatens to destroy Europe. Only by keeping our own torch of Liberty burning can we brighten the hopes of the entire world.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph Wakefield, pastor of Irving Park Methodist church and president of the Chicago Church federation.—We certainly should not be drawn into the present war. Our entry would not and could not aid in solution of problems arising from hatreds bred in differences of race and traditions.

The Rev. Dr. John Thompson, pastor of First Methodist church, Chicago Temple.—Eventually we will get in, no matter how much I hope that we will not.

The Rev. Dr. Lacey K. Williams, pastor of Olivet [Negro] Baptist church and president of the National Baptist convention.—We should not enter. There is no just provocation, and our neutrality laws if enforced will save us from provocation that would lead us into war.

The Rev. Carl E. Lund-Quist, pastor of Concordia [Augustana] Lutheran church, who returned yesterday from World Youth meeting at Amsterdam.—No purpose would be served by America's entering the war. It was the consensus of youth opinion at Amsterdam that the method of war always raises more problems than it ever settles.

The Rev. Howard Brinker, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church.—We should not go into the war but we cannot avoid taking sides personally. There is a lot of propaganda going around and we will have to use our powers of discrimination.

Dr. Arthur J. Todd, 602 Lake street, Evanston, head of the sociology department of Northwestern university.—We should still work for peace, not only peace for ourselves but peace for the other nations at war.

Fred W. Sargent, 2870 Sheridan place, Evanston, former president of the Chicago & North Western railroad.—We should certainly not enter the war. We must stay neutral and attend to our own business. We have all we can take care of here.

Charles M. Hayes, 438 Sheridan road, Winnetka, president of the Chicago Motor club.—I think it would be one of the most unfortunate things that could happen. We should certainly never have our men cross any ocean.

Dr. A. E. Wuesteman, 3017 East 91st street, physician.—The political turmoil in Europe is no concern of ours. The racial problems behind it have existed for centuries and probably won't be settled by this war.

Dr. Norbert M. J. Latz, 1944 Sedgwick street, physician.—We should not enter the war—absolutely not. What reason have we for taking part in it? We are self-sustaining. We don't need the other nations.

Dr. C. S. Lisowski, 2724 West Logan boulevard, dentist—We should not send any men to Europe, but I do think we should aid the democratic powers economically.

Dacey Simmons, 2053 Larrabee street, contractor—I believe the United States should not go into the war. This struggle is strictly for nationalistic gain, and is not a philosophic fight for democracy.

John P. Oleson, chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago—At the present moment I am entirely against our participation in this war. It isn't our fight, and I can't think any person could justify our entry.

Laurance Armour, president of the American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago—We should maintain strict neutrality toward the belligerent countries. Only time will tell what will be the best position for us to take.

James R. Glass, 1230 Lunt avenue, attorney, and former United States commissioner—We should get into the war only if it becomes necessary to protect ourselves. I think we are a long way away from that point now.

Edward B. Casey, 6914 Sheridan road, attorney, and former judge—Good God, no! We shouldn't get into the war. Our experience of twenty years ago ought to be enough to convince any one that we have nothing to gain and much to lose by fighting over there. Saving the world for democracy is a lot of hooey.

Otto Y. Schnering, 934 Michigan avenue, Evanston, president of the Curtiss Candy company—I am against our getting into war under present conditions. I am hoping for a miracle that will yet bring peace.

Samuel Blake, 2045 Lincoln Park West, park policeman—We saved the world for democracy in 1918, and now some people think we should do it all over again. Let Europe pay what it owes us, then fight this out.

WOMEN'S VIEWS

Mrs. William J. Weldon, 1340 Greenwood avenue, Wilmette, chairman of international relations, 10th district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs—Sentiment in this country always will be against the aggressor. Most of us, I feel sure, would wish that the democratic nations could have access to our raw materials.

Mrs. James M. Massie, 1622 Wallen avenue, president, 10th district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs—It's beyond me. Under no circumstances should we send troops overseas again. But I do think our sympathies are with Britain and France, and I am in favor of the "cash and carry" policy in selling to Europe.

Mrs. Ralph Merriam, 6025 Kimbark avenue, president, Northern Illinois branch of American Penwomen—No. I think we have no occasion for entering the European conflict. Our arms should be defensive arms for this country alone.

Mrs. E. W. Palm, 6711 Stewart avenue, treasurer Cook County council, American Legion auxiliary—I think we should keep out of European affairs. There is no reason why this country should become involved.

Miss Rosalind Wolff, past president, North Shore auxiliary of the Dorothy Kahn Club for Crippled Children—Enter the war? I think definitly not. Everything should be done to keep us completely free of European quarrels.

Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, 4816 Dorchester avenue, trustee, University of Illinois—Absolutely, no! During the last war I worked every day and half of the night in Red Cross work. This time I shall work just as hard against war.

Mrs. Jay Lubin, 6056 North Claremont avenue, vice president, American Jewish Congress—I hope we won't have to. Of course, it would be our duty to assist Great Britain and France, and meantime we should certainly aid them economically.

Mrs. W. Gray Brown, 212 South Grove avenue, Oak Park, vice president, British American League of Women—I hope not. I can't see how we can keep out. I pray we won't have to fulfill our obligation to Britain. We must help them economically and if the war continues, we will have to help with soldiers.

Miss Pearl I. Field, 7346 Luella avenue, regional director, Chicago Public Library—O, no! Not at all! We must do everything we can to prevent it, and to bring about peace. We can serve civilization best by bringing an end to bloodshed.

Mrs. Ora Snyder, 6912 South Shore drive, candy manufacturer—I don't think we should go to war, no, but I think we should lend every assistance to Great Britain and France.

Miss Olive E. Hanson, 1254 Elmdale avenue, district supervisor of art, Chicago Board of Education—We should not go to war. I'm neutral.

Dr. L. Grace Powell Sitzer, 6165 Winthrop avenue, medical and personnel director, William Wrigley Jr. company: We shall not enter the war! In view of the last war, it seems very hopeless to assist Europe in its troubles.

Dr. Anna Mary Mills, 1522 East 59th street, psychologist.—No, I should say not! If the countries right around them can remain neutral—the Scandinavian group, for instance—why can't we?

Miss Myra C. Billings, 6319 Kenwood avenue, principal, O'Toole elementary school.—How can we tell whether we will enter or not? I hope not. I hope that those who are leading in wrong, will see the light, and see it soon.

Miss Louise A. Willy, 10750 South Seeley avenue, magazine editor.—I am afraid we may be drawn into this war if it lasts long. Our neutrality law is itself ambiguous.

Mrs. Kenneth Horan, 1023 Sheridan road, Evanston, author and lecturer.—We can stay out of war only as long as our honor remains unquestioned. The United States must defend her principles.

Mrs. Margaret Corcoran Arnold, Georgian hotel, Evanston.—We should keep out of it until such time as democracy appears to be threatened.

Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, 2236 Orrington avenue, Evanston, attorney.—I am very much opposed to entering the war. We have too large an army and a preponderant navy to protect us from an invasion.

Miss Agnes Gambal, 444 St. James place, manicure.—I don't think that we should go to war over Poland. We have enough trouble and sorrow and worry right here at home. What did we get out of the last war but bad debts and the loss of many men.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beckman, 437 Deming place, housewife.—No, decidedly. We've got enough to do to solve our own economic and social problems over here without getting mixed up in another European war.

Miss Marie Johnson, 6125 Kenwood avenue, restaurant cashier.—No, we shouldn't. We have enough trouble in our country, and the government should use our money and men to get the United States on its feet.

HONGKONG PUTS ALL GERMANS IN A PRISON CAMP

Catholic School Made Into Internment Center.

HONGKONG, Sept. 3 (AP).—German residents in this outpost of the British empire were rounded up tonight for interment in a requisitioned Catholic church school around which a barbed-wire fence was stretched.

Just how many had been thus held was not ascertainable; a majority had left before Britain's declaration of war. Several told newspaper men that they would rather "get two meals a day in a Hongkong prison camp than to return to the fatherland."

Appeal For Defense Workers.

The authorities tonight appealed for 2,000 volunteers to take training as wardens in air raid precautions, in addition to several hundred already so qualified.

Hongkong was on a complete wartime basis. Decrees regulated the conduct of individuals, the movement of ships and aircraft and the operation of communications.

British ships took up positions at the entrance of the harbor, between which all other ships must pass. Civil aircraft likewise was made subject to military regulations. Any plane contravening them is liable to be shot down by the defense guns.

Airlines Keep Running.

At present, Pan-American airways; Pan-American's semi-Chinese subsidiary, China-National corporation; Imperial and Air-France are calling regularly at Hongkong.

A strict censorship on all telegraphic and radio communication is in force and the licenses of Hongkong's ten amateur radio broadcasting stations have been revoked.

JAPAN DECIDES ON 'WAIT AND SEE' WARTIME POLICY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—An urgent cabinet meeting was held this afternoon and it was decided to watch European developments and preserve freedom of action.

The press interprets this as "undeclared neutrality" and asserts that Germany's violation of the anti-comintern pact with Italy and Japan has placed Japan in a position of complete freedom.

Renzo Sawada, vice foreign minister, outlined the situation explaining how the former cabinet's plans to strengthen the anti-comintern pact has been abandoned as a result of Germany's agreement with soviet Russia. He then described the present position in Europe from the latest dispatches of Japanese ambassadors.

On the basis of this information the cabinet decided on its policy which, though qualified for the present by its intention to wait and see, is almost certain to become complete neutrality.

Having virtually decided on neutrality the cabinet next considered the economic effects the European war is likely to have on Japan's industrial expansion and "mobilization of materials policies" both of which are vital to the new order she is attempting to create in China.

All of Japan's military supplies from Europe will cease and Europe will absorb America's surplus. The pace of both the war and reconstruction in China will be slowed down it is expected, as munitions and raw materials are diverted to Europe.

DRAFT AMERICAN PROCLAMATIONS OF NEUTRALITY

Congress to Be Called for Revision of Embargoes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—Proclamations of American neutrality in the European war have been written, according to a White House statement today, and will be announced to the world when President Roosevelt has been notified formally and officially that Great Britain, France and Poland are at war with Germany.

In his speech, broadcast to the nation and the world tonight, President Roosevelt said the neutrality proclamation would be issued, but he did not indicate just when. [Text of the President's address will be found on Page 1.]

The proclamation of neutrality, said the White House statement, will be in accordance with international law and American policy. This will be followed by a proclamation announcing that a state of war exists in Europe. The second proclamation is required by the neutrality act of 1937 and automatically prohibits shipment of arms, ammunition and war implements to belligerents.

Cabinet Meets Today.

The President has called a special meeting of his cabinet for tomorrow afternoon to discuss all aspects of the European war. In his speech tonight he said congress will be called into special session to revise or repeal the neutrality act.

Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, said the neutrality proclamation might not come before Tuesday and that the call for congress will not be made until after the neutrality proclamations.

President Roosevelt desires revision of the arms embargo act so as to permit the sale of war supplies to any and all belligerents if they acquire title to them in this country for cash and transport them in their own ships.

Opposed as Taking Sides.

Administration spokesmen say the embargo on arms denies Great Britain and France the advantage of obtaining war supplies in this country to which their control of the seas entitles them. Advocates of the present regulations contend the proposed revision, which would favor Britain and France, would amount to taking sides and would involve the United States in the war.

Besides the neutrality proclamation it was announced that the state, justice and treasury departments had prepared other proclamations intended to cushion the nation's financial system against the shock of war in Europe, to prevent the broadcasting of propaganda by radio and for other purposes.

Great Britain's declaration of war early this morning was reported to the state department by Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and to Mr. Roosevelt personally by William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France.

The declaration of war resulted in a series of early morning conferences among high administration officials and intense activity throughout the day.

Ships of Navy Notified.

At 5:30 a. m. Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison sent this message to all ships of the navy: "France and England are now at war with Germany. You will govern yourselves accordingly." This was to notify the naval vessels to abide by the rules of international law respecting the rights and responsibilities of neutrals, officials declared.

President Roosevelt's expression of sympathy tonight for Britain, France and Poland, against the encroachments of Hitler was in contrast with the appeal of Woodrow Wilson on Aug. 18, 1914, when he asked the nation to be impartial in thought as well as action as European nations took the field for war.

Wilson told the nation it must put a curb on sentiments as well as upon every transaction that might be construed as a preference for one party over another in the struggle. Two years later Wilson was reëlected to the presidency on the slogan that he kept the United States out of war. Five months after he was elected he led the nation into war.

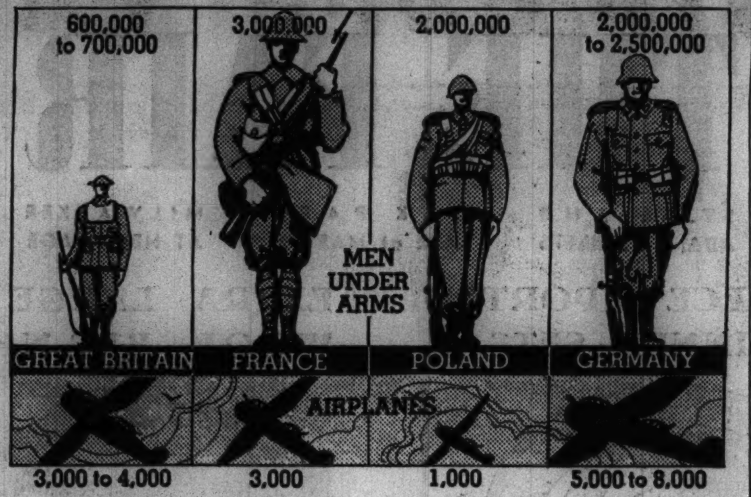
Reiterates Hate of War.

The only similarity between speeches of the two presidents was in Mr. Roosevelt's statement tonight: "I have said not once, but many times, that I have seen war and that I hate war. I say that again and again."

Although he said he would do everything possible to keep the United States out of war, Mr. Roosevelt did not say the United States could and would keep out. He said it was the duty of the United States to exert its influence in seeking for humanity a final peace which will eliminate so far as possible the continued use of force between nations.

The President admonished the nation to discriminate between news and rumor and cautioned the press and radio to do likewise.

Size of Armies and Air Forces



The relative sizes of the armies and air forces of the four warring European nations. Germany's air fleet is considered to be the largest, and Poland's the smallest. Great Britain has the smallest number of men under arms at the present, and France the greatest. It is believed that France's army, brought to full war strength, would be double the number of men now in uniform in that country.

FIVE CHIEF PROVISIONS OF NEUTRALITY ACT ABOUT TO BE INVOKED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—This country's neutrality act, when invoked by the President, puts the following restrictions into effect:

1. Americans are forbidden to sell, and American ships are forbidden to carry, arms and implements of war to any warring power or to any other nation for trans-shipment to a belligerent.
2. American ships, however, may transport any other materials anywhere they choose. Foreign ships, including those of belligerents, may come to the United States and get cargoes other than actual arms and munitions.
3. Americans cannot make loans to warring nations except normal, short-term commercial credits and are forbidden to collect money for them or travel on their vessels.
4. American merchantmen trading with belligerents cannot arm themselves for protection against attack on the high seas.
5. The President may close United States harbors to submarines and armed merchantmen of belligerents if such action is deemed advisable to safeguard this country's neutrality or other interests.

Report Nazi Submarines Refueling in West Indies

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Sept. 3 [U. P.].—A Dutch coastwise steamer arriving here today reported four German submarines were fueling at Curacao, Dutch West Indies.

RULES DRAFTED FOR SHIPS USING PANAMA CANAL

Seek to Prevent Naval Clashes Nearby.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—A presidential proclamation concerning the use of the Panama canal by belligerent warships will be issued shortly, an official predicted today.

It will contain a long list of rules governing the conduct of warships in the canal zone, the length of their stay and the restrictions that may be placed upon them.

Generally, it was said, the regulations have two main purposes. One is to preserve American neutrality to as high a degree as possible; the other is to prevent naval clashes from occurring close to the canal.

Possible Regulations.

It was believed today that the regulation would follow these lines, more or less:

A warship would be permitted to pass through the canal only after its commanding officer had given written assurance that the regulations laid down by the United States authorities would be faithfully observed.

A warship could not revictual or take on stores in the canal zone except those strictly necessary. No fuel could be furnished except on written authorization of the canal authorities. In any event, no supplies could be sold directly by the United States government.

A warship could not embark or disembark troops, munitions or war materials in the canal zone, nor remain longer than twenty-four hours in the canal zone except in cases of distress, and even in those cases it would have to depart as soon as possible.

Rules for Warships.

A warship of one belligerent would have to stay in the canal zone for twenty-four hours after the departure of a warship of its enemy. This would prevent the canal zone from being used as a strategic starting point for raids and to keep naval clashes from occurring too close to the canal. Moreover, a warship could not leave the canal zone until twenty-four hours had passed after the departure of a merchantman of the enemy belligerent.

EACH OF 4 WAR CHIEFS IS A VET, BUT NEW ON JOB

Smigly-Rydz a Stubborn Foe of Naziism.

The army chiefs of the four powers involved in the European conflict are veteran soldiers with outstanding service records. All, however, are comparative newcomers to their high rank, having been appointed within the last four years.

Gen. Edward Smigly-Rydz, commander of the Polish armies, ironically enough was the organizer of the first battalion of Polish legionaires which fought with the Germans against the Russians in the early stages of the world war. But when the Germans dissolved the Polish legions because of the latter's refusal to swear allegiance to the kaiser, Smigly-Rydz then led a vast army against the German-Austrian occupation of his native land.

Smigly-Rydz Is Experienced.

Smigly-Rydz is 53 years old and has served in all branches of the army. After his war service he was instrumental in beating the soviet Russian armies which invaded Poland. In 1926 he came to Marshal Joseph Pilsudski's aid in carrying through the coup d'état that established Pilsudski as "father of his country."

Smigly-Rydz was named commander in chief of the army in 1936, a year after Pilsudski's death. A former artist, a student of history, Smigly-Rydz is also an uncompromising foe of Naziism.

Von Brauchitsch Not a Nazi.

Walter von Brauchitsch was named head of the German army in the diplomatic and military shakeup of February, 1938. He was reared in the Prussian army tradition, having served in the cadet corps and later as a lieutenant in the Guard-Grenadier regiment. During the world war, he was attached to the general staff, and when the war was over served as an officer in the Reichswehr.

Von Brauchitsch, who is 57, rose rapidly in the army after the rise of Hitler, although he is said not to be a member of the Nazi party. In September, 1935, he was made commander general of the First Army corps. When his immediate superior, Marshal Werner von Blomberg, resigned as war minister in 1938, the general reorganization of the upper ranks of the army catapulted Von Brauchitsch into the post of commander-in-chief.

Gort Is Brilliant Fighter.

Commander of the British forces is Viscount Gort, appointed in 1937 by War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, whom he had met when the two crashed while skiing in Switzerland. Known as a brilliant fighter, Viscount Gort, whose full name is John Standish Surtees Prendergast Vereker, won the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order, and the Military Cross in the world war. He is 53 and has seen service in India and Shanghai. He is known in military circles for his energy, industry, and blunt speech.

Gamelin a Hero of Marne.

Maurice Gustave Gamelin, France's war chief, has constantly warned against making any concessions to the axis powers. A veteran of service in North Africa and in the world war, Gamelin was largely responsible for the French victory at the battle of the Marne in September, 1914.

He entered the war a major and emerged a general. In the ensuing years, Gamelin, a mild mannered man with a gray mustache, had charge of armies sent to put down rebellions in the mandated territory of Syria. When the rebellion was over, Gamelin settled in Paris. He became chief of staff in 1929, and in 1935 he succeeded General Maxime Weygand as commander in chief. Gamelin in 67 and is especially known for his knowledge of maps and his memory.

SLOVAKIANS ENTER WAR WITH GERMANY; SEEK LOST AREAS

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Sept. 3 (AP).—Slovakia's fully mobilized army of 300,000 was told today by War Minister Gen. Ferdinand Csatlos that Slovak interests had "become allied to the German army and in hostile relationship to Poland."

His army, the minister added, again was "facing historic trial." Slovakia already is a base for German military operations against Poland.

"Hostilities," Csatlos went on, "have now started. Slovakia will be judged now and in future according to the Slovak troops' merit in battle. The maintenance of the nation depends upon their firmness, discipline, and coolness." His proclamation followed a speech in which Premier Josef Tiso said "our army will defend our independence and recover our historic territories from Poland."

50 Rumanian Merchants Arrested as Profiteers

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 3 (AP).—More than 50 merchants were jailed today, charged with profiteering in foodstuffs. Officials began investigating sharp rises in the prices of food and fuel.

PASSENGER TELLS HOW GERMAN SUB CONTACTED LINER

Miami, Fla., Sept. 3 (AP).—One of the 750 American cruise passengers put ashore in Havana by the German liner Columbus said today the ship had contacted a submarine and a small vessel, apparently a tender, at sea.

The informant declined to be quoted by name. He said the submarine fell in behind the liner and followed for four hours, apparently communicating with it by radio. The ship's commander, Capt. Wilhelm Daehne, was quoted as announcing that the ship was acting under German naval orders.

BRITAIN RATIONS GASOLINE; BANS LIST OF LUXURIES

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—The government today announced rationing of gasoline would be made effective September 16.

To conserve exchange for war purposes, the board of trade announced also a ban on the importation of the following commodities, terming them luxuries:

Halifax Militia Is Called to Guard Harbor's Forts

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 3.—Four Halifax militia units were called out to man the outforts around Halifax harbor and to guard vulnerable port facilities from sabotage. A recruiting station for the Royal Canadian artillery was opened at South barracks.

THE WAR GUILT.

The British government has published its white paper, containing the documents bearing on the Polish crisis. Probably the Germans, the French, the Poles, and any others who may be concerned will, in turn, hasten to publish their diplomatic papers if they have not already done so.

If the experience of 1914 is to be repeated, these booklets will constitute the raw material for a debate which may extend over many years Historical research has revealed that some relevant documents were left out from some of the compilations of 1914 and other documents were sharply edited to make a better showing. It will be well to bear this fact in mind. It will be well to remember, also, that the memoirs of the premiers, the foreign ministers, the ambassadors, and the generals have forced the revision of judgments based on the papers alone. The opening of the European archives has forced further revisions of opinion. In short, any one who seeks to reach final judgments on the basis of highly partisan presentations of the evidence is likely to go astray.

So far as this war is concerned, one of the most important questions will concern Germany's sixteen points. No doubt the Hitler partisans will insist that the offer was fair and reasonable, at least as a basis for discussion, and because it was not accepted by the Poles, and because they were not persuaded by the British and French to make peace on these terms, Germany must be absolved of all blame for starting the war.

Mr. Chamberlain says that the sixteen points were never presented directly to Poland for consideration, but were thrust upon the British almost at the last moment, without giving him and his government anything like an adequate opportunity to consider them. Germany's attack was already prepared and was launched so quickly that even if England had approved the German offer the acceptance could not have been delivered in time to avert hostilities. In any event, the whole course of German diplomatic and military activity over the last two years has forced distrust of her good faith and good will in international relations.

Obviously, between the two versions there are sharp divergences both of fact and interpretation. It must be said that the British government has made an impressive showing. A reading of the white paper leaves the impression that Herr Hitler had made up his mind for war and that Britain, though aware of his attitude, was conscientiously trying to avoid a conflict if it was possible to do so without surrendering Poland, and after Poland, Europe, to German domination.

Of course that is the impression which the British foreign office would seek to create, and that fact must be borne in mind. The publication of the white papers seems to leave the question to historians in something like this shape: The British have made a strong case to establish Germany's responsibility for the resort to arms. If Herr Hitler is to be absolved, it will be only by proof that the British have altered the documents or omitted material which should properly have been included.

CONTROL OF AMERICAN OPINION.

Radio as a carrier of news, as an instrument of governmental policy and as an influence on public opinion will find the European war its largest field of operation. Its organization, its narrators, commentators, and announcers have tested out their technique, its methods and possibilities, in handling numerous prior events, many of them, such as the Czecho-Slovakian crisis last year, directly related to the great conflict.

The radio is as nearly perfect a means of propaganda as a government could expect to find. It is emotional and dramatic. It can take the auditor to the scene and almost give him sight of it. He is put in a hall with the orator. He can be moved by accents of the voice and by the feelings of the speaker. He can be excited by the sounds from crowds and sounds of action.

The manipulators of this instrument are well aware of all its power which enables them to make people believe what they want them to believe. An enemy country can be penetrated unless great vigilance is used to prevent it and if a country's morale has begun to sag under adversity the propaganda might be decisive.

Neutral countries will be influenced by the best pleaders and most skilful persuaders. Opinions will be formed not on the facts but by the manner in which they are presented. We are probably opening the door now to the greatest attempt to control and use neutral sympathies the world ever experienced. At its best this will be extraordinarily adroit. It will be clothed in justice and fair-mindedness. The persuaders will be patriots truly devoted to their own country and doing their best to win it friends and thus defeat its enemies.

Americans should be equally devoted to their own country. Their paramount duty now is to the United States. In serving it, in thought and act, they are serving what is best in themselves. The welfare of America means the welfare of its citizens, not of one class of citizens above another, but all of them. The decisions of the United States, whatever they may be, must, if they are just and wise, be calculated in the terms of American flesh and blood. That is what is at stake. Beware of dangerous emotionalism. It clouds the judgment. Do not think in terms of vicarious sacrifice. Think of action as of your own person, your own family, your own people. Then thinking will begin right and right decisions will follow.

THE END OF A TRUCE.

There are those who say that the period from November, 1918, until September, 1939, was only a truce, during which the exhausted nations recuperated for a continuance of the struggle. Perhaps in the perspective of history this judgment will be sustained. Certainly there is much we can see now which confirms it.

Germany once again confronts England and France. The western powers have lost Russia as an ally but have Poland as a substitute. Italy, as in August, 1914, is on the sidelines. Turkey, and perhaps some of the other smaller states, have changed sides, but in the main the alignment is much as it was before. It seems probable, too, that many of the old slogans will be resurrected. One side will again proclaim a war for liberation from encirclement, for a place in the sun, and for self-defense. To the other it will again be a war for the sanctity of treaties, the rights of small nations, the preservation of the democratic way of life.

In November, 1918, Americans thought, perhaps naively, that the war was ended and that the period which followed it would see not a mere respite from hostilities but a genuine peace in Europe. We have been disappointed. We saw signs of reconciliation in the decade of the '20s, particularly at Locarno, but the mood was not to last. The turn came with the great depression in 1929. Because the economic collapse struck all nations alike, they might have been expected to draw together in a common effort to restore prosperity, but nations, and European nations in particular, do not behave that way. As the depression deepened the divisive forces became more pronounced.

By 1933 Herr Hitler had come to power and it was not long afterward, as we can now see, that all hope of a prolonged era of peace vanished. It was Europe's misfortune that the same forces which in Germany elevated Hitler to leadership brought star-gazers and weaklings, like MacDonald and Blum, to the top in England and France to sap their strength.

War finance laid the groundwork for the inflation of the '20s, the inflation that was called the new era until the bubble burst. Totalitarian government was also, to a great extent, a by-product of the war. In the war the nations had learned the techniques of economic and political control. The distress which followed 1929 made the return to totalitarianism easy, if not inevitable, particularly in those countries which had had little experience of economic or political freedom. In the other countries the preoccupation with economic difficulties served to obscure the political significance of the Fascist and communist upsurge.

Whether or not, as the cards lay, the resumption of hostilities could have been avoided, the fact remains that the nations of Europe are again marching. Americans read the day's news with pity and horror. There appears to be something which impels a considerable part of the population of the old world from time to time to go mad; to kill, to destroy, to violate every precept of Christianity. The madness is contagious, as we Americans well know.

Kipling's Kim resisted the effort to hypnotize him, to unseat his reason, by repeating to himself the multiplication tables, the symbol of reason. Americans may profit from this example. We may resist the war hysteria if we as the war clamor rises cling to the thought that nine-tenths of our people are here because they or their fathers sought escape from Europe, its tyrannies and its wars. We are here because we despaired of the old world. We sought to build a new nation on a new continent where a man could hold up his head and be unafraid.

Though the work is far from completed, we have here a land where men of many races and faiths have learned to live together in peace, and to prosper by so doing.

If we allow ourselves to be swept into the war we are not likely to escape its consequences of improverishment and spiritual exhaustion. If we can stay out of the war with honor we may hope to preserve for the world its brightest hope for the future.

SHUTTLECOCK.

[Washington Evening Star.]

Almost completely overshadowed by the European game of diplomacy is a minor but fascinating game of international battledore and shuttlecock now being played on this side of the Atlantic. The battledores are the immigration bureaus of the United States and of Cuba, and the shuttlecock is a certain Haim Flukman, refused entry into either country and shuttled back and forth between both of them until he is dizzy. The moment he lands he is locked up and told to make himself comfortable until the authorities decide what to do with him. Days, weeks, or months later he is informed that he cannot stay and ordered to pack up his belongings and go on board. So he grabs his toothbrush and again departs, only to encounter the same routine at the other end.

The trouble started in 1933 when Flukman carelessly allowed himself to be caught among a band of aliens being smuggled into the Florida keys. When it was learned that he had a wife and four children in Cuba he was returned there. It was pretty hard to get away from the fact that he had been living there with his family for ten years, but they made a game try, and underhandedly shot him back. He made a good landing in a Florida jail, was lobbed back to the Havana calaboose, and from there returned with thanks. Again he was sent to Cuba, and batted back to Florida. Once more the human shuttlecock is en route to the island republic—a man without a country.

It was not always thus. At one time he belonged to Russia, which now wants no part of him, as he showed the bad taste in 1923 of giving up his allegiance to Stalin. Comrade Senor Mister Haim Flukman is definitly a free lance. He says his services as a citizen are open to any nation that wants them, at half price. The very moment he gets a bid he promises faithfully to renounce his present citizenship in the Atlantic ocean and settle some place where he can step outdoors without getting his feet wet.

CLASSIC DETECTIVE TALES.

Our recent game of finding detective stories in the Bible ["Susanna and the Elders," etc.] was a pleasant amusement, but after all, it was merely literary antiquarianism. The authentic creator of tales of mystery and detection as we find them today in abundance in the bookshops and circulating libraries was Edgar Allan Poe. The late Willard Huntington Wright, alias S. S. Van Dine, a close student of the subject, has testified to this effect, and his argument is sound.

Poe's stories of the exploits of C. Auguste Dupin were published in 1841, 1842, 1843, and 1845. They had an immediate and enormous influence in France, and in 1848 Dumas turned his famous character, D'Artagnan, to mystery solving in the long passages in "The Vicomte de Bragelonne" that deal with the Man in the Iron Mask.

The next great step was taken in England by Charles Dickens—"Bleak House" with its Inspector Bucket [1853]. Dickens' last work, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" [1870], would have been a masterpiece in this field if it had been completed.

Other trail blazers and milestone makers were Wilkie Collins, with "The Woman in White [1860]; Emile Gaboriau, with "L'Affaire Lerouge" [1866] and "Le Dossier No. 113" [1867]; Fortuné de Boisgobey, who influenced A. Conan Doyle, with "Le Forçat Colonel" [1872], and many other stirring and popular tales; and Anna Katherine Green, with "The Leavenworth Case" [1878].

A PAIR OF OLD FOLKS.

He went along about the same,
For that would be his way,
When mother died (Annie to him),
But I heard father say:

"I guess I miss the little things
That Annie did for me—
I know it now, she was my ears,
My eyes, and memory.

"The many times I clean forgot
A name, a date, a place;
But she remembered like a flash
And sort of saved my face."

Yes, father said this with a smile,
For he was just that kind;
But who could know so well as I
The ache and loss behind?

And now he too has gone away,
Has found, I think, apart
From ears, and eyes, and memory,
Just Annie—and his heart.

Watching the Choo-Choo Trains Go By.

For watchers of super trains [Aug. 26, Sept. 1]:

The No. 1 spot in Chicago is the Englewood Union station, where the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Rock Island, and Nickel Plate converge. There is no speed here, but there is a thrill in seeing the Commodore Vanderbilt, Twentieth Century, Broadway Limited, Liberty, General, and the others pull in and out. The best time is between 2 and 5 p. m.

The No. 2 spot, to my way of thinking, is at either Chesterton [New York Central] or Hamlet, Ind. [Pennsylvania]. Here are the half mile long water troughs where the engines "pick up" on the fly. They scoop up water—10,000 gallons—at fifty-five or sixty miles an hour.

A Relic for High School Students.

On the north side of Monroe street between Halsted and Des Plaines streets there is an old building which bears the date 1855. It was Chicago's first high school. It was completed in 1856 and opened on Oct. 8 of that year. Its first principal was Charles A. Dupee, and his faculty in 1858 consisted of Leander H. Potter, Edward S. Delano, George Howland, J. O. Hudnutt, George C. Clarke, Alexander Coignard, Oscar Faulhaber, and S. Grace Thompson. Its first class contained 179 addicts.

The Movies Can Do No Wrong!

Regarding the alleged boner in the movie "Juarez" [Aug. 26]:

John Wycliff, an English contemporary of Chaucer and first translator of the Bible, advocated "government of the people, by the people, for the people," in his teachings. I think we can be safe in saying that Louis Napoleon quoted from a fourteenth century writer, as did Lincoln later on. So there!

COUNTRY WOMAN IN TOWN.

Bewildered by the babel of harsh sound,
The maddening roar of cars, the screeching train,
The constant throb as weary footsteps pound,
Where dingy canyons wall the dirty street,
Drab tenements whose reeking maws enclose
Incessant fetid anguish and defeat,
She dreams of sun-drenched dazzling country snows.

Forlorn, she sits for hours and hours alone,
Through wretched din by day and dreadful night,
Eyes lifted to the patch of sky her own,
A meager square one window grants her sight.
Serene, untrammeled, gloriously still and high,
The sky was even here . . . God's blessed sky.

The Clown of Madison Street.

Does any old time Chicagoan remember "Crazy" Leonard, an eccentric colored man who in the late eighties and early nineties could be seen daily along West Madison street, from Ashland avenue to Hoyne avenue, performing antics for the amusement of the populace? He did odd jobs for shopkeepers and housewives, for which he was given food, dilapidated furniture, and cast-off clothing. His dormitory was in a store basement, and it was a veritable old curiosity shop.

Frequently he would deck himself out in female raiment with a mammoth hat. His favorite corner, where he stood for hours bowing to passersby, was Madison and Paulina streets.

Once the gang at Bernard Stein's saloon took him to a minstrel show in a building opposite McVicker's theater, originally called Hershey's hall and afterward known as Sam T. Jack's. "Crazy" Leonard's cachinnations were so vociferous that he stopped the show. When the theater policeman tried to put him out a riot started.

WORKING UNDER HIGH ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE.

WE ALL live at the bottom of a layer of air about five miles thick. At sea level, therefore, we are subjected to a constant pressure of approximately fifteen pounds to the square inch. We are not conscious of this fact, however, because the force within the sinuses, the middle ears, and most body spaces is the same as that of the outside. In other words, communicating channels to the exterior have taken care of the matter. But should one ascend Pike's Peak, for example, the weight of the atmosphere lessens, as we are nearly halfway through the dim which surrounds the earth. On the other hand, should one be engaged in tunneling, the pressure is increased to hold back earth and water.

Let us assume that it is desired to sink a foundation to bedrock through water and quicksand. A boxlike steel structure is employed, forming a closed chamber with airtight ceiling and walls. The floor is left open for the removal of soil. In order to permit workmen to pass in and out of this compartment and to remove excavated material, locks are provided. These are rooms with two openings—one into the pressure section and the other to the outside.

"Locking in" or entering these caissons is accomplished as follows: With the laborers in the anteroom under surface conditions, and the door to the outside closed, compressed air is admitted by degrees until the volume within the enclosure is equal to that of the caisson itself. The inside door is then opened and the men enter. On leaving, the process is repeated but in reverse order—air being released from the lock.

Now, as most of us know, we normally inspire a mixture of gases [79 per cent nitrogen and 21 per cent oxygen] which passes through the nose, throat, and trachea before reaching the lungs. That which we expire is much richer in carbon dioxide and the oxygen loss amounts to 4½ per cent. It is important—from the standpoint of the worker—that the carbon dioxide shall not rise appreciably; that the substance shall be of the same composition—when compressed—as that which he breathes in his own yard. This situation is met by pumps.

Any one experiencing a sudden shift in the level will notice symptoms. There is a pounding in the ears which may become extremely uncomfortable should the Eustachian tubes be clogged. For this reason every one is instructed to swallow frequently in order to open the throat ends of the channels. In the event of stoppage—holding the nostrils, closing the mouth, and blowing gently may free the canals.

If illness occurs in the caisson, the thing to do is to remove the individual as promptly as possible. There may be pain in various parts of the body and the resulting weakness is described as the bends. If thirty pounds [two atmospheres] has been sustained for quite some time, and the air lock is not used, aching in the joints may be suffered on reaching the street. The knees are particularly susceptible. Now and then sweating is present and the victim may exhibit dizziness and vomiting. In a few cases—with unconsciousness coming on—the patient was returned promptly to the tank whereupon recovery occurred quickly.

The explanation seems to be that during the time spent in the caisson gas is dissolved in the various fluids of the body. On returning to the out of doors it is liberated. All of which means that if decompression is carried out too rapidly the tissue gases may not be released and when one comes into one's ordinary living environment—rapid bubble formation may take place. It is assumed, therefore, that these particles are freed in the neighborhood of the joints where some may block the blood vessels or fill the capillaries of the lungs. Dispersed suddenly in the nervous system, certain signs of paralysis may ensue.

Gradual decompression, then, becomes a vital safety factor and forty minutes has been found safe for a pressure of thirty pounds. The load should be dropped little by little over that period. Breathing oxygen has also been recommended and moderate exercise on leaving the chamber will help to eliminate some of the absorbed nitrogen.

"FAIR" WEATHER.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Now that the tang of autumn is in the air and the shorter days tell of winter yet to come, you in city apartments relax in thankful relief at the favorable turn of the weather; but we who are country bred instinctively [and with an occasional twinge of nostalgia] associate this weather with that institution of farm and small town life—namely, the annual fair. It is for so many the event of the year. For it the children hoard their pennies and the adults their dreams.

Here the pride of the local paddock are put through their paces; the home town strong boys grapple with scrambled eared professionals; harvest muscles are tested against the sledge and bell; eyes, sharpened by squirrel shooting, gauge distances to wooden milk bottles and proudly a tinseled kewpie is carried away; sweethearts walk together under an Indian blanket, for the nights are nippy; cotton candy and pink lemonade bring joy to the hearts of children.

Varied and interesting are the displays in this carnival and social Mecca; there are patchwork quilts of intricate design, that speak of tranquil winter hours around the kitchen range; school children's handiwork; quarts upon quarts of canned foods; square rods of pies and cakes; giant vegetables and pumpkins; grunting porkers, cackling chickens, sheep, cows, and Shetland ponies. [A pony race on children's day.]

For a week some of the cares are pushed aside. In Europe guns and dictators roar, but on the rural midway the barkers roar, extolling the wonders, freaks, and daredevils within. Over all is the tinkle of the merry-go-round and the lights of the Ferris wheel. Radio has pushed aside the Chautauqua and the medicine man with his snake oil, but the fair still holds its own.

TOO MANY SUBSTITUTES.

Virginia, Ill., Aug. 30.—This letter is written as I listen to the All-Star game, more and more disgusted with the All-Star system. It seems to me that with the superior caliber of the All-Star team this year they should be making a better showing. And it is not the fault of the players either. It is the system of substitution that is spelling defeat. Why not establish the rule that the starting team be permitted to stay in the entire first half. Let them get warmed up and begin functioning together.

I know all the All-Stars are good, but with new men coming in every minute I can hardly see how a smooth working machine can be produced.

THE WORDS OF WEBSTER?

Riverside, Ill., Aug. 31.—William Henry Harrison's words of warning against love of power, developed in your timely editorial, acquire increased worth when it is recalled that they are almost certainly the words of Daniel Webster. In the presidential campaign of 1840 Webster took an active part, and following the election of Harrison was appointed secretary of state. Harrison, though a man of force, was not literary. His presidential papers, including his inaugural, were written principally by Webster. This does not diminish—it intensifies—the force of your editorial. Daniel Webster, on the American system of government, is an authority!

ALFRED F. WALDO.

FOR COMMAND OF TROOPS.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Your editorial, "Our Paper Army," and the article in today's TRIBUNE by Capt. M. M. Corpening are timely and much needed. I was a combat engineer company commander trained at Fort Leavenworth in 1917. I spent fourteen months in the A. E. F. in command of troops. Relatively I did a better than average job, according to excerpts in my official officer's record book. Actually I was mediocre, through no fault of mine but due to lack of training. To effectively control 250 men in combat requires not weeks nor months but years of constant repetition.

Writing field orders correctly requires many weeks of actual field maneuvers experience. American officers in command of divisions and armies must of necessity be amateurs under present conditions. If we really wanted to build the skeleton of an efficient army we should have not less than fifteen divisions on field maneuvers at least six months out of each year. The cost could well be borne as a premium on a war life saving insurance policy.

We think wishfully about the officers' reserve corps. Last spring I attended a lecture in Louisville by a regular army officer covering M [mobilization] day procedure. Out of 68 officers present 51 were old cracks like myself, loyal, bald, pot bellied, who cannot pass the physical examinations, much less take the field. Seventeen reserve officers out of the total of 68 might make good officers if trained and given field experience.

There is no substitute for handling troops in the field, necessary academic learning notwithstanding.

LINCOLN USED THE DRAFT.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—In a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE, Lucy S. Stewart of the Society for Correct Civil War Information says conscription is a weapon of an "indefensible cause." She goes on to say that Jefferson Davis used it. He did. So did Abraham Lincoln. Was the Union cause "indefensible?" The men in the north in 1863 were so anxious to defend the Union that they were willing to pay substitutes to take their places on the firing line. Let us hope that the Society for Correct Civil War Information means just what its name implies and is not an organization for sectional propaganda.

VAUDEVILLE'S MISTAKES.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—For years vaudeville has been making a seemingly fruitless effort to regain the status it enjoyed before the advent of moving pictures. I wonder if any of those who are trying to increase the popularity of the stage show ever thought of handing the public an interesting, well-balanced and yet decent revue?

A few days ago I was attracted to a downtown theater where two popular radio comedians were to be featured. Expecting the witty banter I had enjoyed over the air, I was disgusted to be subjected to fifteen minutes of common coarse dialog which would certainly have appalled even the least particular. All around me people were muttering, "Why, they were much better over the radio!"

Why then, did they have to lower their standards merely because the theater is less particular? I think, perhaps, they lost more fans than they will ever gain just in that one performance.

If vaudeville really wants to stage a comeback why in the world doesn't it toss out all its indecent performers and give us a clean, moral and entertaining show? I think we Chicagoans would be intelligent enough to appreciate it.

THE GUM MACHINES.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—If all public officials were in earnest about the abolition of slot machines why not go after the meanest machine in use today? I refer to the gum machines found in retail stores where for 1 cent any child may take a chance to win a 5 cent bar of candy. I have seen small children actually lifted up so they could place their pennies in the machine. If they don't win a bar of candy they get a ball of chewing gum worth about 5 cents a hundred. If you can find any meaner graft than robbing school children I can't imagine what it could be.

A USE FOR BATTLESHIPS.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 31.—If the internationalists in Washington itch to see our battleships on the high seas, let them pack those ships to overflowing with the foreign agitators in our country, those who prefer their native language to ours, those who come to America only to don the Nazi uniform and do the goose step, hiding behind the Stars and Stripes. Let our battleships take them back where they came from.

BRITISH FLEET'S PART IN WORLD WAR RECALLED

North Sea Is Blockaded as in 1914.

At 11 o'clock the night of Aug. 4, 1914, every vessel in the British fleet received this order by wireless: "Commence hostilities against Germany."

It was the first order for real action against the enemy issued after Great Britain entered the world war. The Grand Fleet, prepared in advance, had left Scapa Flow that morning on the first of its many sweeps through the North sea.

Again Ready for War.

Everything was in readiness for war. Three days earlier the general mobilization order had been issued. The naval reserve had been called out. The situation so far as the navy was concerned was just what it was yesterday when Prime Minister Chamberlain announced that for the second time Britain was at war with Germany.

Last night there was an announcement that the British fleet was in action again on the first day. The blockade that did much to bring Germany to surrender in 1918 was once more in effect. The entrances to the North sea between the British isles and the continent were closed.

Repetition Under Way.

Repetition of history was well under way. That led to conjectures concerning how far naval history from 1914 to 1918 will be duplicated before this new war is ended.

Except in the minds of historians, naval experts and those who were in that war or watched it closely, recollections of the part played by navies in the last war are limited almost entirely to two engagements. One was the battle of Jutland or Skagerrack, as the Germans call it, and the year long, futile attempt to capture the Dardanelles.

But historians say those two events constituted only a small part of the service the British navy rendered in winning the war. In addition to the blockade that the Germans still call "the hunger blockade," it is contended that the navy, like the army, did its full share.

Two Battles Indecisive.

The battle of Jutland has been called the biggest single naval engagement ever fought, but it was indecisive. Except that thereafter the German high sea fleet never ventured forth again to give battle, experts say it did not have material effect on the ultimate result. The bitter, long drawn out fighting at the Dardanelles and on the Gallipoli peninsula, it is admitted, had little military effect.

But the British navy did sweep all the oceans clear of German war vessels and raiders, reëstablishing the freedom of the seas for neutral vessels as well as their own bringing the vast supplies without which Great Britain would not have won the war.

Starting out with what was called building a bridge of ships to France for transporting troops to the battlefields of France, the British convoyed additional soldiers from far off Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India. Later it showed the way and aided in convoying troops of the United States to Europe.

Menace British Supplies.

To do this it overcame the sudden menace of submarine warfare developed by Germany to break the blockade. Germany developed the submarine far beyond the dreams of any naval strategist. At one time it had succeeded so far that the British Isles had only enough food for six weeks. The Germans said the end of the war was in sight.

Final victory over the submarine now is regarded as the great accomplishment of the war beside which the engagement off Jutland and the fighting at the Dardanelles are relatively unimportant.

The battle of Jutland occurred largely as a result of an abatement of Germany's submarine activity against merchant ships. This had resulted from world wide protests early in 1916—almost a year before Germany finally turned to unrestricted submarine warfare. The large number of submarines released from raiding duty could be used in conjunction with the German high sea fleet.

Escapes Submarine Trap.

Some of those submarines were stationed off the bases of the British Grand fleet. The German High Sea fleet then put out to sea to entice the British vessels within range of its submarine ambush. The British fleet, on one of its periodical southerly sweeps of the North sea, escaped that danger. Its battle cruisers encountered the German fleet while the main British fleet was still miles away.

A heavy fog and low visibility led to a battle of confusion. Neither of the opposing admirals could tell by what forces he was opposed. The British losses were heavy, but the German fleet fled and escaped in the darkness. The Germans always have claimed a great victory, but the British reply has been that the German fleet never again risked an encounter.

Give Up Dardanelles.

The Dardanelles fighting began early in 1915. Not until a year later did the British quietly evacuate the Gallipoli peninsula on which they had won a bare foothold beyond which they could not advance.

This is generally considered a naval battle because the first attack—made in response to a plea from Russia that a southern sea channel be opened—was exclusively a naval attack on the Turkish forts. Drift mines in the straits sank several British ships and that attempt was abandoned.

When a second attack was made it was a combined naval and land assault but by that time the Turkish forces had been materially strengthened. Additional British troops were sent but again they met increased Turkish forces. Historians have recorded the full year of hostilities as a series of errors by the British.

WAR AND FASCIST TREND SHACKLE BRITISH LIBERTY

Hard Won Freedom Bows to Dictator.

With the approach of war and a trend toward Fascism in government that has been noticeable since 1935, the liberties which Englishmen have enjoyed so many centuries and for which their forefathers fought on many a battle field have been gradually curtailed, perhaps lost.

The British government has assumed complete control of life, property, and communications. Rights of assembly, free speech and publication are gone and even the ancient right of public trial rather than a star chamber proceeding has been invaded.

Issue 105 New Regulations.

What war does to the liberties of individuals is shown in 105 new regulations issued a week ago by the British government. These measures are for defense of the country and the safety of the people. Any policeman may stop public meetings and assembles, close motion picture houses and other meeting places if he considers these meetings dangerous. He may designate any building as a refuge center, destroy or guarantine any area or building, regulate lights and traffic, order evacutions of any district, and billet refugees or soldiers on anybody in any part of the country.

It is unlawful for any Briton to obtain, record, publish or communicate or possess any information on the movement of ship or air craft, defense measures, prisoners, munitions and anything else that might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy. All unauthorized communication with ship or air craft is barred. Association with any person who might be aiding the enemy is forbidden. The postoffice has power to ban all wireless transmitters.

All movements of persons in and out of the United Kingdom are unde government control and supervision. It is an offense to enter an enemy country or board an enemy ship. The government has power over all hospitals and their patients. The government may direct British ships or air craft anywhere in the world. A British ship may not be sold abroad. The government may order the arming or reconstruction of any ship and stop sailings with any cargo.

Has Wide Power of Seizure.

The British government may now seize any vessel, aircraft, or any goods. Land and buildings may be taken in the same way and used as the government sees fit. The government may also forbid or control the sale and consumption of any goods or commodities. They could issue food cards as in Germany. The government may take over public utilities and railroads, close roads, limit trafic, regulate the use of agricultural land, and fishing. Penalties range from three months' imprisonment and fine of $500 to prison terms of two years and fines of $2,500 or both.

These measures have been adopted under emergency authority granted by parliament. The people through parliament have taken their own liberties away for the sake of war.

The new propaganda department of the British government "advises" with editors on what to print and what not to print, a modified censorship which has now become absolute in wartime. Since 1937 there has been a decided effort by the British government to stop public criticism of its actions. The National Union of Journalists and the National Council of Civil Liberties have fought this and succeeded in getting some modification of the official secrets act. The domestic proceedings act of 1937 put new restrictions on the public reporting of trials. The censorship which grew with the increasing threat of war extended to newsreels, radio, public meetings, drama, as well as newspapers.

Australia Fears for Liberty.

Other British peoples in the dominions probably will feel the same pressures by action of the commonwealth governments. There has been in Australia for some time a deepening anxiety over the omission of specific guarantees of their liberties in their constitution, such as the people of America have. The constitution of 1910 was virtually suspended during the world war and the prime minister became dictator. That measure never has been repealed and a Fascist trend is evident.

France has never been very solid in legal guarantees of the personal liberties of its citizens, and the lives of the people are now controlled by decrees of the premier. A censorship has been set up applying to all telegrams, cables, and telephone calls. Dictatorial methods in France have been growing and there have been numerous restrictions on the freedom of press, speech, and assembly, justified by military and police considerations.

McAdoo Expects Long War to Find America Involved

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 3 (AP).- Former Senator William G. McAdoo secretary of the treasury during the world war, expressed belief tonight this country may be forced into the Europen conflict if it continues long. "We will be forced to choose," he said in an interview, "whether we will use force to maintain our rights or whether because there is a war we shall abandon the high seas and paralyze our world commerce. I do not believe this nation can or will withdraw from the seas and attempt to isolate itself from the world."

Squall Responsible

A girl and two young men were rescued by the coast guard yesterday after their 18 foot sailboat, Tailspin, capsized in Lake Michigan off 64th street. They are Miss Camille O'Donnell, 19 years old, of 4501 Greenwood avenue; Charles Buddeke, 23, of 4519 Greenwood avenue, the owner; and Richard Bentley Jr., 21, of 824 East 48th street.

Lookout Richard Olson of the Jackson Park coast guard station saw a squall overturn the boat. Chief Boatswain's Mate Carl Howell raced to the scene with his crew and picked up the three, who were clinging to the boat.

EMPIRE RALLIES ITS RESOURCES TO BACK BRITAIN

Canada's Forces Put on War Footing.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Almost all parts of Great Britain's wide-flung empire were expected tonight in colonial and dominion circles here to give full coöperation to the mother country in her armed conflict with Germany.

Already steps were being taken in many parts of the empire to back up the pledges of loyalty and coöperation which poured into the British government before Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced his decision to wage war in defense of Poland.

Canada placed all the branches of her armed forces on an active service footing and proclaimed the war measures act of 1914 as tangible proof that she would back up Prime Minister Mackenzie King's messages to Chamberlain yesterday.

Australia Takes Action.

Australia announced it was at war with Germany and issued a proclamation empowering the calling for service of navy, military, air force, and civil defenses.

New Zealand has informed the British government she would support fully Britain's determination to honor her pledges to Poland. A proclamation declaring a state of emergency also has been read and other war precautions have been taken.

Nearly 50 rich Indian potentates have given their support to Britain and others are expected to follow suit.

Material Help Pledged.

Newfoundland, Palestine—even remote Tonga in the mid-Pacific—and other British possessions have either pledged loyalty and material assistance or have taken measures preparatory for war.

South Africa's position was not clearly defined. There has been much discussion there recently whether material assistance would be given to Britain in the event of war. Premier General J. B. M. Hertzog announced in parliament yesterday that he shortly would make a statement on his country's attitude in connection with its possible war position.

Canada to Send Supplies.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 3.—Canada is automatically at war with Germany and an emergency session of the cabinet all day Sunday made plans for the shipment of available munitions and food supplies to Great Britain.

The Canadian government is waiting word from London as to actual requirements. Warships will convoy the merchant ships carrying supplies to the British army.

The Royal Canadian air force will be concentrated on the Atlantic seaboard, where bombers and pursuit ships will maintain a constant patrol of territorial waters.

Morgenthau Gets Home After Speedy Ocean Trip

Boston, Mass., Sept. 4 [Monday] [Special].—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., took off in a coast guard plane for Washington, D. C., early this morning. He had just completed a fast trip from Norway, where he had been on vacation. Morgenthau arrived this noon at St. John's, Newfoundland, on the coast guard cutter George W. Campbell, and was met by Lieut. Richard L. Burke, who sped him in a coast guard plane to Salem, whence the secretary proceeded to the East Boston airport. He declined all comment on the war.

EMPIRES GUARD STRATEGY; LONG CONFLICT LOOMS

French May Hurl Force at German Line.

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—Where and how the British-French forces would go the aid of Poland is a closely guarded military secret. Many military experts, however, predicted today that the mud slogging infantrymen will again play a vital rôle, despite modern emphasis on airplanes and fast moving mechanized forces of war.

It was recalled that many thought the world war would be over by Christmas, 1914. It lasted more than four years and some militarists envisage an even longer and bloodier conflict in this reversion to those tragic days.

The German command has filled its famous Siegfried line on the west, facing France's army. This series of saw-toothed, steel and concrete barriers, dotted with concrete casements, was built for defense. Many experts believe it will be used for just that.

Think French Can Crack Line.

France's Maginot line was built for defense, too, but the question was asked everywhere as to whether the French armies would leave it for an offensive thrust. Some say the Siegfried line must be cracked and many believe the French can do it.

Military observers here believe Fuehrer Hitler revealed his strategy in French dispatches from Berlin today which quoted him as saying that Poland must be crushed first.

"If you do your duty," he was quoted as saying, "the battle will be ended with success in several weeks in the east and the entire German armed forces of our reich of 90,000,000 persons will be behind you."

German emphasis on the construction of airplanes, tanks and submarines leads to the belief she will mass her airforce on British-French naval units, airplane factories and rail junctions and then on civilian centers.

Heavy Armor on British Ships.

Submarines, it was agreed, would be an aid against blockading battleships. At the same time, officials said the British ships are equipped with heavier armor, rapid-fire antiaircraft guns and with a secret superdetector that can spot running submarines or those stationary on the ocean floor.

The theory that airplanes are effective against warships has never been settled satisfactorily.

In the event Italy should enter the war on Germany's side, the combined fleet tonnage of the axis powers, would be less than half that of Britain and France.

FEDERAL AGENTS ACT TO KEEP N. Y. ON NEUTRAL BASIS

New York, Sept. 3 [Special].—New York City, with its large foreign born and intensely volatile population, went on an emergency footing today.

Federal authorities and local police took precautions to prevent hostilities between radical partisans of the European warring nations. Police by land and the coast guard by sea threw a protective net around foreign ships lying in New York harbor waters.

Another reflection of the outbreak of war occurred at the Brooklyn navy yard, where a large part of the building program of the United States navy is under way. Today only persons with official business were permitted to enter. The usual host of week-end sightseers were excluded.

A company of 200 marines is guarding construction operations on the 10,000 ton cruiser Helena, which will be commissioned on Sept. 18; the 35,000 ton battleship North Carolina, which will be launched next spring, and the destroyers Lang, Dahlgren, and Hammond. Five hundred draftsmen are working on the new 45,000 ton battleship Iowa, the keel of which will be laid next spring.

DIVINE TO SEEK CHICAGO HEAVEN SITE TOMORROW

Father Divine, Harlem's so-called Messiah, will arrive in Chicago from New York tomorrow with an escort of his angels and cherubs, to campaign for establishment of a central western branch of his heaven. Plans for a welcoming demonstration, a massmeeting in the Coliseum next Sunday night, and other festivities were announced by a committee which has headquarters in the Savoy ballroom, 47th street and South Park way. Father Divine, it was reported, anticipates buying an estate near Chicago to set up a heaven similar to the one across the Hudson river from President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home.

ACTORS SETTLE THEIR QUARREL; CALL OFF STRIKE

New York, Sept. 3 (AP).]—The threatened strike of stage, screen, radio, and other actors, which would have tied up the amusement industry throughout the country, was averted tonight. Representatives of the warring factions announced at a mass meeting that the interunion quarrel between the Associated Actors and Artists of America and the stage hands' union had been brought to a satisfactory agreement and that there would be no strike.

Under the agreement, the American federation of actors, composed of vaudeville, night club, and circus performers, recently allied with the stagehands, will rescind the connection and return to the A. A. A. A., parent body of nearly all the theatrical unions except the stagehands.

Actors equity, theatrical branch of the A. A. A. A., announced it is reinstating Sophie Tucker and Harry Richman, officers of the A. F. A., who were suspended.

Declaration of Neutrality Is Issued by Denmark

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 3 (AP).—Denmark issued today a declaration of neutrality and voiced the expectation that the integrity of her borders would be respected by both sides.

Partial Blackout Enfolds Saint John as Precaution

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Sept. 3.—[Candadian Press]—A partial blackout cloaked Saint John in semi-darkness tonight as military authorities took precautionary measures for the protection of this port. Police patroled the streets, enforcing the regulation that electric signs and vestibule lights be extinguished.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE SPARES NO EXPENSE OR EFFORT TO PRINT THE NEWS

Today's momentous events and forces are giving new direction to the destiny of civilization. In self interest, it is of vital importance that Americans know the true course of events which those in power do not want revealed.

In the face of conditions which make it increasingly difficult, the Chicago Tribune foreign staff continues to get the facts.

Despite censorships and the greatest propaganda activity the world has ever known, their dispatches are keeping Tribune readers informed of every significant move and counter move in Europe.

Tribune correspondents do not pass on to you the propaganda of the official press bureaus. They do their own fact-finding—sparing no expense or effort to get first hand accounts of happenings and trends which keep Tribune readers better informed than the very peoples and countries about which Tribune correspondents write.

For accurate, graphic reporting of foreign news events, to have the facts so as to know what to expect, read the Chicago Tribune.

Chicago Folk Join Santa Fe's Ancient Fiesta

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Chicagoans who are in Santa Fe, N. M., this week-end for the annual fiesta may be enjoying it even more than visitors do usually, for it may give relief from the pain the recent developments in Europe are causing every one. For the 227th time the city, which vies with St. Augustine Fla., for the title of the oldest city in the United States of America, is celebrating its deliverance from the Indians by the Spaniards.

Once more the conqueror, Gen. Don Diego de Vargas, and his brilliant train entered the city and claimed it for old Spain. Americans all now, the residents and guests each year enter into the spirit of the occasion and an onlooker at the religious procession is apt to forget that the cause for thanksgiving happened more than two centuries ago.

The fiesta really started Saturday night when the ancient plaza was ablaze with fires and banners. No cars are allowed and only pedestrians in costumes are permitted in the plaza on this night of festivity. Off to one side of the place of the governors—eleven years old when the Pilgrims landed — the revelers buy tortillas, chili and frijoles at gay little booths. Every one waits for the bells and guns that announce the death of Old Man Gloom. Then the fiesta queen assumes command of her subjects in the plaza and a brilliant show is staged on the terraced roof of La Fonda.

Conquistadores Ball Set in Isabella's Time.

Yesterday morning there were services at the old St. Francis cathedral and then came the reënactment of the coming of the Spanish. In the evening thousands of the faithful marched quietly through the darkened streets up to the Cross of the Martyrs. This procession, lit only by candles and torches, is thought by many to be the most impressive part of the fiesta, which ends tomorrow night with a ball.

Usually the hysterical parade, on the third day, is the most riotous part of the celebration. It burlesques current events and important personages. This year, however, there is to be no hysterical parade, only an historical parade and pageant. The Conquistadores ball this year is set in the period of Ferdinand and Isabella and the triumphant arrival of Columbus with his sailors and captives and spoils from the new world will form the basis of a colorful pageant.

Dozens of Chicagoans Taking Part in Fiesta.

There are dozens of Chicagoans taking part in the fiesta. The Arthur Cables, who have a hacienda at Pojuaque; the J. Raymond Murphys, who are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, the James Clarksons; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hamill, who are spending the summer in Santa Fe and who have George Hale as their guest; Mrs. John P. Hermes and her daughter, Miss Florence; Mrs. Leander McCormick and her son, Thiery McCormick, and daughter, Marie Blanche McCormick, and Miss Moyra Browne, who are staying at the Rancho del Ancon; the Ned Stones, who are visiting the Randall Daveys, and Mrs. John J. Cummings and her daughter, Miss Jane.

Among the Santa Fe residents who used to call Chicago home and who are taking active parts in the fiesta are the William P. Hendersons [Alice Corbin]; Mrs. Hubert Galt and her children, the Thomas Galts of Santa Fe and the Rodman Griscoms of Tucson; Mrs. Hunter Clarkson [Louise Wells], and the William Blakes. The Cyrus McCormicks are not on hand for the festivities, for he is in New York and she is taking her mother, Mrs. William Sittenham, back to her home in the east. The Wheaton Augurs, too, are missing the fiesta this year due to the recent death in Chicago of Mrs. Augur Sr.

Nancy Davis to Bow At Tea-Dance Dec. 28.

Thursday, Dec. 28, has been chosen as the date for the début of Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis' pretty daughter, Nancy. The young lady, who just is back from a visit with the James R. Offields at Harbor Point, Mich., will make her formal bow to society at a tea-dance at the Casino. That night Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine will give a dinner party for the bud. Sometime during the holiday season Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman will give a cocktail party for Miss Davis.

Miss Davis, whose nickname is Pinky, was graduated from the Girls' Latin school last June. She will enter Smith college this fall.

Mrs. Jean McVoy Fellowes Weds James Conger Today.

Mrs. Jean McVoy Fellowes, the youngest of the three daughters of the late Eugene McVoy and the late Mrs. Fortunato Jerace, will be married at noon today in Pentwater, Mich., to James Conger. The Rev. Edward Scribner Ames of Chicago and Pentwater will read the service in the presence of the immediate families. The wedding will take place at the summer home of the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McVoy.

Among those at the wedding will be the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Conger of Galesburg, and the bride's sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham of Winnetka and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kohler Jr. of Kohler, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Conger will be at home in Libertyville, Ill., after Sept. 15.

Barbara Hanna Engaged to Wed Edwin S. Englebert.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Hanna gave a family dinner party at home in Hinsdale Saturday night to announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Edwin S. Englebert, son of Mrs. Louise Englebert of Detroit. Miss Hanna attended Edgewood Park at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Mr. Englebert will take his bride to Detroit to make their home after their marriage in December.

The American Girl Should Improve Walk

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"They certainly have figures to be proud of, those New York girls. And could they teach us a thing or two about legs? Could they not!

"But what they don't have is poise and dignity!

"THEY DON'T WALK WELL. Maybe it is because they take to wearing high heels when they're far too young. We don't know."

The above extract is taken from an article in an English paper, giving the impressions of a recent guest to our shores.

Well, we have been voicing this same sentiment about our women. In fact, we have been pounding on it for a year or more. Although our women are a magnificent group as regards their dress, their coiffures, their skin, and their makeup, they would be far more so did more of them accept criticism about their walk.

So we are going to keep on pounding and pounding on this subject, so this criticism about walking will be ruled out. It's trite, we know, to tell how it spoils the clothes, spoils the effects of youthfulness. You know that as well as any one else.

And you, too, have walked behind women whose feet turned out widely so that they are the things your eye is drawn to. Woman's foot vanity alone should prevent this walking fault, because toes pointed straight ahead minimize the foot size both from a front and rear view.

Watch, today, when out on the street. Check how many girls and women you meet walking with toes pointed ahead. How many charge along with feet turned out widely? Compare the effect of the two as you check and you'll never, never be guilty of that commonest of our walking faults—toeing out widely.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The college girl's beauty needs are extremely simple. It is not a fashion on the average campus to use a great deal of makeup, to wear elaborate coiffures or to be a theatrical glamor girl.

The first rule for the youthful complexion is cleanliness. Pure soaps, a complexion brush and frequent scrubbings are necessities for the average girl of school age. She can use cleansing cream to supplement her soap and water cleansing, a lubricating cream to keep her skin soft and supple in winter and, for the special evening occasions when she dukes up, a foundation cream or lotion. Hand cream or lotion is another essential.

Add to these a generous supply of powder puffs so she won't form the fatal habit of using one grimy one for weeks on end, and the healthy young girl's beauty needs are pretty well taken care of.

The Grant park concerts began on July 1 and have run nightly ever since [with the exception of Aug. 19, the date of the tenth Chicagoland Music festival]. They are sponsored by the Chicago park district in cooperation with the Chicago Federation of Musicians and are supervised by James C. Petrillo, park commissioner and union president.

Last night's concert served to introduce to Grant park audiences a 22 year old violinist, Emil Bock. With the assistance of the Walter H. Steindel orchestra, he presented the Glazounoff concerto, making an excellent impression on his listeners by his beauty of tone, dignity of phrasing, and unassuming manner. All of this despite the handicap of a wind so boisterous that the eyes of listeners filled continually with dust and the minds of the musicians with fear for the security of their music.

The purely orchestra parts of the program included the third "Leonore" overture of Beethoven, Wagner's wonderfully noisy "Imperial March," and the sixth ["Pathetique"] symphony of Tschaikowsky.

Miss Nancy Otis, Frank Johnston to Wed Today

The principal event of what is probably the gayest week-end of the season at Harbor Springs, Mich., is the wedding this afternoon of Miss Nancy Otis and Frank Bremond Johnston Jr. It is taking place at 4:30 o'clock at Birchwood, the country home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis. The junior Otises have a home at Birchwood, also, but it is on the lawn adjoining the senior Otises' house that the ceremony will be read.

The bridal couple will stand between the same two trees on the flower banked lawn that the bride's aunt, Emily Owings, and Nathaniel A. Owings, stood between when they were married eight years ago tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Owings will not attend today's ceremony for they have brand new twin daughters, born last Thursday night in the Passavant hospital. The babies are the Owings' first children.

White Birch Trees Form Natural Altar.

Birchwood farm has a perfect setting for a wedding, a natural altar of white birch trees at the edge of a bluff overlooking Little Traverse bay. Miss Cynthia Cleveland will be the honor maid and the bridesmaids will be Miss Kate Barkhausen of Chicago, Miss Jane Johnston of Philadelphia, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Gladys Morse of Montclair, N. J.; Miss Mimi Gedney of East Orange, N. J.; Miss Jean Smith of Syracuse, and Miss Virginia Childs of Boston. Charles English of Philadelphia will be the best man. The ushers all are easterners except James McCrudden, now of Chicago, but formerly of Philadelphia, and Jack Stuart of Chicago.

Today the senior Mrs. Johnston is giving a luncheon for the bridal party. Last night the junior Otises gave the bridal dinner at the Little Harbor club, following a cocktail party the Robert T. Wheelers gave at the home of his mother, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, on the Point. Yesterday at noon Ted Russell gave a cocktail party at the home of his grandfather, Edward P. Russell, after which there was a buffet luncheon at the Otis farm, which is across the road from the houses.

Some of the Chicagoans who are in Harbor Springs for the wedding are the bride's aunt, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Bouscaren, Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, Lawrence Callahan, the former Patricia Kelly and her husband, Lauren Healy; Lynn Williams, Graham Fairbank, who is the fiancé of Miss Cynthia Cleveland; Frank Adams, Nathaniel Blatchford III., Munro McNulty, and William Lisle.

Numerous Week-End Parties at Harbor Point.

Parties for Miss Otis and Mr. Johnston were not the only festivities at Harbor Point over the week-end, for every house is filled with guests and there were many parties yesterday and on Saturday. The junior Denis E. Sullivans, who are visiting her parents, the James R. Offields, gave a dinner party Saturday night, and last night the Richard M. Lamports gave a supper party for their guests, the junior Robert Kenyons. The Lamports' party was at the home of Mrs. Lamport's mother, Mrs. LeRoy Kramer.

One of the gayest parties of the season was a beach picnic given recently by one of Mrs. Kramer's sons, Henry, and Wrigley Offield. Their guests numbered fifty. Young Mr. Kramer, commodore for the last year of the Yacht club and skipper of the Rebel, won the series trophy this season.

The Little Harbor club, near the entrance of the Point, had its biggest Saturday night gala last week when the annual cabaret performance was given under the direction of Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler. Her son was the master of ceremonies, introducing Nancy Davis, debutante, who sang a blues number; Virginia Waller, who was dressed as a gay tin soldier and did a difficult military tap dance; Ted Russell, who gave an original and amusing rendition of "Barnacle Bill, the Sailor"; Louis C. Sudler, who sang two songs; Josephine Carpenter, Barbara Pierce, and Judy Waller, who skipped a merry hornpipe in starched blue skirts and shiny sailor hats, and several other talented members.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Hudson

New York, Sept. 3.—Actors' strike was called off because the rowing parties figured the European war was tough enough. . . . David Niven, Alan Mowbray, Brian Aherne, Richard Green, Errol Flynn are just a few of the English actors who will be rushing back to London. Basil Rathbone and Ronald Colman are others. Charles Boyer is the outstanding French star involved, and Maurice Chevalier has cabled friends here that he already has been summoned to duty. Immediate effect will be paring of all movie budgets to compensate for the loss of European markets. Big pictures such as "Wizard of Oz," "The Woman," "Hollywood Cavalcade," "The Rains Came," etc., which already have been completed, will have to get back their negative costs and profits right here in the domestic market. "Northwest Passage," Walt Disney's "Pinocchio," "Grapes of Wrath," either started or in preparation, will be affected seriously.

The Hon. Michael Strutt, whose marriage last month to Arielle Frazer was a society highlight, sails for service with his English regiment immediately. He will board the ship in Canada. The earl of Warwick has been called back. The earl of Carnarvon, engaged to Tilly Losch, had planned a honeymoon trip to America. Instead, he will go to war, and his stable of horses will be raced in America by Maj. Thomas H. McCreery.

J. P. Morgan, in a ship to shore phone call, told his Wall street associates that England now is convinced that Herr Hitler is crazy as a loon. In the midst of the last conversations with the British and French ambassadors, Hitler suddenly said: "When this is over, I will withdraw from public life and become a great painter. I am a genius. I feel great paintings within me." He became furious when they steered the conversation back to peace talks.

Hushed up on the return trip of the Normandie was the one punch k. o. scored by George Raft in a card game row. . . . Not only has the New York World's Fair put gray into local toupees; big stores that subscribed for as much as $500,000 in bonds will take an added lacing. They skidded from par value of 100 to 20. . . . Lou Holtz grabbed himself a small fortune when aircraft stocks hopped to new highs. He was loaded with Douglas shares.

William Buckner, out on bail in the Filipino bond mess, is being consoled by cute Barbara Evans. . . . La Verne Andrews of the trio that introduced "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," is singing it to "Think-a-Drink" Hoffman, liquid hit of 'Streets of Paris." . . . M-G-M bosses will bonus Mickey Rooney for staying out of night clubs while in New York.

Carpenter's Summary.

Ken Griffin asked his carpenter if he would go to war if America should be unable, eventually, to maintain her neutrality.

"Not me," he answered. "I'm not going to get mixed up in any of Hitler's shady real estate deals."

Proof.

A rich and popular young man was being discussed.

"He may be nice, but he's a playboy, and a playboy is out of date," we said. "Speaking even from a purely superficial standpoint, he's not interesting because he's an anachronism . . ."

"You're wrong about him being a playboy," answered our friend. "He leads a very regular life. . . . Why, he's on his beach every morning by 8 o'clock!"

De Thevenot's Descendant.

Drop a comment into a column, and like the arrow and the song, it finds its mark. A book written by a Frenchman, Jean de Thévenot, in 1664, was quoted in this space the other day. A letter from Dr. G. D. Thévenot of Chicago says he is a direct descendant of the French writer and that he has the books he wrote in French as well as in English and German translations.

It was De Thévenot whose widely read travel books spread the knowledge that coffee was a beverage and not a drug, thus preventing the consignment of the first shipments of coffee to Marseilles from going to drug stores. Soon after the publication of De Thévenot's book on his travels in the Levant containing his description of coffee and coffee houses encountered there, the first coffee house was opened in Marseilles.

In Line with Tradition.

Leavetaking.

Jerry Freshman, back at the Ambassador after a Canadian and California holiday, tells of the woman at a dinner party whose husband, noticing the number of times she had emptied her wineglass at dinner, decided to take her home shortly afterward.

"But I'm perfectly all right," the woman said to her husband. Then, a few moments later, turning to her hostess, she said with great dignity, "Goodnight . . . so much."

Winter Coats Given Smart Trims of Fur

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Along with all the special fur buys are the fur trimmed cloth coats. These are cut with the exciting new flare, the nipped in waistline, new streamlines of half and half fur and wool; new sleeves, new pockets and necklines.

These stunning beauties have special price marks. It's smart to buy a winter coat weeks ahead of the first chilling weather. The most exciting styles are featured now; all the daring new mixups of fur and fabric. Fine fur is lavished on all the best models and it's a fashion hazard not to grab the newest models while you have a chance.

Dull black with brown is more sophisticated than ever before. You'll like the black coats trimmed luxuriantly with sheared beaver; the black coats with spicy brown mink, or kolinsky, and the new affairs accented with fitch and brown Persian.

Next in line come the taupe shades, from light smoke to a dark, almost sinister, iron tone. Taupe colored moleskin and similar dull gray flat or fluffy furs are piled on the fabric models.

Shining black caracul is used for stunning all black coats, still the first choice of the shopper. Gray coats are more than plentiful, trimmed with brown, some in black and others with lighter or darker gray fur.

Romantic green coats have luscious contrasts of brown fur, such as deep beige fox, mink, cinnamon brown kidskin and spectacular cross or copper fox.

New this fall are the glamorous fur trimmed cloth coats, all of a deep russet shade, the exciting fur trim of that new special processed silver fox in copper color, or what is called the red-silver.

Good Morning!

"There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them how we will."

So discovers "The Golden Boy."

This picture, adapted from the play of the same name, follows the career of a highly strung youth, born with the soul and fingers of a musician, who essays to find fame and fortune in the prize fight arena. And it's no go.

True, he is phenomenally successful as a pugilist. The championship is his if he wants it. But he turns in sick horror from this honor too dearly bought, and to the destiny marked out for him in the first place.

His battling days are scarred with tumultuous and unhappy events. He doesn't understand—nor want to understand—the people he is thrown with. He falls desperately in love with the sweetheart of his manager, and though his heartbreaking romance turns out well enough in the end, it causes plenty of suffering. . . . He finds himself in the clutches of a racketeer and, to cap the climax, is the innocent cause of a death. . . . Which final swing of the crazy wheel on which he's been rotating flings him into his own backyard where he finds—himself.

This picture is swift moving, colorfully characterized and packs quite a few punches. Young Mr. Holden, whose screen debut it is, submerges his identity in a rôle that demands plenty, and gets a lot out of it. . . . Barbara Stanwyck—painfully thin!—gives a most sincere performance and Adolphe Menjou and Joseph Calleia were excellently cast.

One beautiful performance is turned out by Lee J. Cobb as the hero's gentle, idealistic, bewildered old father, forced to drink from the bitter cup of frustrated hope and ambition. . . . Beatrice Blinn as Joe's sister, cuddly and giggly, and Sam Levene as his brother-in-law, prove sparkling "bit" players.

See you tomorrow.

City's Public Schools Will Enroll 463,000 Children Tomorrow

With the opening of public schools tomorrow morning in Chicago, William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, sent the following message to all principals of elementary and high schools:

"Another school year begins and again my greetings and good wishes go out to you and your teachers. The accomplishments of the last year resulting from your combined efforts, fully justify my sincere appreciation.

"With the renewal of this fine spirit of coöperation the coming year gives promise of still greater educational achievements in our school system."

More than 463,000 children will be enrolled in schools in the city, and 315,000 more are expected to swarm into schools in suburbs. Most schools in the county will open tomorrow, as will Lutheran schools in Chicago. Catholic institutions will not be opened until Wednesday.

Young Glamour stepped-up this new exciting way
"SKIPPIES" by Formfit
Schiaparelli inspired

You're never too young to do something about glamour—nor too old for that matter. The exciting things in life come to those whose physical charms compel attention and admiration. "Skippies" makes your figure dazzling in the short space of time it takes to put one on.

There is a reason: A triumph of designing ingenuity, called Sta'Cord, a boneless, pokeless fabric cording is placed just right to squelch over-ambitious bulges and keep the top of the garment from rolling over at the waist.

Slight figures seeking glamour must have a "Skippies" girdle for sports and a Girdleiere for dressier occasions.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds, promoter of children's acts in the days before motion pictures, is attracted to the tenement flat of the Lichts by the singing of their little daughter, Josefa. Next day he calls with his wife and persuades the Lichts to let him take Josefa into his home and train her for the stage. Two older children, Lena and Eddie, live with the Reynolds. During a stage show Eddie's voice breaks and Josefa goes to his rescue, saves the act, and becomes famous overnight. Josefa is billed as Sheila Doone. Lena hides her envy and hatred of Sheila by pretended friendship. Backed by Producer Leica, Lena becomes a motion picture actress in the infant industry. With Lena's brief day waning Leica signs up Sheila. Sheila marries Ronny Low, her leading man. They buy a ranch, leaving most of the arrangements to Lena. Then Ronny is notified that his contract will not be renewed. And Sheila loses the favor of her public. But when sound comes in they stage a triumphant comeback. Ronny dies of a ruptured appendix. Sheila suffers a breakdown. The bank where Sheila, on Lena's urging, had placed all her savings, fails. Lena claims to be broke and unable to repay Sheila any of the money she owes her. She spreads rumors that Sheila has lung trouble so no one will hire her. Lena becomes secretary and mistress to Isaacs, Leica's assistant. Then she attracts a young millionaire, Ambrose Fleming.

INSTALMENT XXV.

BROKEN CHAINS.

"Fleming would seem to have fallen for you," said Isaacs.

"He doesn't exactly say so, but suppose he has? What do I do?"

"You'll do what every woman does. You'll do what you want to do."

"If you really liked me, we'd be married. I'm just a habit. I was crazy about you until I realized that I was just a habit."

"Are you quitting?"

"I can't afford to quit, not unless he asks me to marry him."

Lena did not know it, but Isaacs himself was thinking of marriage with a young lady of his own race and for some weeks he had been puzzling over how to rid himself of Lena. But she was useful to him. She could go on being his secretary. Why not? But he pretended for a while that he was hurt, outraged and angry. Finally he said:

"There's only one possible excuse for your doing what you're trying to do to me."

"I have that excuse. I love him. I love him so that I ache."

"That's the way you used to say you loved me. That's the way you ached for your husband; that's the way you ached for that —— —— Scudder, and that's the way you ached for old man Lecia. I wonder who in hell you haven't ached for, my fine young lady?"

It was a shock to Lena to learn that Isaacs even knew about Leica. But she managed to say what any other woman would say in similar circumstances.

"This," said Lena, "is different."

"Like hell it's different. Yeah, and maybe I didn't get so crazy about you that I ached for you. But I knew too much about you to marry you. Maybe this gink is different. Maybe he thinks that women with plenty of experience make the best mothers."

"He doesn't know about me," said Lena with a quaver in her voice.

"He will if he sticks around Hollywood long enough. I've a good mind to tell him myself."

Isaacs had no such mind. But Lena did not know this. She knelt suddenly beside him, and it is certain that for once in her life she spoke with complete authority.

"Please don't," she said.

Isaacs hated tears and feared them.

"Hell," he said in a gentler tone, "I was only joking. I won't spill on you. Gentlemen don't tell on women. So go ahead and fool the young man, if you can. It's okey with me."

Lena's tears at once stopped flowing. She got to her feet.

"I might have known you'd be kind," she said.

"Yes. You might have known that."

"Am I fired?"

"No. But don't come butting in here anymore unless I ring for you."

"I won't," said Lena meekly.

Ten minutes later Isaacs entered Leica's office.

"E. P.," said Isaacs, for so the little Napoleon was addressed by his intimates, "how'd you like me for a son-in-law?"

"Lily?"

"Ahha."

"And how about Lena?"

"That's finished."

"What did you say to Lena?"

"What did you say to her—when you wanted to get rid of her?"

"Me!" exclaimed Mr. Lecia. "How come you think such things. I give you my word of honor——"

"I guess I said just about what you said," Isaacs went on calmly. "And I have your permission to speak to Lily?"

Mr. Leica did not wish to give his favorite daughter in marriage to any one.

"This is a big surprise. My little Lily is only 18, and . . ."

"If you can't make up your mind, E. P., maybe I'd better ask Mrs. Leica's permission. By the way, who's the new girl at the switchboard?"

Mr. Leica gave up. And hastily gave his consent.

"Thanks a lot," said Isaacs. "I'll do my best to make Lily happy, if she'll have me."

He was secretly sure that she would. The two men shook hands.

"And by the way," said Isaacs as he was turning to go, "it wouldn't look well if it got out that your son-in-law was paying a young woman's salary out of his own pocket."

"Do you want that I should pay her out of my own pocket?"

"Give her a handle to her name. Call her an assistant producer or supervisor or something and let the stockholders carry her."

And so it was arranged.

. . . .

Sheila found herself in trouble with the government. Years ago when Ronny was alive she hadn't paid as much income tax as she should have paid, not by many thousands of dollars. So the government contended, and advised her to pay up now, together with usurious interest penalties, or take the consequences.

Sheila was bewildered and didn't know what to do or where to turn. The little gentleman who had attended to such matters for her when they were worth attending, and for Ronny and for a large clientele of picture people was doing time in San Quentin. Prior to his arrest and conviction he had managed to destroy most of his records. So there was no help there.

Everybody with whom Sheila talked of this bolt out of the blue advised her to consul a lawyer. She recalled the name of a slender young man with whom she had danced several times at a night club. He had pleaded guilty to being a lawyer. She hunted up his name in the telephone book and his number. By all means, the lawyer, said come over at once. I'll be glad to see you. He was, frankly and honestly.

His name was Hartman Graves and he inspired confidence.

"If I can't pay, I can't pay, can I?" said Sheila.

"It isn't done."

"Will I have to go to prison?" she was one-eighth serious.

"Of course not, and I'll see that you're let alone for a while. Are you working?"

"Only sometimes. Now and then I get two or three days in a quickie. It's just enough to keep things going—and pay Junior's board—almost always a little late."

"I don't understand it. You're a famous person, and young and beautiful. What's the matter with the picture people?"

"I think it's because they're afraid my health isn't good and that I'm liable to collapse on the set and cost them money. Lots of people have told me that's the reason."

First and last, he took her to dinner once or twice a week, and they became firm friends. The young man soon perceived that it was his good fortune to be of service to a rare and beautiful character.

She never whined about anything. She had no jealousies or feuds on her hands. The stories which she told him of her early beginnings with Lee Reynolds' troupe diverted him greatly.

"And Lena, the girl you roomed with, and who was so beautiful, what became of her?"

Cottage cheese is a valuable protein food and may be used frequently in dinner menus when meats are costly and consequently must appear infrequently. Cottage cheese is a splendid luncheon food, too, "as is," in salads, main dish, or dessert.

Stuff tomatoes, prunes, pear, or peach halves or celery stalks with cottage cheese and serve with a boiled dressing on lettuce or other greens. Or make cottage cheese sandwiches, cottage cheese soup or loaf. And if you'd like to make cottage cheese pie, cheese cake, or other tasty dishes of a similar nature, just drop me a line and inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, for which I shall be happy to send additional recipes for cottage cheese.

COTTAGE CHEESE SANDWICHES.

Mix cottage cheese with a little boiled dressing, cream, or sour cream and use it for sandwich filling in one of these ways:

1. Over a cottage cheese layer spread marmalade, currant jam or jelly, cherry conserve, or other tart fruit preserve. Add a lettuce leaf.

2. Top cheese layer with chopped green pepper.

3. Add thinly sliced dill pickle to the cottage cheese sandwiches.

4. Add chopped dates and nuts to the mixture.

5. Add chopped chives or minced onion to the cheese mixture.

6. Spread one slice of bread with peanut butter, the other with butter and cottage cheese and put together with a lettuce leaf.

7. Add chopped green, stuffed or ripe olives to the cheese mixture.

8. Add chopped pimiento and a little onion juice.

9. Mix a tablespoon or two of chili sauce into the cheese.

10. Cover layer of cottage cheese with watercress or parsley. [Dandelion leaves and nasturtium leaves are good this way when in season.]

Cottage cheese soup is tasty and nutritious. It's especially valuable for school children who need the kind of health insurance afforded by milk and cheese.

Cottage Cheese Soup.
[Serves four or five.]
½ cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cottage cheese
Minced parsley
Paprika

Melt butter, blend in flour, and add half of milk gradually, stirring over low heat to make a thin sauce. Add remainder of milk, bring to the boiling point, and boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Add cheese, heat a minute or two longer, and serve. Add minced parsley and a sprinkling of paprika to each bowl of soup.

Cottage Cheese, Bean and Peanut Loaf.
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup cooked or canned kidney beans
½ cup ground peanuts
1 cup boiled rice
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons bacon fat or meat drippings
1 cup tomato juice
Salt and pepper to season

Combine ingredients thoroughly and shape into a roll. Brush with melted fat and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for thirty-five minutes. Serve with medium white sauce to which a chopped or sieved canned pimiento has been added.

Frozen salads are ideally suited to luncheon menus and bridge desserts. There are many good recipes for these chilly refrigerator salads in Mary Meade's booklet, "Freeze the Salad." The booklet is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and lobby of Tribune Tower, for 3 cents, or the booklet will be mailed to you for 5 cents in stamps.

A strong day. Keep a check on finances and keep out the disturbing news from outside.

This month is a dynamic one for those born on Sept. 4, and they will need to use self control. This is scheduled to be a very active month for them with some critical periods. This holds true for all those who are having an eight year cycle.

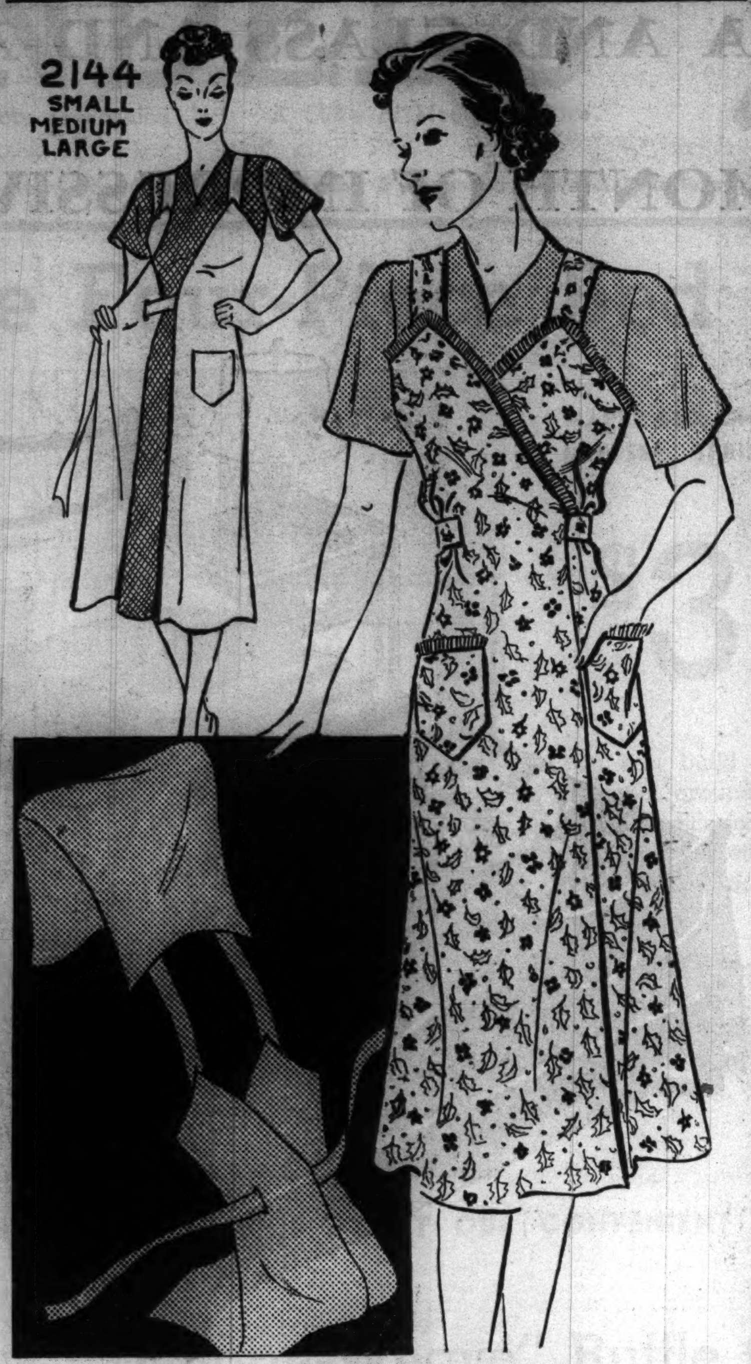
Attractive Coverall Apron



WOMAN'S AND MISS' COVERALL APRON.

Most coveralls are actually house dresses, but not this one. It has only straps over the shoulders. Its neckline is surplice, and the sash slips through notches and ties in the back. Two large pockets grace the skirt. This is an ideal apron to wear when you must slip into the kitchen to prepare a snack for your guests, or while you are well dressed but must do a few things about the house before you go out.

All the inexpensive cottons are the materials to use, with prints leading in favor.

Style No. 2144 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with 4 yards of braid or other trimming.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

"In a team of four match between Eire and Wales, the bidding in room 1 went:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"In the other room, with the Eire pair North-South, the bidding proceeded:

North	East	South	West
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"Obviously, with the spade king in West's hand, thirteen tricks were made and Eire gained 500 points on the board. Referring specifically to the bidding in room 1, North claims that his one club bid was correct, and better than two clubs, and also that his force of three diamonds on the second round, being a jump reverse bid, showed an exceptionally powerful hand and that he was, therefore, entitled to expect a reply of four diamonds from South if he held the diamond ace, and not the sign off in three no trump. North further claims that four no trump might have driven the contract too high and that, if he bid four clubs and South replied four diamonds, it would have shown a mere preference and not the diamond ace. How about this contention? And also, do you approve the bidding in room 2?—W. R., Cardiff, Wales."

Answering the questions in inverse order, I almost approve the bidding in room 2. The only exception I take is to the five no trump bid which, I think, should have been a conventional four no trump bid. South would have answered with five diamonds and his failure to sign off in the lowest bid suit, clubs, would have been announcement of the diamond ace. North then could have bid six clubs and there the contract would have rested.

I cannot agree that North's bidding in room 1 fully expressed the power of his hand at a spade contract. Considering that he had failed to open with a two bid, his jump reverse, three diamonds, although very strong, was not strong enough in view of his subsequent bid of four spades. It is to this latter bid that I take exception. Looking at the matter from South's point of view, I cannot see how South could safely have bid over four spades. As to South's three no trump bid, I am in hearty accord with this action. His distribution and honor holding did not make a diamond raise attractive, and it must not be overlooked that he had to worry about going past the three no trump level. If North had even gone as far as to bid five spades over South's three no trump, South probably would have had the vision and foresightedness to bid six diamonds, but North's actual bid of four spades was not sufficiently encouraging, despite his previous "reverse," to spur South to optimism.

United Charities Give Outings, Health Care to 2,000 Youngsters

More than half of the 4,000 children in families cared for by the United Charities have been given special medical and dental care and country outings during the summer, Mrs. Florence Nesbitt, assistant superintendent of the agency, announced yesterday.

To insure a brighter future for the needy children under the protection of the agency, her report said, arrangements have been made to provide summer school, placement in foster homes, artificial limbs, attention in sanitariums for heart cases, and tubercular children.

"Although it is a satisfaction to know that private, voluntary gifts are providing so many young people with a good start in life," said Miss Nesbitt, "our satisfaction is dimmed by the fact that children whose families are on public relief cannot have the same opportunity. There are promising children in some of these families also who lack even the most minimum essentials of food and clothing."

Don't Bribe the Children to Be Well Behaved

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Have you any reading you can suggest on rewards and punishments?" every so often a letter asks. And I have to answer that, except as the subject may be touched upon in this or that book, I haven't any suggestions.

I don't believe in managing children by rewards and punishments. I believe life should be made rich and full of pleasant things for them and that obedience required in an intelligent way is important and should be achieved. But neither should be brought about with the reward-punishment angle.

For today let's think a little more about rewards—which are in a sense bribes. It's a terrible temptation sometimes—bribery.

At the time it seems like such an easy way out and it's often quick in an emergency. But it isn't really easy in the end. You're only storing up trouble for yourself later on.

And, of course, the principle is entirely wrong, whether the bribe is a piece of candy or a trip to the zoo, or a new baseball bat, or a story to be read. Even if you have never succumbed to the temptation I'm sure you must often have been on the verge of doing so; or else you've been witness to some other parent's downfall.

John, perhaps, has a horrid dose of medicine to take and he closes his mouth tight, or runs around the room, or cries until some one says, at their wits' end, "Take it, John, and I'll give you a piece of candy."

Or your little girl of 3 or 4 hates to have you go out and leave her and she cries and cries and carries on and clings to you and you look at the clock and you're being made later and later for your appointment, and in sheer desperation you're ready to say, "O, darling, let mother go and she'll bring you home a nice present."

Or your boy hates going to bed early and almost every night you go through a regular performance with him until you're tempted to say, "Well, if you'll get undressed and take your bath quickly, I'll read you a story as soon as you're in bed."

As soon as you've resorted to bribes three or four times, the children begin to expect it, little as they may be. Perhaps quite unconsciously they will begin to count on them. Or you will be surprised to find them, very consciously, bargaining with you.

"What will you give me, mother, if I do it?" or, "I'll take it if you'll give me a piece of sugar after it;" or, "If I eat all my vegetables will you get me some ice cream?"

You can see at a glance how bad that is for the children. You only require them to do certain things for a good reason [if you're wise], and it's right that they should do them without a reward—routine things, I mean.

But there are times when a child has to do something so unpleasant or go through something so painful that he needs help or diversion. It may take the form of holding before his mind's eye a pleasant thing that will happen when it's all over such as a particularly interesting vacation after a tough summer's studying, or if he's had to go to the hospital, a surprise for each time you visit him there.

This isn't bribery—this is only being humanly kind and sympathetic in helping him over a hard place.

Art Institute Free Today; Shows Peasant Costumes

The Art institute will be open free to the public from 9 until 5 o'clock today. Included in the summer exhibitions on view are peasant costumes from Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Turkey, the Greek islands, Serbia, and Palestine. Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett made the collection.

On the House

If it is time to give your porch floor a new fall coat, paint's the material to use. Paint it when the weather is still warm, and after there have been a few dry days. If there are very fine cracks, run linseed oil into them, but if the cracks are wide, fill with plastic wood or crack filler.

Where the old paint has peeled, scrape it off with a putty knife or use a blow torch or both. Watch out for fire—blow torches aren't safe except in careful and experienced hands.

When a porch is concrete, there are special paints for it. But whatever material your porch, if you want to paint it, see that the weather is dry and has been dry for several days, and that surfaces are clean, even, and free from moisture.

Your Stars Today

By WYNN

Monday, Sept. 4.

Here is a day with everything favoring the person with good motives and willingness to work for success; go to it. Go after what you are sure you deserve, especially during daylight hours.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today's birthday counsels broad vision from May 24 to Oct. 26: have big, practical plans and push for expansion, develop your own original gifts. Danger: April 16 to 27, and Aug. 28 to Sept. 16, 1940.

Tomorrow.

You can now get your 1940 individual interpretation for your own personal date plus the balance of this year. Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

Hospital Administrators Open Institute Tomorrow

The seventh annual Institute for Hospital administrators will open tomorrow at the University of Chicago. It will continue through Sept. 16. Mornings will be devoted to lectures and afternoons to demonstrations in twenty-one Chicago hospitals. At night there will be seminars and round table discussions.

Eve Curie to Speak in Winnetka; Sponsor to Be Bryn Mawr Club

The Bryn Mawr club of Chicago is planning what promises to be an interesting evening early next February. It will be a talk by Mlle. Eve Curie at New Trier High school in Winnetka. Mrs. William B. Hale, who met the daughter of the famed Mme. Curie, co-discoverer of radium with her husband, at the New York fair, may have been instrumental in securing Mlle. Curie's services as lecturer that evening.

The club gives a benefit every other year to help raise the funds for four scholarships from this area. On the scholarship committee are Mrs. Willard Boyden, chairman; Mrs. Darrell Boyd, Mrs Charles H. Brown, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. Robert M. Adams, and Mrs. Webb C. Stevens Jr.

The Housewife

One of the nicest devices for keeping order on a woman's dressing table is a decorated metal box. It is pretty to look at and practical to use. The inner lid has a mirror of good size and the other compartment is divided to hold cosmetics, hairpins, etc. Or you can remove the divisions if you want to.

Companion pieces to this are boxes for handkerchiefs, gloves, and facial tissues, all of the decorated metal and all in lovely light tones of green, yellow, or rose. And they are remarkably low priced.

Chronic Alibi User Defeats Own Purposes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Are you an "Alibi Ike?" Do you have a ready excuse for your mistakes, your tardiness, your failures and shortcomings? Are you so experienced at offering excuses that you have one handy even before the emergency arises?

If you're good at making excuses, each more ingenious than the last, you're seldom good for anything else, philosophizes Dave Apollon, internationally known stage entertainer, speaking from his rich background of 25 years in the theater.

He cites the case of an up-and-coming musical comedy star who followed the "Alibi Ike" road to ruin in her career. No matter how good her performance, there was always an excuse after every show for any slipups which might have occurred. Either the cougher in the front row almost ruined her lines; the lights were too low or too strong; the draft made her shiver during the love scene; she could have done better if her lyrics were improved, etc., etc.

Her excuses were a constant annoyance to the rest of the cast, and the producer finally let her go because she got on everybody's nerves, reports Apollon.

Are you guilty of these alibis, as listed by Dave Apollon?

"——I know my hair is a mess, but my hairdresser is away and I just won't let anybody else touch it.

"——Dinner is late, but the girls simply insisted I stay for another rubber of bridge.

"——A girl should keep well informed, but I just can't find time to catch up on my reading.

"——My voice cracked on the last note, but what can you do with an accompanist like that?

"——I'm a much better dancer usually, but the music is just out of time.

"——I had all intentions of writing, but you know!

"——I know I shouldn't reveal this secret, but she will understand I am doing it for her sake."

LEE'S SIX HIT HURLING TAKES 1ST GAME, 8 TO 1

Dietrich and Brown Lose 2d, 7-2.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox and the Tigers, swept continuously by a hot gale with interludes of dust clouds, battled and perspired to a standoff yesterday in a double-header in Comiskey park. Thornton Lee and the Sox easily took the first encounter, 8 to 1, and with similar ease and grace, Freddie Hutchinson and the Tigers took the second, 7 to 2.

It was the twelfth victory of the season for the veteran Lee and the third for the youngster Hutchinson.

Both games were interesting because of long range hitting and good fielding, made treacherous by the high wind. Gee Walker's homer with two on was the big swat of the first game and Ray Cullenbine's homer was the longest shot of the second contest.

The afternoon's entertainment ended the Tigers' 1939 business in Chicago and brought the tabulation in the season series between the teams to eleven victories for the Sox and eight for the Tigers.

The Sox left last night on a seven city road trip after a home stand in which they won thirteen while losing seven.

FIRST GAME

Action came early in the first game, for McCosky banged the second pitch of the afternoon for a triple to left center. Fox then grounded to Kuhel, whose throw to the plate sank McCosky. Fox was then thrown out trying to steal second and Gehringer popped to Hayes. Gehringer then retired from the game because of a stiff neck.

The Sox threatened in the first and second innings before launching the scoring program in the third. A pass and a double by Appling were wasted in the first inning and singles by McNair and Tresh went for naught in the second.

After McCosky had made a spectacular catch of Kuhel's drive at the start of the third, Kreevich singled and went to third on a single by Appling. Kreevich and Appling staged a double steal, Kreevich scoring. Appling held second while Higgins tossed out Walker, but Rosenthal singled, scoring Appling. McNair walked and was forced by Tresh.

Sox Choke 'Em Off.

The Tigers had the bases loaded with one out in the fifth, but the Sox ended the inning with an unusual double play. York and Higgins singled and York went to third after Rosenthal had robbed Bell of a triple through a fine running catch in right center. Croucher walked, filling the bases. Tebbetts fanned, and Tresh's throw to Kuhel trapped Croucher off first. When York tried to relieve the congestion by starting for home, Kuhel ran in, headed him off, then threw to McNair, who tagged York to retire the side.

The Sox pulled away in the home fifth, when singles by Kreevich, Walker, Rosenthal, and McNair produced two runs. The inning provided an interesting rundown play in which Rosenthal was retired on Tresh's grounder, Croucher to Tebbetts to Benton to McCoy to Higgins.

Walker Knocks Homer.

A single by Hayes, Kreevich's third straight single, Appling's third hit, also a single, and Walker's homer added four runs and made the score 8 to 0 in the sixth.

York doubled to center with one out in the seventh for the fourth Detroit hit and scored on Higgins' single to left. Bell fanned and Croucher flied to Walker. Coffman and Parsons formed a new Tiger battery at

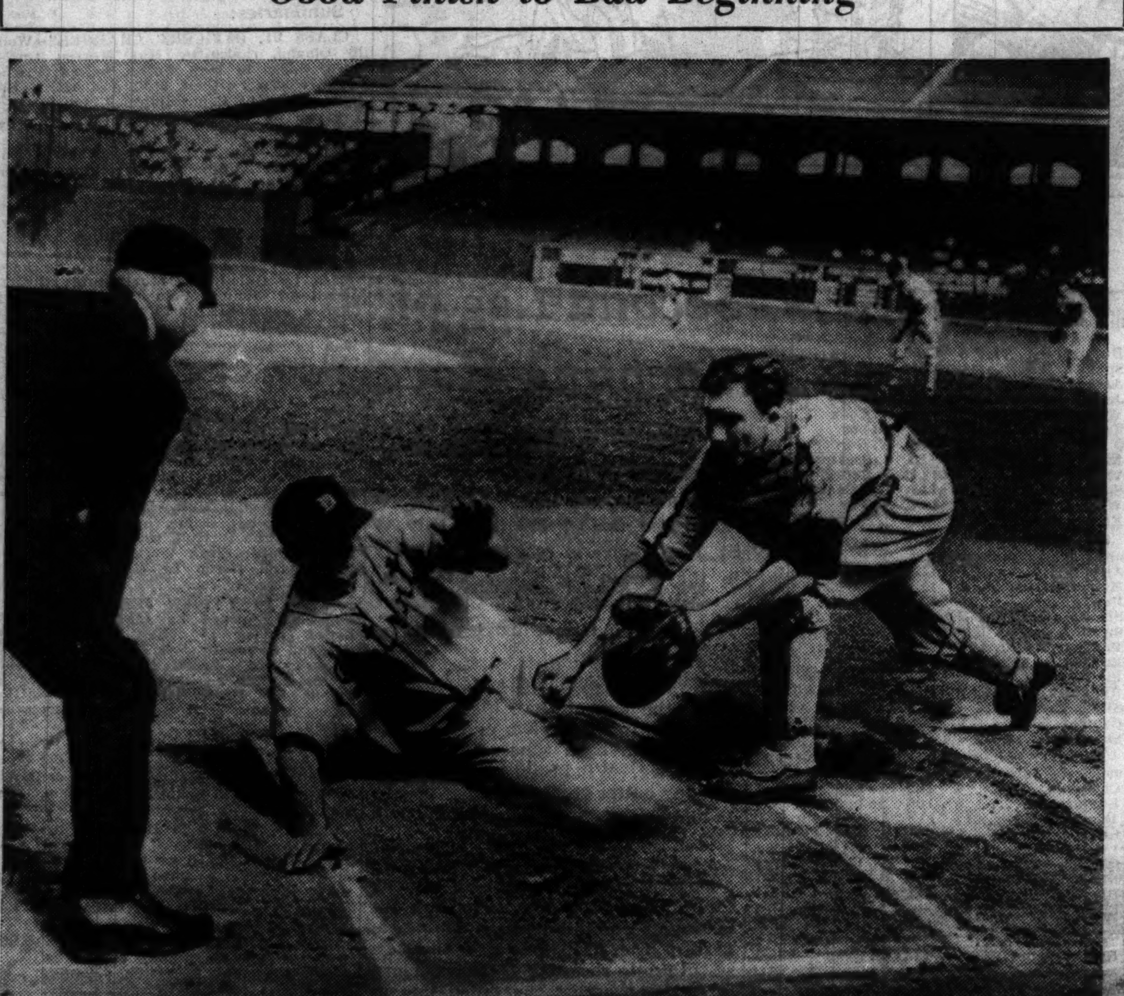
Good Finish to Bad Beginning



Barney McCosky opened the first game of the double-header against the White Sox yesterday with a triple, but the White Sox pulled out of the jam when Thornton Lee made Pete Fox bounce to Joe Kuhel and the Sox first baseman nipped McCosky trying to score. Hockey and Olympics Are Periled by War

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Athletic leaders, amateur and professional, paused last night to consider the effect of war on sports and found no immediate cause for alarm. Only the Olympic games and professional hockey appear to be in immediate danger of serious consequences from the outbreak in Europe.

Professional hockey teams are composed almost entirely of Canadian citizens of army age. If the Canadian government decides on Thursday to send forces to Europe to fight beside the English army and to bring conscription, National league teams may find themselves forced to play with American amateurs and schoolboys from the dominion or forgó the championship race.

McLaughlin Not Worried.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawks, admitted this possibility, but said there was no immediate need for concern since Canada would send its regulars to the front first.

"We have no part of the war so far," he said, "and I do not expect that it will affect attendance or interest in athletics. If the United States should be forced into the struggle, then it would be another story."

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, said the Olympics in all probability would have to be canceled, but that otherwise the war would have no effect on amateur athletics, except that it may result in a slight decrease in attendance.

"In fact," Maj. Griffith said, "the war will result in promotion of amateur sports. During the last conflict the government asked that universities and colleges continue their athletic programs."

Expect Attendance Increase.

War once before interrupted the 1940 Olympic program when eighteen months ago the Japanese surrendered the games to Finland to pursue their conquest of China. Although Finland is neutral and can be counted upon to remain so, it seems unlikely that she will attempt to hold the games when the rest of Europe is in the grip of war.

Baseball sees no need for concern. Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, and Charles Drake, assistant to President Phil Wrigley of the Cubs, do not expect a decrease in attendance or any other aftermath. In fact, both expect attendance at athletic events to increase.

"I made a survey in an apartment building during Sunday's double-header in Comiskey park," Drake said, "and I found practically every radio tuned to the games. Of course, the listeners were getting the bulletins interspersed during innings, but the fact that they had the games tuned in indicates that their interests lie in something more cheerful than reports of suffering and intrigue."

Grabiner and Drake admitted that the United States' entrance into the war would bring an immediate change, but, like the others, they were more eager to talk about the happy present than an uncertain future.

William Harridge, president of the American league, concurred with Drake and Grabiner. Unless American men are sent away to the front, he does not expect the present conflict to lessen interest in athletics.

AMERICA WINS TWO MATCHES IN RIFLE MEET

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 3 (AP).—Two small bore teams fired today as the rest of the more than 4,000 competitors rested up for Monday's opening events with service pistol and 30 caliber rifle in the national rifle matches.

The Americans scored 3,976 of 4,000 in the 50-meter, R. W. S. telegraph 22 caliber match for a new record. The old mark was 3,971, set by America in 1934. England scored 3,921 to finish far behind.

America also won the inter-allied small bore event, beating England, 1,963 to 1,954, in a 50-meter, 22 caliber match, with each country represented by ten veterans of the world war.

RED SOX FORFEIT TO YANKS WHEN FANS HALT PLAY

Paper and Bottles Shower Boston Field.

May Replay Game

WILLIAM HARRIDGE, president of the American league, said last night reports from Umpire in Chief Cal Hubbard would be weighed today or tomorrow and a decision handed down on the forfeited game between the New York Yankees and Red Sox in Boston yesterday. If a reversal of Hubbard's decision is found to be in the best interest of fairness to all, the game will revert back to the seventh inning, which would make the score a tie and necessitate a replay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—About 27,000 Boston fans indulged in mass hilarity today—and it cost their Red Sox a 9 to 0 decision in the second game of a double-header with the New York Yankees. The Red Sox had won the first game, 12 to 11. With the score tied after 7 innings of the second contest and 20 minutes left to play under the Sunday law, the Yanks scored twice. They then deliberately played into putouts, and the crowd hurled straw hats, pop bottles [one hit Umpire Louis Kolls in the leg], cushions, and paper plates onto the field.

There still was five minutes left before the legal curfew, but the arena was not in playing condition. So the umpires declared the game forfeited to New York. The Red Sox thus became subject to an automatic $1,000 fine.

Di Maggio Hurt, Comes Back.

The double header had plenty of baseball highlights, Joe Di Maggio breaking his 18 game hitting streak in retiring from the first game because of a slipped cartilage, then coming back to tie the score with his twenty-fifth homer in the second game. Elden Auker's amazing tourniquet on the Yanks' flow of runs in the opener to earn his 9th victory, and home runs by Ted Williams [Nos. 23 and 24, each soaring 410 feet], Joe Cronin [15] and Charlie Keller [8].

The Yanks started the eighth by filling the bases on singles by Keller and DiMaggio and Dickey's walk. One run crossed as Foxx muffed Peacock's return throw of Selkirk's forceout at the plate. Gordon doubled another across.

Cronin Will Protest.

With the 6:30 curfew ten minutes away, the Yanks obviously were given orders to make outs intentionally. It was the Red Sox's part to pass Dahlgren, since first base was open, to set up a double play. Babe swung at the first pitch. Cronin protested, but was quieted. Selkirk and Gordon each tried to steal home and were easy putouts. Then Cronin said he would protest the game officially in view of the farce.

The crowd, which had kicked holes in straw hats and sailed them into the field to celebrate successive

Australians Win Doubles in Cup Series

Haverford, Pa., Sept. 3 [Special].—With the war drums beating as was the case during the challenge round tennis series between the same two nations at Forest Hills in 1914, Adrian Quist and John Bromwich collected their all but shattered forces to keep Australia in the running for the Davis cup against the United States today before 7,000 at the Merion Cricket club.

After learning that their country had been the first of the British dominions to declare war on Germany, Quist and Bromwich went out on the stadium turf, got off to a faltering start that loomed as a portent of the complete extinction of its hopes, and then found the road to victory over Joe Hunt and Jack Kramer.

Wresting the attacking position away from the young Americans, Quist and Bromwich established their superiority by the end of the third set and closed in the fourth with a ruthlessness reminiscent of their omnipotence in the national doubles at Boston. The score was 5-7, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

Pate Quits as Captain.

Simultaneously with today's match, Walter Pate, nonplaying captain of the United States team for the last five years, announced that he would vacate the post following completion of the current series.

"I no longer can give the job the amount of time required," Pate stated.

The challenge round series now enters the final day of competition with the United States leading by two matches to one, Robert Riggs and Frank Parker having scored over Bromwich and Quist, respectively, in the singles on Saturday. Tomorrow, Riggs will play Quist and in the concluding engagement Parker will face Bromwich.

A victory in either match will ensure the United States' possession of the cup for at least another year. After Australia had taken the cup at Forest Hills twenty-five years ago Davis cup play was suspended until the end of the world war.

Look to War Service.

There was some doubt as to whether the Australians would be able to finish the series here when the news came that their country had followed England with a declaration of war. But Sir Norman Brookes, who was a member of the 1914 team that completed its campaign at Forest Hills, stated that there was no question of the current team carrying on the Davis cup matches to a finish.

Later, however, Sir Norman announced he and members of the Australian tennis team would hasten home immediately after the conclusion of the Davis cup challenge round tomorrow and would not wait for the national singles.

DERRINGER SETS DOWN CHICAGO WITH FIVE HITS

Champions Fall 7½ Games Behind.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 3.—The Cubs stumbled again today at another important spot in the pennant parade. They found Paul Derringer, their most annoying jinx, blocking their way so, despite their wishes, they tumbled into a pile of whitewash, the Reds moving on to victory by 5 to 0. So the lap recovered by the 1938 champions yesterday was lost and they're back to a point seven and one-half games removed from the National league lead.

Derringer showed no hesitancy about crushing the enthusiasm the Cubs had aroused within themselves as the result of yesterday's success. He was bothered slightly in the first two innings by hits and a trace of shakiness on the part of his pals. He was bothered again in the third, but was saved by a sensational catch on the part of ancient Al Simmons. The catch seemed to steady the league leaders and in the last seven innings only two Chicagoans reached base. It was big Paul's fourth victory of the year over Gabby Hartnett's club.

Lombardi Helps Derringer.

It was Charley Root's misfortune to draw Derringer, not to mention the cumbersome Ernie Lombardi, as opponents. Emerging from a slump of many weeks' duration, Lombardi got no results from a single in his appearance, but he corrected this in the fourth. He broke a scoreless battle by boosting his sixteenth homer over the fence with a mate on base. And Derringer hit safely for the second time in the fifth to drive in the third run off the 40 year old Root. What happened later was at the expense of Jack Russell, who was scored on twice in the eighth, one of the runs being nudged over the plate on Derringer's third hit.

The Cubs finished their last long tour of the year with a record of twelve victories and eight defeats. At St. Louis they broke even in two games and split four in two visits here. They also split a pair at Brooklyn and won two out of three at both Pittsburgh and New York. Their greatest achievement was at Boston where they won three in a row, but right on top of that came the most distressing setback of all. They were beaten twice in three games by the tail end Phillies.

Cubs Miss Opportunities.

The Cubs earned a chance for themselves at the very start when Hack singled, but he promptly erased it without assistance by being picked off second by Derringer. The Chicagoans had a better opportunity for run getting in the second when the Reds had one of their periodical wabbling spells. Jim Gleeson, subbing for Hank Leiber, who had an attack of chills, led off with a single but Nicholson forced him. Hartnett flied to center and Craft was gentleman enough to let the ball drift through his hands, but the error didn't bother Derringer, who disposed of the next two men.

The Cubs had another chance for business in the third and it wasn't their fault that they didn't collect. Hack singled to center after Root had fanned and Herman grounded to Werber. Galan hoisted a fly close to the left field line, but Simmons tore over, reached down with his gloved hand, and made the catch.

Root Escapes—at First.

The Reds walloped Root's pitching in the first three innings, but only three of their clouts went safe. Simmons and Lombardi singled with one out in the second, this being squelched by a double play. In the

$3,500 HANDICAP HEADS OPENING AT HAWTHORNE

Favor Potranco, Designer in Feature Race.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Hawthorne race track will open its twenty-four day meeting this afternoon with a program headed by the $3,500 Labor day handicap, a six furlong event for 2 years olds.

The Lexbrook stable's speedy performers, Potranco and Designer, which dominated the juvenile stakes at Washington Park, will launch another campaign at Hawthorne, both being among the twenty overnight entries in today's handicap. Potranco, which began his career as a $1,500 plater, has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds, his stablemate having drawn 121.

Potranco's prestige rests on his performance in Washington Park's Ravisloe stakes, in which he scored his sixth victory in nine starts. One of those winning efforts was cancelled by a disqualification. Designer, which the Lexbrook stable claimed for $2,600 in the first start of his career, won the Prairie stakes at Washington Park, his stablemate running second on that occasion. Because of these good efforts, the Lexbrook entry is expected to be the favorite.

Eight Stakes Planned.

Racing Secretary Julius G. Reeder has allotted 118 pounds to Darby Dienst, which showed considerable early speed in the Ravisloe stakes, then tired after setting the pace well into the stretch. Other entries include Valdina Nymph, Valdina Spy, All Lizzie, Sun Superlette, Pell Mell, Sirocco, and Billie.

The Labor Day handicap will be the first of eight stakes which will be run off during the four weeks of the meeting. The most important will be the $15,000 Hawthorne Gold cup, a handicap at a mile and a quarter which will be run on Saturday, Sept. 16. Nominations indicate that the 1939 Gold Cup race will draw a field in keeping with the traditions of this event, which has been won in the past by Sun Beau, Equipoise, Display, and Discovery. Among the eligibles this year are Challedon, Kayak II., Soreado, Thanksgiving, Nedayr, and County D'Or. The weights will be announced Wednesday.

Minimum Purse Is $900.

The six other stakes will carry a value of $2,500 each. The minimum daily purse will be $900. Each program will consist of eight races, with a daily double on the first and second.

Encouraged by Washington Park's unusually good meeting, President Charles Krutckoff and other Hawthorne officials are looking forward to their most successful season in recent years. The 1,300 horses which occupy all available space at Hawthorne and at nearby Sportsman's Park represent quality as well as quantity. Among the stables which will take part in the meeting are Valdina, Dixiana, Mrs. Kirby Ramsey, Mrs. Emil Denemark, John Marsch, Thomas Piatt, C. E. Davison, and Lawrence Baker.

Every Monday, with the exception of today, will be ladies' day. Because of the holiday it will be shifted to tomorrow for this week only. Hawthorne may be reached directly by the Illinois Central railroad. The Douglas park elevated makes bus connections with the track.

MILLS, COLORED ALL-STARS SPLIT; COALS TAKE TWO

The Mills broke even in a doubleheader with the Colored All-Stars yesterday at Mills stadium, losing the first game, 15 to 11, and winning the second, 10 to 2. The Spencer Coals won both games from the Elgin Stars, 11 to 5 and 11 to 2. The Mills and Coals will meet in a doubleheader today at Mills stadium for the Tri-State Semi-Pro league championship. One victory for the Coals will clinch the title for them.

Bill [Lefty] Stevens will pitch the first game for the Coals against Gregory Lippold, while William Hearn will be the Coals' pitcher in the second game against Tony Sims.

GIANTS WIN TWO GAMES.

The Chicago American Giants won a Negro American league doubleheader from the Memphis Red Sox yesterday, 7 to 2 and 13 to 9. The teams will conclude their series with two games this afternoon at the Giants' park. Scores:

Chicago	101	300	11*—	7	9	0

Batteries—Moss and L. Brown; Houston and Bassett.

STELLA WALSH BREAKS RECORD IN BROAD JUMP

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 3 (AP).—A record breaking broad jump by Stella Walsh of Cleveland, O., featured the national women's A. A. U. track meet today. Miss Walsh's leap of 19 feet 4 inches eclipsed her own American record of 18 feet 9⅜ inches, set nine years ago in Dallas, Tex.

The Negro squad for Tuskegee won the team title almost as easily as in last year's meet at Naugatuck, scoring 32 points. The Chicago Park Hurricanes team was second with 16.

Miss Walsh won the only other event she entered, sprinting the 200 meters in 25.5 seconds despite a strained leg tendon, suffered in the broad jump. She went on to run an anchor leg in the 400 meter relay but her Polish-Olympic A. C. team from Cleveland finished third. The Tuskegee squad retained its title in the event and the Mercury A. C. of New York finished second.

Katherine Hellmeth of the Chicago Park Hurricanes retained the two titles she won last year in the shot put and discus, and Marie Cotrell of the New York German-American A. C., again won the 80 meter hurdles.

Woman Picks 7 Winners and Gets $5,000

A woman handicapper topped off the season at Washington Park race track by winning the $5,000 Saturday award at the patrons' handicapping contest. This was announced yesterday by Walter Gregory, president of the Homewood track.

Marie Hayden.

Mrs. Marie Hayden of 1618 North New England avenue was the winner. She selected seven winning horses on Saturday's card, the last day of the 1939 meeting at Washington Park. Her selections bested some 20,000 others.

Mrs. Hayden, the wife of a typesetter, doesn't get around the race tracks very often, bue she likes horses and she knows how to dope them, especially after she has had a chance to follow them for a while. Saturday was only her second visit to Washington Park. She missed on the second race, naming What Now to come in first. It ran third.

"I don't know what I'm going to do with the money," she said after being informed by a track representative that she had won the $5,000. "There are so many things a woman wants. I'm just going to wait until I get the check and then I'll decide."

She will receive the award from President Gregory at the jockey club's downtown office, 120 South La Salle street, tomorrow morning. Thirty thousand dollars went to participants in the Patrons Handicapping contest this year. Of the seven winners of the cash awards, two were women. Benjamin Lindheimer, chairman of the board of the Homewood track, announced that the 1939 meeting was the most successful in the history of the track. With attendance far above any previous year, the mutuel handle was more than $800,000 over last year.

TOMMY ARMOUR, PATTY BERG HELD EVEN IN MATCH

Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge and Harry Adams of Medinah withstood a golfing onslaught of Patty Berg and Tommy Armour of Medinah in an eighteen hole exhibition match at the Indian Holl Country club yesterday. After eighteen holes of best ball competition the match ended even up.

Miss Berg, former national women's titleholder, ran into difficulty on the back nine, taking five consevutive 5's for a 42, after shooting 38 on the first nine. Miss Johnson had a 44—43—87. Adams went out in 39 and back in 37 for a 76. Armour's total was 38—35—73.

It was the first test for Miss Berg since a recent appendectomy. She will not, she said, compete in the women's western Derby at the Evanston club starting Sept. 11. She plans a series of exhibition matches on the Pacific coast.

More than 1,000 saw the exhibition, which was staged for the benefit of the Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind.

Yankee Wins Second Leg of Yachting Race

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 3 [Special].—Driven by a fresh south wind and a following sea, forty-five yachts sailed the fastest Michigan City to St. Joseph race in recent years today in the second leg of the triangular race starting and ending in Chicago. The fifty-two mile third leg will be sailed tomorrow.

Yankee, Ed Schnabel's racing sloop flying the flag of the Chicago Yacht club, won in the R class and took the universal division time prize for the second leg. Wind Son, Clyde Larish's cruising cutter from the Jackson Park Yacht club, was first in D class and won the cruising time prize.

Leg Measures 34½ Miles.

Burgee Fortune, the Richards-Chunn syndicate schooner from the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club, was first of the fleet to finish the 34½ statute mile race today. It was closely followed across the finish line by Benedict's Jackson Park Yacht club yawl Southern Cross, and Revenge, Ken Griffin and Blair W. Alliser's racing cutter.

Revenge's actual time of 3 hours, 25 minutes and 28 seconds, was the fastest of any boat in the fleet. The 58 foot cutter's crew declared the 11 knots [nearly 13 miles per hour] top speed and average speed in excess of 9 knots was the best it had made since winning the 1937 Mackinac race in a gale whitecapped sea.

Wind Blows Spinnaker.

A wind estimated at 35 miles per hour by Chief Boatswain C. M. Federson, commanding officer of the Colfax, coast guard patrol boat convoying the fleet, blew out spinnakers on at least five of the sailers—Apt, Southern Cross, Nanland, Revenge, and Breeze.

After the first two legs, Dr. Hollis Petter's Hornet led the universal division with a score of 33 points for the dreadnaught trophy. Ospry II., Dr. Jay Lowell's cutter, is leading the cruising fleet with 62¼ points for the Hamilton club trophy.

Cruising — A, Southern Cross, 3:29:37 elapsed time; 2:58:26 corrected time; B, Batavia, Christen J. Peterson, 4:08:03, 3:17:51; C, Breeze, Sumner W. D. Ted Mead's Little Audrey, a Sheridan Short Yacht club entry, was runner-up in 1:44:03. The final race will be sailed today.

Harvest Moon Wins First at Fort Sheridan

Silver, Polo Pony, Wins.

Monk, a 14th cavalry mount, took second place in the polo ponies class. The winner was Silver, ridden by Maj. Roye P. Gerfen. You Know, a Lester Armour entry, ridden by Roy Lavender, took third, and King Tut, a Robert Cudahy horse, ridden by Paul Voorhees, was fourth.

Drawing most applause from the crowd for a spectacular performance was Maj. Isaac L. Kitts and his famous American Lady. The 19 year old American army Olympic horse appeared in the Olympics in 1932 and 1936. Yesterday the mare repeated her performance, except for a few routine maneuvers, for the spectators.

They'll Do an Encore Today.

Maj. Kitts and American Lady will appear on the program this afternoon, when the three day show at the fort, given annually for Fort Sheridan and other army charities, closes.

To Lay Wreath on Grave of Bob Fitzsimmons.

Joe Choynski, who battled five rounds to a draw with Bob Fitzsimmons in Boston on June 18, 1894, will honor the memory of his old rival by placing a wreath on his grave in Graceland cemetery this afternoon. Members of the Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois will escort Choynski to the cemetery. They will leave the Sherman hotel at 2 o'clock by chartered bus. The event will mark the twenty-second anniversary of the death of Fitzsimmons, one of two boxers to win three championships. Henry Armstrong is the other. Armstrong, former featherweight and lightweight title holder, still holds the welterweight crown.

Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization welterweight, and Verle Davis of Kankakee are being sought for a six round contest in White City Friday. The program is topped by a ten round engagement involving Tom Kenneally, heavyweight stablemate of Motisi, and Bob Nestell, Los Angeles. Leonard Bennett, Detroit 147 pounder, may clash with Frankie Genovese of Winnipeg, Man., in a third contest of ten rounds.

Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, will stop off in Silver Peak, Nev., tonight to engage in an exhibition bout en route to Lubbock, Tex. Baer fights Babe Ritchie in Lubbock Sept. 18. . . . Willie Joyce, Gary lightweight, has gone to New York where he will open an eastern campaign under the direction of Al Weill. Weill manages Lou Ambers, who won a disputed decision over Henry Armstrong with Armstrong's lightweight title at stake on Aug. 22.

Pegasus Beats Huisaches for Polo Title, 12-8

The Pegasus club of Rockleigh, N. J., beat the Huisaches of Houston, Tex., 12 to 8, yesterday to win the twelve goal polo title on the Oak Brook stadium field. Buddy Combs, No. 2 player of Pegasus, drove in six goals. Second honors were divided by Delmar Carroll, teammate of Combs, and Billy Dritt and Harry Evinger of the Huisaches. Each scored three times.

Pegasus led, 4 to 0, at the end of the first period. From that point on the easterners appeared content to hold their advantage and take no chances with their tournament string of ponies which were sold Saturday night at public auction with the proviso that they would be delivered to their new owners uninjured.

Yankees Win on Forfeit from Boston homers by Williams and Cronin then brought on a riotous finish to show its disapproval.

The umpires conferred. There were still a few minutes left. A cordon of uniformed and non-uniformed police dashed onto the field and started to clear the débris. But they could not put the field in playing condition in time, and so Chief Umpire Cal Hubbard announced the forfeiture.

DiMaggio and Keller were robbed of base hits by a league ruling tonight on the unfinished game. American League President Will Harridge decided no record made after the seventh inning would be counted. Accordingly all eighth inning detail is thrown out and the final actual score is 5 to 5, but the technical score is 9 to 0.

SECOND GAME

The Tigers made as many runs before the first putout in the second game as they had in their last three contests in Comiskey park. Dietrich started things by walking McCosky, then pitched a triple to McCoy, which scored McCosky. Cullenbine doubled to score McCoy, went to third on York's fly to Kreevich, and scored on Higgins' sacrifice fly to Kreevich.

The Detroiters added their fourth run before anybody was out in the second inning. Croucher caromed a double off Hayes' chest and ran home on Tebbetts' single to center.

Sox Rally Bogs Down.

The Sox broke through with a run before anybody was out in the fourth, but were cooled rather abruptly thereafter. Kreevich was safe on Crouchers' fumble and went to third when Appling knocked the first hit off Hutchinson, a single to right. Walker singled to left, scoring Kreevich. Rosenthal fouled to Tebbetts, McNair struck out for the second time, and Rensa flied to McCosky.

Tigers Jolt Brown.

Clint Brown made his fifty-second relief appearance at the start of the eighth. He was in there in the ninth when Hutchinson made his second single and for the second time went to third on a single by McCosky. Freddie scored on a sacrifice fly by McCoy. Cullenbine then drove a homer, his third of the season, into the upper deck of the right field stand, scoring behind McCosky.

Ted Lyons, who sprained his right ankle in Cleveland on the last day of the Sox' last eastern trip, has no ideas of a Cleveland jinx. This afternoon Ted will launch the Sox' last eastern trip by pitching against the Indians in the same stadium in which he was injured. He will be opposed by Willis Hudlin. Edgar Smith and Bob Feller will fight it out in the night game.

Reds Score Two in Ninth.

Although the Reds scored only once in the fifth, Root's troubles were numerous. Myers started this inning with a thump which bounced off the concrete in center for a triple. He scored when Derringer drove out his second hit—a single to right.

Derringer was forced by Werber, Bartell threw out Joost, and Goodman was purposely passed. McCormick singled past Hack but Bartell knocked down the drive and thus prevented Werber from scoring. This gave Simmons a look at a full house but he popped to Hack.

In the eighth Craft singled off Jack Russell with two gone. Hartnett called for a pitch out on Myers, making the count 3 and 2, and Myers hit the next one against the center field fence for two bases, Craft scoring. Myers scored on Derringer's single to left.

Poetic Treason.

For ages have the poets rhapsodized
Of love's first ecstasy in lyrics sweet,
With subtle tenderness that is replete
With kind regard for something highly prized.
And I, a poet, too, should make sweet rhymes
For all the splendid things I find in you,
For all the memories of happy times
Which, one by one, have made my dreams come true—
Ah, I should night and day be deep in this Fine art of being love's gay sonneteer,
Extemporizing on each thrilling kiss,
And holding in my heart small dreams most dear.

Yet even poets sometimes rhymes forsake

WHERE A HERON SAILS, OUTDOOR ARMY MARCHES

Autumn Glories Coming to Forest Preserves.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Along 125 miles of stream-side trails, by lonely little lakes and trackless swamps, in oak glens that were old when the Indians held conclave there, by gleaming camp-fires in 2,000 secluded bivouacs, Chicago's army of the out of doors seeks refuge in the forest preserves of Cook county now that the days will soon turn into autumn's glory.

They follow the trail of the little green heron, from the shore of Wolf lake on the south to the new Skokie lagoons on the north. It is something of a triumph to the builders of this new marsh landscape to lure this wild bird into making these island groves a port of call, to see the white sails of the egret resting there, to hear the plop of a fish, to be able to paddle eight miles without seeing a house, along wooded shores where the new poplars shiver like "blown silver in the summer breeze."

Where Life Is Hard.

This is not an easy trail, for nothing in nature is easy. It is a perilous undertaking to be launched into life, even as a little worm in the bottom of a pond, for there is a giant crayfish nearby and minnows that look as big as battleships. The worm must build itself a house of sticks and stones and wrap it tightly about its body, and then, perhaps, spin a silken net to catch the food that comes floating down the current. Each organism has its peril and also its marvelous protection.

The little green heron demands the breath of solitude, a relish of duckweed or coontail, a course of top minnows. This in turn means a basic food chain which nature has attended to, with the aid of preserves naturalists have built all the way along this green belt, in the Sag valley, the new ponds of Palos Hills, along the Des Plaines. And now, despite the draining of the old Skokie marsh, it is on the way in this old watershed of the Chicago river.

It will never rival nature's own sanctuaries that have been left inviolate, such as McGinnis slough near Orland, where in the migrating season thousands of wild fowl may be seen, but it is something to have even one heron, a rail, a bittern, thickets of wildflowers, groves for song birds, a winding watercourse so close, engaged in its own remote way of living, unfolding the very laws of life.

With Nature all About.

The lazy fisherman on the bank watches his cork languidly and nudges himself, perhaps, to "hear beautiful tales of things, and the reason of things" in the multitudinous life about him—the low insect refrain, the water beetles like swift little motor boats scurrying around on unimaginable errands, the crayfish tower of mud on the bank, the periscope of the turtle that rises to the surface for a moment, the hunting birds that melt into the reeds. So much is invisible, all the microscopic worlds of first things at his feet, all the clusters of suns in the immense universe that opens above.

Not so the little green heron. It is merely annoyed at finding such bunglers about. This fishing is the business of life, it says, sailing away with a cry like the creaking of a door, to try it again around the bend. No idle dreams but a still necessity, for this and all birds and insects and every living thing. We have been studying this lesson since the time of the animal-plants, the crinoids, and the forerunners of our kingdom, the trilobites, that lived in the ancient seas and whose forms in rock may be studied today in the Trailside museum of the forest preserves.

We turn northwest, along the roads of history and pioneer woods, the portages and trails that first led into Chicago. In Elk Grove preserve there are elk and in Deer Grove there are deer. But these feed behind fences and are not so interesting as other things to be found there along the litttle trails that lead into the deep woods.

Wild Things of the Wood.

Count sixty blue winged teal circling over Deer lake. See the raccoon trail in the mud along the lake shore. A barnyard owl swoops suddenly out of a tree. Here is evidence of carnage, a fox meal and scattered feathers. There are wild grapes to nibble and May apples, already ripe, bitter crabapples and Indian carrots. Linden, hard maple, hickory, giant oaks enfold you. There are ferns at your feet and nightshade. A place on the trail shows where a pheasant had just been dusting. A ruby throated humming bird hovers over the orange cup of a jewel-weed. The arrowroot blooms white along the lake shore, and the red smartweed, cat-tails, button bush, gray dogwood, and golden daisies. The bull thistle becomes ambitious and waves its purple pompons like a drum major above the gentle swamp rose.

Her companion, Thomas O'Grady, 21, of 4731 Waveland avenue, suffered minor injuries. He told police that another car cut him off and he swerved and crashed into a parked machine. Police said he admitted having had a few drinks at a house party. They held him for the inquest.

FLYER IS KILLED IN RACE TAKEOFF AS 50,000 LOOK ON

Greve Torphy Finally Won by Chester.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—Leland F. Williams, 31 years old, was killed here today at the takeoff of the Greve trophy race. A crowd of 50,000 persons saw the tragedy. Williams' plane stalled and plunged to the ground in a queer tumbling fall in full view of the stands.

The accident was so unexpected that three other contestants were completely unnerved.

The three—Art Chester and Harry Crosby of Los Angeles and Tony Levier of Montebello, Cal.—circled over the fallen plane two minutes before beginning the race.

Chester finally emerged the winner. He gunned his plane to an average speed of 263.39 miles per hour for the 200 mile event, setting a record for the course. He collected $9,000 for his victory.

Second place went to Crosby. He was flagged down after completing seventeen laps at an average of 164.874 miles per hour. Second place gave Crosby $4,000.

One Fails to Get Away.

George Byars of Van Nuys, Cal., one of five scheduled to start, was unable to get off the ground. This left only four racers to head for the scatter pylon, where Williams crashed, reducing the field to three. Then Levier withdrew.

Williams' death is particularly tragic because it was his first attempt at air racing after he had acted as mechanic for Marion McKeen of Los Angeles, a veteran race pilot. He was flying McKeen's racer—a Brown Special with a six cylinder Menasco motor, when he crashed.

The ship landed upside down, but did not burn. Williams was killed instantly. The ship struck less than a mile south of the airport.

Back at the starting line McKeen was broken by the accident.

Four Race to Take Off.

The race opened with the four entrants in the 200 mile classic sprinting across the length of the field, taking off to the south. They were scheduled to head south a mile to the scattering pylon, make a 180 degree turn and head back around the ten mile quadrangular course.

Williams was off the ground quickly. He cut to the left under Levier, whose yellow Firecracker racer climbed more rapidly. About the time Williams reached the pylon, he banked suddenly to the right and the nose of his ship was pulled up vertically. The ship hung for an instant, then tumbled backward, making a series of loops—definitly not spinning—until it crashed.

Time Shows Delay.

Chester was the first to break away and started around the course. Crosby followed and finally Levier turned into the course and set out in pursuit of Chester, who was nearly half a lap ahead.

The times for the first lap indicate the delay. Chester's speed was 166 miles an hour. Crosby, who never got his wheels up during the race, averaged 119 miles an hour on this lap.

Williams' death was practically a repetition of the fatal crash of Frank Haynes and Rudy Kling, 1937 Thompson trophy winner, at the Miami air races in December, 1937. As in the case of Williams, both Kling and Haynes stalled their little racers while making a steep turn at relatively low flying speed and plunged to the ground.

GASOLINE SETS CLOTHES AFIRE; BOY THIEF DIES

Paul Fergon, 14 years old, 5036 North Long avenue, died in Swedish Covenant hospital yesterday of burns incurred Wednesday when his clothing caught fire as he was using gasoline to burn a handkerchief. HUGH R. WILSON QUIT IN PROTEST, OFFICIAL AVERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—An official said today that Hugh R. Wilson, who resigned as ambassador to Germany last Friday, did so as an act of protest against Hitler's drive into Poland.

It was asserted that Wilson had made up his mind for some weeks that if Hitler began a war he would immediately tender his resignation to President Roosevelt.

He discussed his determination with the President, Secretary of State Hull, and Undersecretary Sumner Welles and had their consent to act as he did.

Wilson began his new duties today as second in command of a special division of the state department created to help evacuate Americans from Europe.

GRAIN TRADERS STUDY EFFECT OF WAR ON MARKET

Expect Wide Swings to Be Prevented.

Grain traders, watching the effects of European war news on the market late last week, recalled the wide swings in grain prices in 1914. They said, however, that they do not expect a repetition of speculation on any such scale as prevailed then.

At the commission houses it was said that while the extent to which war demands might raise grain prices cannot be predicted, the principal trading will be confined to the North American markets, where price fluctuations are limited by government regulations or exchange rules. Trading has practically ceased in European grain markets as a result of the war moves.

Other Nations Impose Controls.

Another factor cited by Chicago traders was the rigorous control which nearly all major countries have exercised over imports and exports in the last two years. Also, European nations have large war reserves of grain, which was not the case in 1914.

Early in July, 1914, the September wheat contract sold as low as 76½ cents a bushel. Late in the same month it soared to 97 cents, and by August had reached $1.12 a bushel, up 35½ cents from the July low. In the same period corn rose 15 cents.

This year, September wheat sold between 60⅝ and 72⅝ cents in the July-August period. The 60⅝ cent figure set a new low mark for the season. Corn sold between 38⅛ and 49⅝ cents in the same period.

Last Friday, after the outbreak of hostilities between Germany and Poland, grain prices at Chicago soared 3 to 8 cents a bushels. Brokers were unable to complete transactions because of the limits on price fluctuations.

Supply 5⅓ Billion Bushels.

The world wheat crop and carryover for the 1939-'40 season, as estimated by the department of agriculture, is 5,387,000,000 bushels, the largest amount of grain ever on hand at one time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 3.—Noon Saturday brought an end to a spectacular week on the New York Stock exchange. In the face of the outbreak of the long dreaded European war, leading industrial issues finished with an average gain of around 1¾ points for the week. Advances in individual stocks ran to more than 10 points.

In two sessions—Friday and Saturday—the market witnessed frenzied buying of stocks especially of the so-called "war babies," which shot up from 4 to 15 points from the lows of Friday to Saturday's highs. Financial circles looked on the performance with amazement.

Report Stocks Firmly Held.

Analysts seemed to be of one mind in predicting that stocks would suffer, for a time at least, in the event of a European war. None, however, looked for a demoralized market, because the market's action indicated stocks were firmly held and that the exchange and the country were in excellent position to weather a storm.

Lower prices were registered Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Friday traders went to Wall street knowing that Europe had once again resorted to arms to settle its quarrels.

Stocks started to decline with losses running to 3 points. But observers could detect no wholesale dumping and dealings were orderly. Weakness continued until noon, when Italy announced she would refrain from military operations and the market rallied 1 to 2 points from the lows of the day.

Swamped by Orders to Buy.

As traders realized that the market had behaved exceptionally well, and that the conditions they had to contend with in 1914 were missing, a sudden rush of buying orders swamped brokers and forced the high speed ticker to run behind transactions on the floor.

The boom continued into Saturday.

Dividing Peonies

Sept. 3, 1939.

NEW beds of peonies are being planted in the flower gardens at the farm. The new plantings are being made from divisions of old plants that have grown for several years and have ceased to flower well.

The gardeners say that clumps of peony roots should be divided when they become so large that two dozen or more stalks grow from each root clump. They have found that September is an ideal time to divide the roots and plant them in new locations.

Peonies are regarded at the farm as about the best flowers that can be grown for early summer blooms, either for displays in the garden or for use as cut flowers.

First Prepare Bed.

The first job in making new plantings of peony roots is to prepare the bed in which they are to be reset. The gardeners first remove the top soil from the bed and dig out the clay until the bed is at least two feet deep. The clay is taken away. Unless the soil is well drained a four inch tile is laid in the bottom of the bed for drainage. Peonies do not grow well in wet soil.

Next some well rotted cow manure is mixed with black soil and a layer of the mixture is spread over the bottom of the bed. This puts the manure deep enough not to come in contact with the peony roots. Then the bed is filled even with the surface with black soil.

The clumps of old roots then are dug and divided. After digging a trench around the root clumps they are lifted with a spading fork. The dirt is washed away with the hose and the roots divided, leaving three to five eyes to each division. Any diseased parts are cut away and destroyed.

The roots are set so that the pips [the shoots that produce the new stalks the following spring] are just two inches below the surface. The plants fail to bloom if planted too deep. They are planted two to three feet apart in the bed.

Bone Meal Mixed In.

About one pound of bone meal for each plant usually is mixed in with the surface soil in the bed when the peonies are planted. No other commercial fertilizer is used at planting time. Some humus or a little complete fertilizer is worked into the surface soil after the plants have made one year's growth. Only small amounts of fertilizer are used at a time for fear of injuring the roots.

It takes a year for the new plantings to become well established. The gardeners expect few blooms the first year. They usually plant other flowers in the peony beds the first year. Once the peonies are established, they may be expected to bloom well for eight to twelve years. They sometimes last much longer.

The gardeners have found that peonies grow best when given an east or south exposure where they get plenty of sunlight. They will grow in shade, but are not likely to bloom.

Peony beds are mulched each fall with strawy manure, leaves, straw, or other litter to protect them during the winter. Although cold weather does not injure peonies after the first winter, mulching is necessary to keep the roots from heaving out of the ground as the soil freezes and thaws.

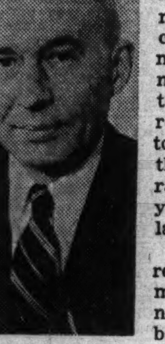
MARKETS PLAN USUAL TRADING AFTER HOLIDAY

Scheduled to Open Tomorrow.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.



John G. McCarthy, head of Chicago Board of Trade.

All major security and commodity markets in the United States are scheduled to resume regular business tomorrow morning. Exchange spokesmen said last night that plans to reopen tomorrow are unlikely to be affected by the formal declarations of war yesterday by England and France.

Because of the regular Labor day market holiday, no business will be transacted on any of the exchanges today. Banks also are observing the holiday. The Winnipeg Grain exchange will be inactive today because of a dominion holiday and is scheduled to reopen tomorrow with the American markets.

Most European Marts Closed.

The Liverpool grain market is expected to operate today on a restricted basis. Most of the other important foreign exchanges, including the London stock exchange, had suspended operations last week prior to the formal declarations of war.

John G. McCarthy, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said last night that a special meeting of the exchange directors may be convened before the opening of the market tomorrow if the step appears advisable. Many of the exchange directors, he said, are out of town over the week-end and an earlier meeting appears unlikely.

McCarthy said that the question of closing the market has not been considered by directors.

Action Depends on CEA.

"The exchange will not take any action toward restricting trading or prices without consulting with the Commodity Exchange administration," McCarthy added. The CEA, a federal government agency, exercises broad control over trading on the grain exchange and other commodity futures markets.

The New York Stock exchange withheld official comment on the plans for reopening tomorrow. Exchange representatives said that no significance should be attached to the absence of an official statement. All plans have been made to resume regular business, it was said. Governors of the exchange will meet at 9 a. m., tomorrow.

Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, said that exchange would reopen as usual tomorrow. He said directors are keeping fully informed on conditions affecting the market. There is nothing in the market condition, he said, that warants interruption of the normal trading schedule.

Ready for Emergency.

The exchanges are prepared to put into effect emergency regulations should a sudden wave of liquidation threaten to disrupt normal trading. Financial opinion yesterday, however, was that there would be no need for such action.

In Washington, D. C., officials of the Securities and Exchange commission reported that they were keeping in close touch with the New York Stock exchange and other security markets. A representative of the commission said that the SEC did not know whether the exchange would open Tuesday or not.

It was noted that President Roosevelt has authority under the securities and exchange act to suspend trading on national securities exchanges if the SEC deems such a move to be advisable. In Chicago and New York financial circles the consensus was that it will be unnecessary for the President to invoke this emergency power.

Grain Fluctuations Limited.

Daily fluctuations in prices of grains are limited under the existing rules of the Chicago Board of Trade. The maximum daily fluctuation in wheat futures, other than the current delivery, is 5 cents a bushel. Future contracts calling for delivery during the current month are permitted an 8 cent daily fluctuation.

In the heavy trading last Friday and Saturday wheat futures advanced the maximum permitted early in the day and brokers had difficulty executing orders throughout the rest of the day. Grain brokers said last night that it may be necessary to expand the price limits or remove them altogether if the market continues to advance sharply. Under the present rule it is difficult, they said, to carry out necessary commercial hedging operations.

Policy In 1914 Recalled.

Should heavy liquidation develop in securities some restrictions on price fluctuation might be invoked, it is believed. When the New York Stock exchange resumed business in 1914 after a shutdown of a little more than four months, minimum prices were established on stocks. These limits were gradually removed and trading restored to a normal basis.

The upsurge in the stock market at the close of last week, brokers said, indicates that there is little possibility that such restrictions will be needed.

The market panic in 1914 developed as a result of the heavy selling of American securities by foreigners. In the present situation, the British government has taken over the American securities owned by British citizens in order to protect its exchange credits here against depreciation resulting from hasty liquidation.

Sugar, Flour Sales Rise on News of War

Increased consumer buying of foods Saturday in the wake of war developments was reported from various parts of the nation yesterday. Meantime, with wholesalers, manufacturers, and merchants expressing conflicting opinions as to whether prices will rise, the legislature of one state was called upon to halt alleged profiteering.

Some Chicago merchants and wholesalers reported increased sales of flour and sugar, but others said they noticed no change. Spokesmen for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and the National Tea company said sales in their chain stores did not rise much above normal, but they predicted larger sales of canned goods as well as flour and sugar when buying is resumed tomorrow after the holiday.

Lawmaker Charges Profiteering.

In New Jersey, Assemblyman Donal J. Connolly demanded that the legislature take action to protect consumers. He charged that some wholesalers and merchants are using the war as an excuse to raise the price on basic food commodities.

Here are some indications of consumer reaction to the war, as reported by the Associated Press:

Minneapolis grocers said housewives had bought extraordinary amounts of flour and sugar over the week-end.

In Cleveland, O., grocers had an unusual rush on flour and sugar, despite heavy stocks already laid in for the canning season. They reported no change in prices.

Dried Beans in Demand.

Food brokers in Des Moines, Ia., said the war already had aided the market for such woods as dried beans and dried fruits.

At Scottsbluff, Neb., the center of a large bean proucing area, dealers increased the price of beans 35 cents a hundredweight.

August E. Gilster, president of the General Grocery company, St. Louis, said regarding food prices: "I certainly do not expect a runaway market. There are plenty of food supplies."

At New Orleans, La., the movement of foodstuffs was reported on the increase. Prices were reported rising slowly.

A. V. Fingulin of St. Louis, executive secretary of the National Leather and Shoe Finders association, said it would be "foolish" to predict price increases for shoes, although he said leather might go up.

STANDARD IN EUROPE.

I have been told that Standard Oil company [New Jersey] has large and important properties in Europe. Is this correct?—R. E.

Answer: Acreage owned by Standard Oil company [New Jersey] subsidiaries in Europe is small compared with total oil lands of all subsidiaries. Largest European holdings are in Rumania. The company also has small interests in Italy and Hungary. Standard's major foreign acreage is in Venezuela. Other foreign countries in which it has an acreage interest are Colombia, Peru, Mexico, and Argentina. Distribution of products is world wide.

WHAT EDISON IS.

I am interested in investing in a utility company, but do not want to get into a holding company. Can you tell me if Commonwealth Edison company is a holding company?—J. V.

Answer: Commonwealth Edison company is essentially an operating company. The parent company does all the electric light and power business in Chicago. Subsidiaries directly controled are the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, Western United Gas and Electric company, Illinois Northern Utilities company, Chicago District Electric Generating corporation, and Illinois Maintenance company. Commonwealth Edison is not primarily a holding company but does hold stock of affiliated operating properties.

BROWN REORGANIZATION.

I hold a 5½ per cent bond, due in 1946, of Brown company. The company has been in reorganization for several years. Does it usually take this long to complete a reorganization? What can I do about it?—R. C.

Answer: A tentative plan for reorganization of Brown company, manufacturer of pulp products, provides that holders of each $1,000 5½ per cent bond of 1946 will get a $600 6 per cent general mortgage bond, due Dec. 1, 1958; a $600 6 per cent income debenture, due Dec. 1, 1958, and convertible into sixty shares of new common stock; twenty shares of new common stock, and a minor cash adjustment.

The original reorganization plan left the 5½s of 1946 undisturbed with all past due interest payable in cash. Changes have been made because of conditions imposed by terms of a $9,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to the company. Reorganizations frequently take several years.

There is probably nothing you can do to hasten the reorganization. You may either sell your bond or hold it and obtain the new securities when reorganization is completed.

Chicago Firms Study Effects of War Abroad

Chicago manufacturing companies yesterday were analyzing what war will mean to their operations. They looked at war from two points of view.

1. What will the conflict do to their business? How will it affect their products?

2. Will war interfere with the importation of products which many companies must have from abroad to fill their manufacturing needs?

With respect to the first question the Chicago Association of Commerce says that despite the somewhat uncertain export limitations set up in the neutrality law, the war is almost certain to stimulate trade. As to the second question, a survey of a number of Chicago companies using imported raw materials shows that most companies have sufficent supplies to care for their needs temporarily.

Expects Trade Stimulus.

The Association of Commerce expects that trade stimulation will come from two sources:

1. Purchases of war materials.

2. Increased exports to neutral nations, particularly to South America, where the warring nations had large markets.

Among the Chicago companies which most likely will feel the first effects of the war are tool and machinery, steel, iron, petroleum, and aviation parts. Chicago's production and distribution in these divisions surpass most other American cities.

Other lines expected to be affected include the manufacturing of transportation equipment, ranging from motor trucks to railway supplies; textiles, chemicals, rubber goods, drugs, and surgical supplies, boots, and shoes, foodstuffs, and live stock, especially horses and mules.

Many Factories in Area.

The Association of Commerce estimates that the Chicago industrial area, which includes Cook and five neighboring counties, has 9,000 factories and in the event that the war is extended it is likely that at least 1,500 would be engaged in making war materials.

Although most companies using imported raw materials say they have sufficient supplies to fill any normal demand, several say that in a year they would need imports.

The steel companies use manganese, which comes from Brazil and Russia, most of that used in the Chicago area being imported from Brazil. Tin comes from South America, Malaysia, and Spain. Chrome, used in steel alloys, comes from the Philippines and Croatia.

Rubber Supply Is Problem.

One large Chicago manufacturer of rubber products said it has enough rubber until the first of the year, after which arrangements would have to be made. Most of this rubber comes from the far east. Synthetic rubber, it was said, is too expensive for general use and cannot be used in the manufacture of many products.

The sugar situation is causing some complications for the candy companies whose purchasing agents are trying to keep track of the markets. Chicago is the confectionery center of the country. Advances in prices consequently are of especial interest to the many companies that manufacture small bars and other items that sell for a few cents.

RATE CUT SNARLS NEBRASKA PUBLIC POWER PROGRAMS

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 3 [Special].—A rate reduction by the Nebraska Power company here has raised a major obstacle to efforts of the Loup Public Power district, a unit of Nebraska's public hydro-electric system, to buy the Omaha company, the state's largest.

Harold Kramer, general manager of the power district, indicated purchase attempts may be dropped, declaring: "We have been missionarying for the cause of public power throughout Nebraska and our efforts seem to arouse only resentment."

Kramer said the war probably would make financing of a large power deal more difficult. Private money in Wall street might be harder to get since war has begun and the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be expected to reserve its resources for enterprises connected with war or preparedness, he said.

RFC investigators who had been expected to come to Nebraska to look over the power situation have not arrived.

FAMILY GROUPS DOMINATE MANY SMALLER BANKS

Control of Outlying Institutions Shown.

Family groups and single individuals continue to hold a dominant position in many of Chicago's smaller banks, lists of stockholders released yesterday by the county assessor's office disclose. The tabulation of holdings is as of March 31. Few changes from the preceding year are shown.

Such families as the Swifts, Morrises, Brenzas and Regnerys have a controling interest in a number of those banks outside Chicago's loop district. A few families maintain working control in more than one bank, and many have interests in several institutions.

Several Corporation Banks.

Along with those banks owned by family groups and single individuals are those owned or controled by corporations. Sears, Roebuck & Co., the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and the William Wrigley Jr. company each have virtual ownership of one bank.

Ownership and control of some banks is difficult to determine. Shares are owned by a comparatively large number of holders, with no individual or family seeming to have a dominant position.

Frederick H. Prince, Boston capitalist, retained control of the Live Stock National bank. Of its 50,000 shares, he held 305 in his own name and 30,099 through F. H. Prince & Co.

Cummings Controls Bank.

William C. Cummings, president of the Drovers National bank and the Drovers Trust and Savings bank, remained the largest stockholder in each institution. He had 1,558 shares in Drovers Trust and Savings out of a total of 3,500 shares. No other stockholder had as much as 200 shares.

In the Drovers National bank, Cummings held 2,560 out of 10,000 shares. This was the same as in the preceding year. Harriet B. Patterson remained the second largest stockholder with 625 shares.

Majority ownership of the First National Bank of Englewood was maintained by J. M. Nichols, president. He held 1,200 shares of a total of 2,000.

The Skala National bank is a family institution. Frank J. Skala, chairman of the board, held 1,640 shares. The Skala family owned 1,920 shares out of a total of 2,000.

Corporation Control Shown.

Among those banks controled by corporations, the Pullman Trust and Savings bank was most completely owned. The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company held 2,900 shares out of 3,000 outstanding shares of this bank.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. held 2,283 shares in the Sears Community State bank, which has 8,000 shares outstanding. Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, had 683 shares. The Morris family also had a fairly substantial interest in this bank.

The William Wrigley Jr. company retained more than 80 per cent control of National Boulevard bank. Out of 5,000 shares, the company had 4,136 shares.

Swift, Morris Family Holdings.

The Swift and Morris families, which have interests in some of the loop banks, were prominent in a number of smaller institutions. Helen Swift Morris Neilson owned 615 shares in the Liberty National bank, and other members of the Morris family brought the total held by the group to 1,478 shares. The bank has 3,000 shares outstanding.

The Morris family also held substantial blocks of stock in the Halsted Exchange National bank and the Mid-City National bank. The Swift family maintained an interest in the Drovers National, the Drovers Trust and Savings and the Merchandise National.

Another example of family ownership was provided by the Regnery family of Hinsdale. This group held 14,109 shares in the Central National Bank of Chicago, an increase of 13,919 shares over their holdings last year. William H. Regnery, chairman of the board, owned 4,050 shares.

Holding of Brenza Family.

The Brenza family was dominant in the Metropolitan State bank. The family owned 1,086 of the 2,000 shares. John B. Brenza, president, held 496 shares and Julius Brenza, cashier, 238 shares.

George B. Everitt, chairman of the board of Merchandise National bank, held 1,935 shares.

In the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank Col. Robert R. McCormick with 1,448, Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening with 503 and Isaac Miller Hamilton with 486 shares were the largest stockholders.

Holdings in Pioneer Trust.

In the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank, John F. Amber, president, held 937 shares. John J. Rutherford, cashier, held 830 shares. Raymond H. Lovett, vice president, held 685 shares.

Irwin I. Altschuler, chairman of the I.-C. National bank, was disclosed as a large stockholder. He owned 792 shares of common and 283 shares of preferred outright. He also reported "special" ownership of 2,072 preferred and trustee ownership of 1,250 preferred shares.
